U. N. Prepares To Quell Congo Revolt

Gizenga-Led Troops Defy Government

Heir Of Lumumba Calls Conference Of Leftist Leaders

LEOPOLDVILLE, the Congo (AP)—A mutiny of more than 2,000 Congo government troops has broken out in the eastern Congo, the United Nations announced Wednesday, and diplomats said the defiance was under the personal command of leftist leader Antoine Gizenga.

The United Nations said the rebellion will be put down by force if necessary.

Diplomatic informants said Gizenga, heir of former Premier Patrice Lumumba, was directing the revolt against central government authority in Kindu, the Kivu Province town north of the secessionist Katanga Province.

Gizenga's open defiance of the United Nations and the Congo's central government, of which he nominally is a vice premier, was reported three days before a scheduled Nov. 18 conference to which Gizenga has invited all "true nationalists of the Congo."

He has summoned all left-wing leaders to set up a new Lumumbist national party—called the "Panalu" movement.

The mutiny was disclosed one day after a U.N. investigating commission said that in all probability Lumumba and two of his aides were killed last January in the presence of Katanga secessionist leader Moise Tshombe.

Soldiers at Kindu refused Tuesday to hand over 13 U.N. Italian airmen they had arrested and beaten last Saturday.

The U.N. Command has given the Gizenga troops until Thursday morning to release the prisoners or face "energetic action."

Gen. Victor Lundula, Gizenga's former army chief, has made a second trip to Kivu to seek the fliers' release after having been forced to flee on a first try.

At the north Katanga town of Albertville, the United Nations said about 100 Congolese troops entered the city and within seven hours Tuesday created an "impossible" situation.

A U.N. spokesman said the troops in Albertville arrested Europeans and Africans, looted houses, erected a roadblock in the town and tried to extort money from passers-by.

Refugees from Albertville reported last Saturday that Baluba tribesmen had captured the town from Tshombe's troops and that troops of the Congo central government were expected to fly to Albertville from Kindu.

The Katanga government has charged that the United Nations was assisting the takeover at Albertville.

Dowling, Clay Called Home

WASHINGTON (AP) — Ambassador Walter C. Dowling and Gen. Lucius D. Clay are returning to Washington this week to help prepare for meetings between West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer and President Kennedy.

Adenauer is expected to reach Washington late Sunday for two days of conferences with Kennedy.

The State Department did not say just when Dowling and Clay will arrive, but said they would participate in preliminary planning for the Adenauer-Kennedy talks, which will start Monday.

Clay, retired general, is President Kennedy's personal representative in West Berlin, with the rank of ambassador. He was top U.S. official in West Berlin at the time of the Communist blockade in 1948-49, and his return there in the summer symbolized a strong U.S. pledge to defend the city against Red pressures.

Dowling is U.S. envoy to the West German government at Bonn.

U.N. Action Is Ordered By U Thant

Secretary Dealing With Congo Mutiny

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Acting Secretary-General U Thant took personal charge of the situation in the Congo Wednesday and authorized U.N. forces to take "every measure possible" to put down a mutiny believed led by Congolese leftists.

The uprising in the troubled nation presented the Burmese diplomat with a new force working against Congolese unity and stability, which the United Nations is pledged to promote.

Another major divisive force, the secession of Katanga Province, occupied most speakers in a Security Council meeting on the Congo. Ceylon, Liberia and the United Arab Republic asked the 11-nation council to strengthen U Thant's powers to oust mercenaries from Katanga and stop arms shipments to Katanga President Moise Tshombe's regime.

U Thant sat in on the council debate after spending most of the morning dealing with the new uprising. A U.N. spokesman said he spent more than an hour in direct telegraphic communication with U.N. officials in Leopoldville.

U Thant told them to restore order in Albertville and Kindu, in the eastern Congo more than a thousand miles from Leopoldville.

He also ordered two top U.N. officials to New York for consultations. They are Conor Cruise O'Brien, chief U.N. representative in Katanga, and Gen. Sean McKeown, U.N. military commander in the Congo.

The spokesman said George Ivan Smith, director of the U.N. press office who has performed U.N. diplomatic missions in the past, will take over from O'Brien temporarily.

Dispatches from Leopoldville quoted diplomatic informants as saying that Antoine Gizenga, leftist political heir of former Premier Patrice Lumumba, is leading the mutiny in the eastern Congo.

This may present U Thant with a serious political problem. If the United Nations ends a mutiny reportedly led by leftists and is unable to stop the Katanga secession, the Soviet Union and some neutralists may try to blame the acting secretary-general.

The three-nation resolution in the Security Council, prepared before the new mutiny, is directed mainly at Katanga. It was introduced by Nathan Barnes of Liberia, who told the council that foreign interests are responsible for the Congo chaos.

West's Big Four Ministers Plan To Confer Soon

WASHINGTON (AP)—The foreign ministers of the United States, Britain, France, and West Germany probably will meet in Paris next month, the State Department announced Wednesday.

Agreement has been reached, press officer Frances W. Tully said, that the four foreign policy chiefs should get together to discuss "problems of common interest."

Although no exact date has been set for this meeting, Tully said, it is expected that it will take place in connection with a meeting of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization Ministerial Council which convenes in Paris Dec. 13-15.

Girl Kidnaped And Held 12 Hours In Cabin Freed

CORVALLIS, Ore. (AP) — A frightened girl, who came home cold and hungry but unharmed Wednesday tried to help police trace the man who kidnaped and held her 12 hours in a rural cabin.

Marjorie Schubert, 8, a university biochemist's daughter, was forced to lie on the floor of the abductor's car as he whisked her away from the sidewalk near her home at dusk Tuesday night. There was light only in an inside room of the cabin to which he took her after what she thought was a 30-minute ride.

It appeared that the abductor was a man of medium size, gray-haired, perhaps 60 years old.

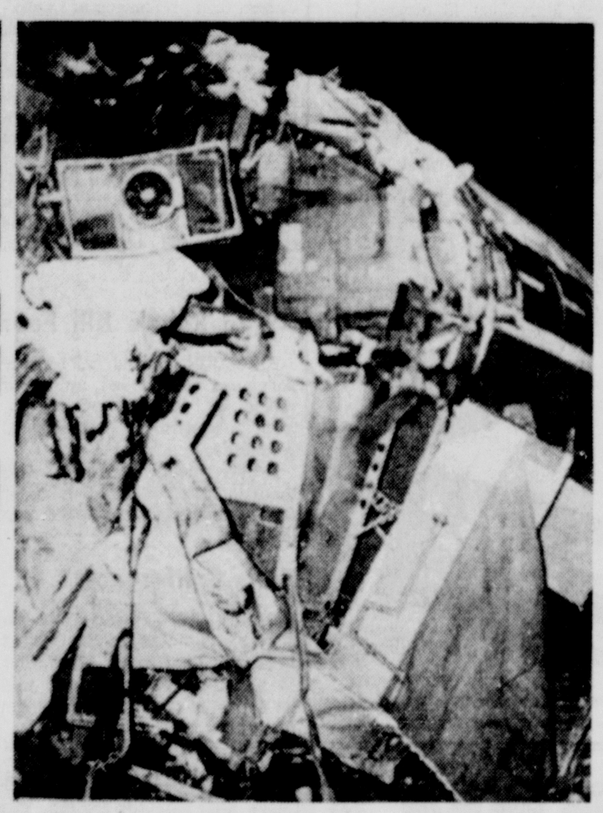
Marjorie, a 4-foot-2, 60-pounder who wears glasses, had been to afternoon choir practice at the Methodist church Tuesday and was driven to the home of a friend afterward. At about 5:30 p.m. she started to walk the two blocks to her home.

A man stepped from a waiting car, said he would drive her home, and when she refused and started to run, he grabbed her.

"He said to be quiet or I'll knock you in the head," Marjorie said as she was held Wednesday in the arms of her mother, Mrs. John Schubert. "He took me to a cabin in the woods."

A time or two, she said, the man rubbed his cheek against hers. And he kept her awake through the night by jiggling her elbow when she dozed. But he did not molest her in any other way.

Soon after dawn he took her from the unheated cabin, drove to within half a mile of her home and let her out. Friends soon saw her and got her home.



Planes Damaged In Collision

A National Air Lines plane sits on its nose (above) after colliding with a Northeast Airlines plane at a runway intersection at Boston's Logan International Airport last night. The tail of the Northeast liner (right) was sheared off in the crash. About 15 passengers were injured, most of them with cuts when they climbed over jagged metal in getting out of the Northeast plane through the open tail end. (AP Photofax)

U.S. And Soviet Urge Disarm Talks, Clash On Negotiating Body

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) —The United States and the Soviet Union expressed willingness Wednesday to resume disarmament talks as soon as possible, but clashed once more on the makeup of a negotiating body.

Moreover, the sharpness of speeches by U.S. Ambassador Adlai E. Stevenson and Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Valerian A. Zorin, opening disarmament debate in the General Assembly's main Political Committee cast doubt on chances for agreement in the near future.

Zorin wound up his opening speech by handing Stevenson a draft resolution that he said both countries should sponsor.

It would create a negotiating body divided equally among Western, Communist and neutral nations, and fix June 1962, as a deadline for reaching agreement on a draft treaty for general and complete disarmament.

At that time the U.N. General Assembly would be called into special session to take action on the treaty.

Stevenson departed from his prepared text to denounce Zorin's speech as "misleading and frequently abusive." He said he wished the speech had produced "something new and some encouragement for real disarmament."

"I earnestly hope that on examination the draft resolution which he has presented to me just now will give us some greater hope than his speech portends," he added.

Later Zorin accused Stevenson of trying to exploit the Soviet position on resuming nuclear weapons tests.

The U.S. delegate replied that Zorin's remarks amounted to "one of the crudest lessons in hypocrisy I have ever listened to." He said to Zorin: "Let's cut out this rhetoric and let's get down to the business of our meeting here."

Zorin devoted the bulk of his speech to a detailed exposition of Soviet Premier Khrushchev's plan for general and complete disarmament.

He said the Soviet Union favored control over disarmament and not "control over armaments." He accused the Western powers of coming up with "mealy mouthed proposals" aimed at blocking Khrushchev's plan.

Stevenson put emphasis on the plan President Kennedy presented to the General Assembly Sept. 25.

He said Kennedy's program represented a radical approach to disarmament, and had as its aim "total elimination of national capacity to make international war."

Macapagal's Backers Claim Filipino Victory

MANILA (AP)—Vice President Diosdado Macapagal, talking like a winner, took an apparently insurmountable lead in the decisive phase of the Philippine presidential election Thursday. His supporters claimed victory was already assured.

"We made it," declared Macapagal, 51, as late returns failed to give the expected boost to his opponent, President Carlos P. Garcia of the ruling Nacionalista party. However the leader of the opposition Liberal party declined to make an official claim of victory until Garcia conceded. This Garcia refused to do.

With unofficial returns from more than 75 per cent of the expected seven million votes counted, the presidential race stood:

Macapagal—3,009,891
Garcia—2,363,402

In the hotly contested vice-presidential race, Macapagal's running mate, Emmanuel Pelaez, slowly pulled away from Rep. Sergio Osmena Jr., son of the late president running as an independent. Garcia's running mate Sen. Gil Puyat, trailed well back. The count:

Pelaez—2,003,646
Osmena—1,806,768
Puyat—1,461,819

Unlike the United States, the Philippine vice presidency is decided separately from the presidency. Macapagal won as vice president in 1957 while Garcia swept to the presidency, then almost immediately launched his campaign for the presidency on the issue of corruption in government.

Garcia campaigned for his so-called "Filipino first" policy aimed at shedding alien control of much of the nation's wealth. Both candidates are pro-Western and anti-Communist.

Youth Employment Group Set Up By JFK

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Kennedy Wednesday created a White House committee on youth employment to help find jobs for nearly one million boys and girls under 21 who have left school.

Kennedy named Labor Secretary Arthur J. Goldberg to head the 23-man committee which includes cabinet members, business leaders, union officials and civic leaders.

New Wintry Storm Moves On Southwest

By The Associated Press

A new storm bore down on Texas and New Mexico Wednesday night as the two states counted seven dead since Monday in severe weather that left snow measuring up to 36 inches.

The Weather Bureau said a storm whistling down from the northwest was due to leave more snow during the night and Thursday in the mountains of northern New Mexico and the Texas Panhandle and Southern Plains.

Six of the dead were in Texas, where the heaviest snow was 12 inches in Panhandle counties along the New Mexico line.

New Mexico, where a 30-inch snow was measured at the resort town of Ruidoso, had one fatality.

New Mexico mountains had 36 inches of snow and drifts of up to six feet.

Freezing weather covered New Mexico and some parts of the Texas Panhandle.

El Paso, in a tip of Texas which juts halfway across the southern boundary of New Mexico, still struggled to break clear from the heaviest snowstorm in that city of 277,000 in 30 years.

El Paso schools, including Texas Western University, closed. Drifts in El Paso piled up to five feet.

State police and rescuers saved hundreds of stranded deer hunters in New Mexico.

Airports in New Mexico closed at Santa Fe and Clovis. Schools were shut at Corona, Carrizozo, Capitan, Hondo, Ruidoso, Elida, Causey and Truth or Consequences. Telephone and power service through the state at times was disrupted.

The village of Romero, population 40, had a 10-inch fall that virtually isolated it. It lies in Texas close to the New Mexico line.

Rayburn Clings Weakly To Life

BONHAM, Tex. (UPI) —House Speaker Sam Rayburn, 79, near death from cancer, clung weakly to life Wednesday night.

"The Speaker has not been alert since the last bulletin" a bulletin issued at 5:30 p.m., EST, said. "No apparent increase of weakness. Condition remains critical."

"He's tough," Dr. Joe Risser, his doctor, said. "These people of pioneer stock will stay with you and keep staying with you."

He began failing late Tuesday and his family gathered at his bedside in Dr. Risser's private hospital. But he managed to make it through the night, sleeping "unusually soundly."

Relatives visited him in relays Wednesday.

French In Walkout

UNITED NATIONS (UPI) — France walked out of the General Assembly Wednesday moments before the assembly appealed to President Charles de Gaulle to free Algerian rebels staging a hunger strike in French prisons.

The vote was 62 to none with 31 abstentions.

15 Persons Slightly Injured In Collision Of Taxiing Airliners

BOSTON (AP) — Two airliners collided at an intersection of runways while taxiing at Logan International Airport Wednesday night.

A National Airlines plane smashed into the passenger cabin of a Northeast Airlines Viscount, shearing off the tail section and the lounge and rearmost seats—none of which were occupied.

There were 40 passengers on the heavily damaged Northeast turboprop. The National liner had 20 aboard.

About 15 of the passengers were injured, most of them with cuts and other minor injuries suffered when they climbed over jagged metal in getting out of the Northeast plane through the open tail end.

The National airliner lost its right outboard engine, and sheared off blades from the propeller of another engine when it nosed over in a field at the side of the runway.

Some of the passengers on the four-engine, piston-driven National plane, slid to the ground through an emergency canvas chute.

High-octane gasoline poured from the smashed wing of the National plane, creating a hazard. A fire truck stood by.

The Northeast airliner had just landed on a flight from Washington and New York. The National was about to take off.

Civil Aeronautics Board inspectors moved in immediately and questioned members of the crew of the two planes.

A number of the injured were treated by a doctor at the airport.

Gerald Stone, of Syosset, N.Y., one of the Northeast passengers said: "We had made a perfect landing. We were taxiing—I saw the other plane coming.

"They hit. When I looked back, the tail was all jagged metal. It's a miracle no one was injured."

24th Discoverer Fired Into Orbit

VANDENBERG AIR FORCE Base, Calif. (UPI)—A wired-for-sound Discoverer satellite rumbled into orbit over the poles Wednesday on a mission to help develop spacecraft of the future.

An hour and a half after launching, the Air Force announced Discoverer XXXV (35) was in a "good orbit" around the world for recovery of an instrument capsule it carried.

Scientists hoped to recover the 300-pound instrument capsule from one to four days after launching.

It was the 24th Discoverer to achieve orbit.

U.S. Gives Up Battle To Send Red To Prison

CHICAGO (UPI)—The federal government Wednesday reluctantly abandoned its 6-year-old struggle to send Communist leader Claude Lightfoot to prison on charges that he violated the law by belonging to the Communist party.

Federal District Judge William J. Campbell dismissed the charges against Lightfoot, executive secretary of the Illinois Communist party and a member of the Red hierarchy in the United States, on the surprise recommendation of assistant U.S. attorney Donald Manion.

The Justice Department said in Washington it was "reluctantly compelled" to drop the charges because the Supreme Court last June set up a new, more stringent criterion for prosecution of Communists under the Smtih Act.

Manion said Lightfoot was dismissed because the government was not sure it could prove he had positive knowledge of the party's intent to teach and advocate the overthrow of the government.

The dismissal stemmed directly from the Supreme Court's ruling last June in the case of Junius Irving Scales, former Communist party leader in the Carolinas.

While upholding Scales' conviction, the court ruled in effect that a defendant could not be convicted merely because he taught and advocated overthrow of the government.

Rembrandt Painting Sold For Record $2.3 Million

NEW YORK (AP)—The Metropolitan Museum of New York paid an apparent record price of $2.3 million Wednesday night, for one of Rembrandt's greatest masterpieces, "Aristotle Contemplating the Bust of Homer."

The painting, slightly more than 4 by 4 feet in size, was done by the artist in 1653 for a Sicilian nobleman, who paid Rembrandt the equivalent of $7,800 for the work. This was only the ninth time since then that it had changed hands.

The Metropolitan's purchase was made at an historic auction at the Parke-Bernet Galleries, dispersing the magnificent Erickson collection of old masters. Bidding on the "Aristotle" started at $1 million and consumed slightly less than four minutes.

The previous record for auctions was the $770,000 paid in 1959 in London for Rubens' "Adoration of the Magi."

Six other old masters had gone on the block at Parke-Bernet for a total of $198,000 before the big Rembrandt was put on display.

Alfred W. Erickson, an advertising man, began forming his collection in the 1920s and bought the "Aristotle" from Duveen Brothers in 1928 for $750,000. After the financial crisis of 1929 he sold it back to the same dealers for $500,000 but in 1936, the final year of his life, repurchased it for $590,000.

Erickson left his widow, Anna, a life interest in the collection. She died last February. Because the estate was divided into 90 parts, it was not feasible to maintain the collection intact.

Navigation, Self-Stretch Devices Aloft

'Dumbbell' To Test Plan For Sending Signals Earthward

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) —Two satellites were fired into orbit Wednesday by a double-header rocket.

The Defense Department announced the successful orbit in Washington about 1¾ hours after launching of the 50-ton rocket from this base.

The Pentagon said the second stage of the two-stage Thor-Able-Star rocket burned out and then restarted as planned, injecting the two satellites into the orbit.

One was a Transit navigation satellite with an atomic generator, the other was an untried, self-stretching "Dumbbell," testing a scheme for concentrating space signals earthward.

The Navy said the satellites had passed over tracking stations in Australia and the Philippines.

It also said firmer information on the orbit data was not expected until about midnight.

200-Pound Satellites

The 50-ton, Thor-Able-Star rocket roared from the launch pad at Cape Canaveral at 5:26 p.m.

The satellites, each weighing 200 pounds, were aimed for separate circular orbits more than 600 miles above earth.

Officials here said the second stage fired as planned and burned for 285 seconds, then coasted through space for another 30 minutes before restarting for about 15 seconds to inject the satellite toward proper orbit.

The major experiment was Transit 4B, the fifth test satellite in the Navy's program to develop an accurate, all-weather space navigation system for ships, planes, and submarines. The drum-shaped package carried a small nuclear generator. This is the second such test aimed at harnessing atomic power for space exploration.

Transit 4A, launched last June carried a nuclear generator similar to the one in Wednesday's package. The Atomic Energy Commission has been extremely pleased with the performance of that device.

TRAAC To Send Out Boom

Riding "piggyback" in the latest shot was a doornob-shaped satellite officially named TRAAC —for Transit Research and Altitude Control. Its purpose was to check the feasibility of using the earth's gravitational field to stabilize a satellite with its face pointed permanently at the earth.

If all goes right, about two days after launch, TRAAC's spin rate will be less than one-hundredth of a revolution a minute. Then, a ground signal will be sent to activate electromagnets in the satellite and it will start following the earth's magnetic field like a compass. Six days later, another signal will start a satellite motor which will drive a whip-like boom —less than half an inch in diameter—60 feet out of the top of TRAAC.

In another eight days, a thin coil spring with a five-pound weight on the end will pop from a 1½-pound platform atop the boom and add another 40 to 60 feet to the length.

Robert Fischell of the applied physics laboratory of Johns Hopkins University, who devised the unusual satellite, explained:

"This gets the satellite into a shape which can be captured by the earth's gravitational field. The 100 feet or so distance between the satellite and the five-pound weight puts them on different gravitational fields. The pull is greater on the larger object. Thus it should stay bottom (or face) down."

Another U.S. Convoy To Travel Autobahn

BERLIN (AP) — Another U.S. Army combat unit will move along Berlin's autobahn lifeline to West Germany Thursday, continuing the Army's shuttle of troops along the Communist-controlled highway.

The Army said Co. E, 3rd Battle Group, 6th Infantry, will head down the autobahn across 110 miles of Communist East Germany and on to Hildesheim, near Hannover.

The outfit, commanded by Capt. Roy A. Atkins, Fort Worth, Tex., will return to Berlin Sunday.

Episcopal Bishop Pays Visit To Pope

VATICAN CITY (AP) — The head of the Protestant Episcopal Church in the United States paid an unprecedented visit to Pope John XXIII Wednesday and said later he hoped such meetings would lead to greater Christian understanding.

"But the road to Christian unity is sure to be a very long process," said the bishop, the Rt. Rev. Arther Lichtenberger of New York, after the 40-minute visit with the Pope described as informal and friendly.

It was the first meeting between a supreme pontiff of the Roman Catholic Church and a presiding bishop of the Protestant Episcopal Church in the United States.

At Rome's St. Paul's Episcopal church, Bishop Lichtenberger told a news conference: "We did not discuss our differences. That would have been quite beside the point at this time."

The bishop said the meeting was informal and marked by a most cordial spirit. "We were soon talking, even through an interpreter, as friends," he said.

The Vatican, on its part, described the meeting as an "affable conversation" and said Pope John was grateful for the courteous act of the American bishop. The visit followed a similar one last December by Dr. Geoffrey Fisher, then archbishop of Canterbury and primate of the Church of England.

Bishop Lichtenberger said he hoped that through such visits there might arise "increased understanding of those things we share in common as Christian people, which may lead eventually to a true dialogue between members of the Roman Catholic Church and other Christian churches."

Three Arrested In $6,000 Bogus Check Racket

BALTIMORE (AP) — The Federal Bureau of Investigation Wednesday announced the arrest of three Maryland residents in connection with a $6,000 counterfeit check operation in Maryland, Virginia and the District of Columbia last fall.

Arrested early Wednesday were Mr. and Mrs. Albert M. Roberts, of Glassmanor, and William R. Floyd, 35, of Marlowe Heights.

Floyd and Roberts, 25, were charged with conspiracy to violate the federal statute governing the interstate transportation of stolen property.

Mrs. Roberts, 30, and 19-year-old Kenneth Hart, a Michigan resident who was still at large, were charged with causing the interstate transportation of counterfeit checks.

Edward J. Powers, special agent in charge of the FBI's Baltimore office, said that more than 65 checks drawn on the account of the Potomac Electric Power Co. and payable to fictitious persons were involved in the operation.

He said the bogus checks flooded supermarkets in Washington and in the surrounding suburbs of Maryland and Virginia during late August and early September of this year.

Floyd and Roberts, arraigned Wednesday morning before U.S. Commissioner Samuel W. H. Meloy in Upper Marlboro, Md., were held in lieu of $1,500 and $1,000 bonds respectively. Mrs. Roberts was released on her own recognizance, Powers said.

Tawes Moves For Cancellation Of New Sit-Ins

ANNAPOLIS, Md. (AP) — Gov. Tawes called on the Maryland Inter-racial Commission Wednesday to "get together" with leaders of a sit-in demonstration scheduled for Saturday in an attempt to have the demonstration cancelled.

Edmund C. Mester, the governor's special assistant, said Tawes also had requested the interracial commission to meet with members of the Maryland Restaurant Association in an effort to solve the segregation problem in the Free State.

The restaurant group already has gone on record in favor of an equal accommodations bill, which it says it will back in the 1962 General Assembly. In the wake of the last Saturday's sit-ins, however, restaurant owners have indicated they may withdraw backing of the legislation. A meeting of the restaurant association's executive committee is slated for Thursday to consider such action.

Demonstrators' Trial Postponed

ANNAPOLIS (AP)—The Circuit Court trial of three Philadelphia Negroes arrested in a segregation disturbance at a Ritchie Highway restaurant last summer has been postponed until Dec. 18 at the request of their attorneys.

The case originally was set for trial Thursday in Anne Arundel Circuit Court. Mrs. Juanita Jackson Mitchell of Baltimore requested the postponement. She and other attorneys for the NAACP will be in the Maryland Court of Appeals Thursday arguing a case involving a sit-in by students at Hooper's restaurant in Baltimore last year.

In the Circuit Court case, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Williams and a stepson, Ernest J. Frederick, are appealing fines of $100 each on charges of disorderly conduct and assault.

They were convicted in Magistrate's Court at Ferndale after being arrested at the Hiway Restaurant in Glen Burnie Aug. 6. Police said the disturbance began after they were denied service. Postponement of the trial until Dec. 18 is expected to bring the case into court about the same time as that of nine white and Negro students from the Philadelphia Fellowship House who were arrested here last weekend.

Burned Servant Who Would Not Call For Aid Dies

WASHINGTON (AP) — Miss Maude Reynolds, a 64-year-old servant who lay suffering from critical burns for four hours rather than disturb her mistress, died in a hospital Tuesday.

Doctors said she had been burned over 85 per cent of her body.

The accident occurred the night of Nov. 9 in a third-floor bedroom of the home of her employer, Mrs. McCeney Werlich, widow of a U. S. diplomat.

Miss Reynolds' nightclothing caught fire when she brushed against a hot plate. Rather than call for help, she lay down on a bed and remained there until she was found by Mrs. Werlich four hours later.

Eichmann Verdict Reported Reached

JERUSALEM, Israel (UPI) — The three judges who have been deliberating the fate of Adolf Eichmann since his trial adjourned last August have reached a verdict, reliable court sources said Wednesday night.

Their written judgment of the four-month trial of the former Nazi officer accused of the mass murder of six million European Jews is believed to run about 300 pages, these sources said.

No date has yet been announced for reconvening of the court to hear the judgment but there was speculation that it may be set for any time after Dec. 11. The reading of the judgment is expected to take three days, informants said.

Fire Insurance Bidding Urged By Pressman

BALTIMORE (AP) — A Baltimore attorney asked the state treasurer Wednesday to call for competitive bidding on state fire insurance contracts.

Hyman A. Pressman, in a letter to treasurer Hooper S. Miles, said "I request that you at least try competitive bidding on state insurance before you decide that it would be useless."

Miles, in answer to a question by Comptroller Louis L. Goldstein at a meeting of the Board of Public Works Monday night, said there would be nothing gained in taking bids on fire insurance because the rates were standard.

Pressman said it has been proved wrong that nothing could be gained by competitive bidding.

He said in 1950 he filed a taxpayers suit to require competitive bidding on Baltimore City's purchase of fire-fighting apparatus.

Pressman wrote:

"The city presented sworn testimony to show that prices were standard and that competitive bidding would not produce a reduction in costs. Judge Emory Niles refused to accept this contention and he ordered competitive bidding. Judge Niles' decision was proved correct when competitive bidding brought substantial reductions in prices."

Navy Probes Cuban's Death At U.S. Base

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Navy said Wednesday it was investigating the death of a Cuban worker inside the Guantanamo Naval Base. Cuba has charged that Americans murdered him.

A Navy spokesman would not comment on published reports that two Marines were under detention at Camp Lejeune, N. C., on suspicion of involvement in the death of Ruben Lopez.

The Newark Evening News quoted reliable sources Wednesday as saying the investigation may produce information damaging to the United States in Latin America.

Lopez' body was found in a shallow grave inside the U. S. naval base at Guantanamo Bay Oct. 15. The dead man lived in a small town near the base.

Parents Should Take Oral Polio Vaccine To Counter Virus Doublecross

By JOHN BARBOUR
Associated Press Science Writer

DETROIT (AP)—Parents should take oral polio vaccine when their children do—to counter the risk of of a doublecross by hand-me-down polio viruses — an expert warned Tuesday.

The tame, or weakened, living polio viruses that make up the vaccine continually stimulate the body to produce protection against th more virulent and dangerous polio viruses that exist naturally.

These tame viruses in the vaccine also spread from vaccinated persons to unvaccinated persons—bringing polio immunity to a whole household or community by person-to-person infection.

But now evidence exists that this kind of hand-me-down protection has its drawbacks: The very viruses that are meant to protect may . produce freak son and daughter viruses that can sicken, paralyze, or kill, warned Dr. Joseph L. Melnick of Baylor University.

This means that an unvaccinated parent, for instance, runs a slight, but present risk, of getting a dose of illness-causing polio from his vaccinated child.

This is easily remedied by insuring that everyone gets the oral polio vaccine at the same time on a communitywide basis, said Dr. Melnick at a news conference at the American public health convention.

All living things produce an occasional freak or mutant. In polio it is estimated that there is one freak virus particle for every 100,000 particles produced.

Dr. Melnick cited a mass vaccination of 280,000 West Berliners in 1960 to show that living virus vaccines can produce more virulent mutants, and that these mutants can be passed on to unvaccinated persons.

The vaccine used in West Berlin was not the Sabin-type vaccine approved for use in the United States. Dr. Melnick said the vaccine used in Berlin had been experimental and could not meet the low-virulence standards set up by the U. S. Public Health Service.

Twenty-three persons were left dead or paralyzed by polio in the wake of the mass vaccination. Nine of them had never received the vaccine, but had had contact with vaccinated persons, Dr. Melnick said.

By checking the biological fingerprints of the viruses found in the stricken West Berliners, Dr. Melnick said his researchers found them to be the same strain as the viruses used in the vaccine—and different from the naturally occuring polio viruses recorded in the area up to then.

Wall Street Views

By JACK LEFLER
AP Business News Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — With the stock market averages pushing to new all-time peaks, Wall Streeters are raising their estimates of how high the current advance might go.

The Dow Jones industrial average's breakthrough Monday to a historic high was considered an especially noteworthy event.

Joseph E. Granville of E. F. Hutton & Co. calls its implications very bullish for a broad extension of the rally.

"No climactic action is seen at this point and this conclusion is based on the division of highs and lows," he said. "In October 1960 when an oversold general market condition developed, the division of highs and lows showed over 200 new lows and only three new highs.

"Inverting these figures to a market at a major top, it would be expected that a buying climax might occur with well over 200 new highs and about three new lows. With 103 new highs and four new lows Monday, the conditions most common at a major buying climax are absent. This is one more indication that the current rally is strong, is in an early stage and is capable of spilling well over into 1962."

Granville calls the market leadership excellent and says this enhances the probability that the industrial average may have little difficulty in reaching 750 from its current level near 730 and perhaps move beyond on this rally.

L. O. Hooper of W. E. Hutton & Co. believes the better feeling about the international situation and the Kennedy administration's "drive to neutralize its anti-business repute" are factors in the market's improvement.

"We can see the possibility that the industrial average may get up into the 740-750 area before too long," he says, "but we are not willing to go along with the 800 or higher anticipations we hear around Wall Street..."

About one-quarter of United States families which have an income of $7,500 have more than one car.

Soroptimists To Sponsor Card Party, Hat Show

Plans for a public card party and the club's Christmas celebration were formulated at the meeting of the Cumberland Soroptimist Club Tuesday evening at the Fort Cumberland Hotel. Mrs. Blanch Mantell presided.

A Christmas dinner and party will be held December 5 at the home of Mrs. Blanche Ridgeway, 704 Bedford Street.

The card party and hat style show, with fashions by May's Hat Shop, is to be February 9 at the Woman's Civic Club house. Mrs. Pauline Chenowith is general chairman, assisted by ticket committee, Mrs. Mary Beth Wheeler, Mrs. Marie Seymour. Mrs. Alberta Lindner; refreshments, Mrs. Alice DeHaven, Mrs. Maxine Doak, Mrs. Ridgway, Mrs. Nellie Crites. Mrs. DeHaven also is in charge of publicity; Mrs. Mantell, prizes and Mrs. Leoni Miller, the sweets table.

In observance of International Goodwill and Understanding Week, Dr. Calvin Y. Hadidan spoke on his native Lebanon. He told of the country and the customs. A question period followed.

Mrs. Albert C. Brant, 912 Bedford Street, is a medical patient in Sacred Heart Hospital.

Grove 11 To Drape Charter

The Supreme Forest Woodman Circle, Queen City Grove II, will meet Saturday at the Woodman of the World Home, 144 Union Street. A covered dish supper will be held at 6 o'clock, for members, followed by the regular business session. Fruit cakes will be for sale.

The charter is to be draped for Mrs. Evelyn Guthridge.

Each member may bring a guest. Concluding the meeting a social hour will be planned and games are to be played.

Plans for the jingle party, to be held December 9, are to be completed and names selected for jingles. Reservations are to be made Saturday night.

Cresaptown Society Awards Life Membership

An honorary "life membership" pin was presented to Mrs. Lucinda Thompson by the Woman's Society of Christian Service of Cresaptown Methodist Church. The presentation was made by Miss Evelyn May, chairman, during the workshop and officers training day, held Tuesday at the church.

Twenty pins have been presented during the 21 years of the society. Others who have received them are Miss Dora Lewis, Mrs. Alton Walston, Mrs. Louis Chastain, Mrs. J. H. Hershberger, Mrs. Flora Logsdon, Mrs. Edna Lafferty, Mrs. Raymond Crowe, Mrs. John Smith, Mrs. Clara Lewis, Miss Evelyn May, Mrs. Bertha Judy, Mrs. Annie Shank, Miss Susan Smith, Mrs. Edward Lewis, Mrs. Trubador Lewis, Mrs. Edgar Hounshell, Mrs. Elmer Broadwater, Mrs. W. O. Winters, Mrs. Arlie Borror; Elaine Chastain, a special membership; and Mrs. S. E. Powell, a new member and transfer from the Hedgesville, W. Va., church, also is a "life member."

Mrs. Lester McGill, president, and Mrs. Hounshell, promotion secretary, were in charge of the arrangements for the workshop. Sessions were conducted by district officers, Mrs. Harry Bender, promotion secretary; Mrs. R. Finley Thompson, president; and Mrs. Robert C. Nimon, youth work. Each spoke of different phases of work on the local, district and conference level. Then conducted a question and answer period. Mrs. Bender offered prayer and showed a film, "The World in a Word." Mrs. James Armstrong, Mrs. Caleb White, Mrs. Carl Whitten, Mrs. Brownlee Armstrong and Mrs. Herman Duckworth, of the Rawlings society, also participated.

During the business session, following the workshop, the society voted to give $50 toward the new youth choir robes and the entire $450 for the purchase of new draperies for the parsonage. Plans also were completed for preparing and serving refreshments for the open house to be held at the new parsonage Sunday from 2 until 5 p. m.

It was announced that 51 persons attended the World Community Day program at the Cresaptown church; that the World Day of Prayer envelopes are to be returned to Mrs. Martin Johnson as soon as possible; that the "kitchen rules" approved by the official board of the church are in effect, and reservation for the use of the kitchen must be made with Mrs. William Riley; and the society will serve the Ministerial Association a luncheon on December 4. Mrs. Riley gave her report and Miss May was in charge of the pledge collection. Mrs. Fred Willison reported all the apple butter has been sold and there are approximately 80 cook books remaining. Mrs. Foster Glover reported 135 calls made during the month, to sick and shut-ins.

The next meeting will be in the form of a Christmas observance December 12 at the church. Mrs. Edward Lewis will have the program; Miss May and Mrs. Acye Poland will be in charge of refreshments. There is to be a jingle exchange.

Program booklets on the theme, "The Household of God" were distributed. Monthly leaders are September, Mrs. Johnson; October, Mrs. Fred Willison; November, Mrs. Hounshell; December, Mrs. Edward Lewis; January, Miss Simith; February, Mrs. McGill,; March, Mrs. W. A. Judy; April, Mrs. William Balderson; May, Mrs. Thomas Beachy; June, Mrs. Borror; July, Mrs. Hubert Martz and Mrs. Ellsworth Lewis; and August, Mrs. Riley.

A rummage sale will be held Saturday from 10 until 2, at 79 North Centre Street, by the Woman's Sport Club.

Betty Marie Smith Is Bride Of Joseph W. Metz

Miss Betty Marie Smith, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Smith, Church Hill, Midland, became the bride of Joseph William Metz, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Metz, Big Lane, Midland, November 4. The double ring ceremony was solemnized in St. Joseph's Catholic Church with Rev. John Sleeman officiating.

Miss Jane Rita Hughes was her cousin's maid of honor, while Jerry Clise served as best man. The ushers were Neil Jones and Joseph Seib, uncle of the bride.

The bride is a graduate of Valley High School, class of 1961 and the bridegroom of Beall High School, class of 1957. He is employed at the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company.

Given in marriage by her uncle, Raymond Buckalew, the bride wore a street-length dress of white chiffon, with full skirt and three-quarter-length sleeves. Her bouquet of white pompons, she dedicated to the Blessed Mother, while the choir sang, "Mother at Your Feet I'm Kneeling," with Sister Antoinette at the organ. She carried a white missal, topped with a white orchid.

The wedding reception was held at the American Legion Post 169. A five-tiered cake, topped with a miniature bride and bridegroom centered the table. Mrs. Peter Briner served the cake, assisted by Mrs. William Leake, Mrs. William Snyder, and Mrs. Melvin Schriver. Peter Briner and Kenneth Burt presided at the punchbowls. Entertainment was by the

Jane's Says Soviet Reorganizing Navy In Face Of U.S. Nuclear Dominance Of Seas

By ROBERT MUSEL

LONDON, (UPI) — Russia is urgently reorganizing its Navy in the face of growing American nuclear dominance on, above and under the seas, the authoritative Janes's Fighting Ships reported Tuesday.

The new edition of the reference book was published coincident with a belief in naval circles that Russia is trying to develop a torpedo with a nuclear warhead in an effort to counter the American armada of 58 aircraft carriers.

In the event of war the carriers could loose hundreds of planes carrying nuclear weapons against Russian targets. One of the top Soviet priorities is how to deal with this threat to its lifelines.

Russia, with more submarines than the rest of the world combined, is expected in any future war to try to saturate the oceans with its underseas craft. If it could perfect an atomic torpedo it would intensify the danger to Allied ships.

Jane's said the United States has two nuclear warheaded torpedoes designed as submarine killers — "Subroc" and "Astor." But until now there have not been any reports of Russian progress in this field.

Jane's said the major reorganization of the Russian navy is so thorough that Premier Nikita S. Knrushchev has had to reverse the opinion — freely offered the U.S. Navy during his San Francisco visit—that the cruiser is obsolete.

Russia is keeping all the cruisers it has built in recent years and some of them apparently are being converted into guided missile ships. In this category of warships, as in every important one except submarines, the United States outnumbers Russia—47 cruisers to 25.

The Soviet dependence on the submarine as its main weapon of sea warfare once again is the feature of the U.S. naval setup although Jane's said the "frightening figure" of 500 undersea craft under the Red flag has been reduced to about 430. The United States has 150 submarines.

Jane's doubts Russia's recent claim that it has more, faster and more heavily armed nuclear-powered submarines than the United States.

"The U.S. record in this field stands so high at present, and she has such a good start (23 nuclear powered submarines have been completed of. which 7 are Polaris missile armed) that it is doubtful if her achievement can have been surpassed," Jane's said.

The reference work said the most reliable reports indicate Russia has between 6 and 12 nuclear powered submarines com-p'eted or being completed and probably has 18 conventionally-powered submarines equipped with guided missiles.

Editor Raymond Blackman said the stepped-up Polaris submarine program would give the United States 80 ready-to-fire Polaris missiles at sea by the end of the year with new nuclear-powered ballistic missile submarines going into service at the rate of one a month.

ACF Says Decision To Close Plant Stands

NEW YORK (AP) — The board chairman of ACF Industries, Inc., told Pennsylvania Gov. David L. Lawrence Tuesday the firm will not reconsider its decision to close down its Berwick, Pa., railroad car plant.

Lawrence, after meeting with ACF Chairman William T. Taylor and other officials here, said:

"They indicated quite definitely there is no turning back."

He reported that he saw "no hope for the present" to change ACF's plans, but added that he "is not foreclosing the possibility."

Woman To Woman

By PATRICIA McCORMACK

NEW YORK (UPI) — Hospitals brush up on patients' inner needs now want to push the art cart as standard hospital equipment.

The art cart is a means of distributing pictures to patients on an individual loan basis. It is similar in operation to the library cart.

In hospitals where the art cart is a part of the modus operandi, small reproductions of art are wheeled around on a cart so that patients may select pictures to hang beside or naer their beds.

The last word on the art movement in hospitals is contained in a new report issued by the United Hospital Fund of New York.

The unit's committee on art for hospitals collected and placed some 2,500 pictures in 58 voluntary hospitals, 17 municipal hospitals and 12 convalescent homes since its establishment in 1951.

The report contains a psychiatric endorsement of the art in hospitals ideas.

Dr. John M. Cotton, director of psychiatry at St. Luke's, put it this way:

"Visual art affects the emotions and its proper use can help stimulate responses and mental attitudes favorable to recovery.

"The therapeutic value may begin as the patient enters the hospital and sees fine paintings appropriately placed. This helps to allevate the apprehension and anxiety which accompany such an experience."

Another expert cited in the report is Dr. Howard A. Rusk, director of the Institute of Physical Medicine and Rehabilitation at New York University Medical Center.

"One of the most significant changes in hospitals in recent years is our recognition of the effect which the patient's environment has upon his recovery," he said.

"All of us enjoy good paintings, but good painting takes on a new emotional perspective and depth . . . when we are hospitalized."

Ship Runs Aground

SYDNEY, Australia (UPI)—The 5,800-ton Italian motorship Antonio Taraboobia radioed Tuesday it had run aground on Bougainville Reef 160 miles southeast of Garins. The message said the ship was not damaged. Tugs were standing by to try to pull it off the reef.

Approximately one-half of all the swimming pools in the United States are private pools.

Polar Scientists Study Snow That Fell Before Revolutionary War

By FRANK CREY

SOUTH POLE STATION, Antarctica (AP)—Deep beneath this station, scientists are studying snow that fell long before the American Revolutionary War.

They say their research suggests the possibility of building camps of foam plastic and food storage sites in caves far beneath the surface. This was reported by researchers who took two reporters into an experimental cave dug 90 feet deep into the snow and ice cap covering the bottom of the world.

The temperature down there was 60 below zero. On the surface, at the South Pole it was only—only?—47 below.

At the bottom you can throw "snowballs" made of snow estimated to have fallen 200 to 250 years ago. The estimates are based on visible stratifications which indicate roughly the amounts of snowfall in a given year—something like tree rings.

Researchers Rene O. Ramseier and Edward J. Oliver from the Army Cold Regions Research Laboratory at Hanover, N.H., said special studies begun 10 months ago show that at the 90-foot depth the tunnel narrows only about a third of an inch a year, thanks to the extreme cold and the strength of the snow at this level.

Thus, they said, it is conceivable that buildings made of relatively inexpensive foam plastic could be constructed at this depth and last decades without fear of being squeezed by the surrounding snow.

The tunnel was dug five years ago for other studies, and has been little used since.

Now, in addition to the studies by Ramseier and Oliver, snow samples are being collected at various levels for Dr. Henry Bader of the University of Miami, who plans to study them for content of "dust" from the moon and meteors over the ages.

The plan is to extend the mine another 60 feet in the next few months, that much further back into time.

WASHINGTON (UPI)— The Navy has awarded fuel oil contracts totalling more than $17 million. The three firms receiving them were: Esso International, Inc., New York, $7,758,850; Texaco Export, Inc., New York, $5,920,200; and the Shell Caribbean Petroleum Co., New York.

ENGLEWOOD CLIFFS, N.J. (UPI)—In the face of a general decline in U.S. sales of foreign cars, Volkswagen of America reported Tuesday that its sales in the first nine months of 1961 rose by 10.7 per cent from a year ago to 154,759 units.

NEW YORK (UPI)—Directors of Chemway Corp. and Weco Products Co. Tuesday announced approval of a merger proposal.

The merger involves an exchange of two shares of Chemway for each share of Weco common stock. Chemway has already contracted to purchase a large block of Weco stock from some members of the Woodside family, for $18 a share.

CHICAGO (UPI)—Bell & Howell Co. Tuesday announced establishment of a mail order subsidiary.

The new operation, to be known as the Robert Maxwell Co., will develop mail order sales "'for a select group" of non-photographic consumer products of other companies as well as B&H products.

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Three companies have been awarded Army contracts to build three test versions of a new light observer helicopter. Hiller Aircraft, a subsidiary of Electric Autolite Co. was awarded $6,542,375, Hughes Tool companies' aircraft division $6,352,879, and Bell Helicopter Co., $5,782,019.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (UPI)—Red Owl Stores Inc. is winding up negotiations for acquisition of Snyder's Drug Stores Inc. Terms of the acquisition of Snyder's, which operates 21 self-service drug stores in four Minnesota cities, were not disclosed.

METUCHEN, N.J. (UPI)—Gulton Industries Inc. has been awarded over $1 million in contracts for a variety of instruments and systems to be incorporated into the Air Force Titan II ICBM program. Martin is the prime contract for the Titan II program.

NEW YORK (UPI) — Precision Castings Co. Tuesday announced plans to expand its facilities at Fayetteville, N.Y. The company will spend more than $250,000 for new equipment, expanded production facilities and enlargement of the Fayetteville building.

Baltimore National Bank Changes Name

BALTIMORE (AP) — The Baltimore National Bank has changed its name to the Maryland National Bank, it was announced Tuesday by Hooper S. Miles, chairman of the board.

The announcement of the new name came after a special meeting of the bank's stockholders and the approval by the comptroller of the currency.

Baltimore National and the County Trust Co. of Maryland consolidated Nov. 3 as the Balitmore National Bank. At that time, officials announced the name would be changed to indicate more accurately the scope of the bank's operations.

The bank has a total of 59 offices in metropolitan Baltimore, the Eastern Shore and Southern Maryland.

Water Soup

WARSAW (UPI) — Police said Tuesday they have arrested more than 20 employes of Warsaw's Praha Restaurant on charges of watering the soup and coffee and embezzling funds.

Texas Operates Tight Welfare Program

By CARLTON WILSON

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI)—A tight-fisted policy in Texas keeps welfare rolls at a minimum and monthly checks lower than the national average.

Payments may be forced still lower next year because of a unique state constitutional limit, according to John H. Winters, commissioner of public welfare for 18 years.

"Ours is a pretty limited program," he said. "Some states are much more liberal than Texas."

Winters cited June figures on nationa. average welfare payments to show Texas was behind 40 other states in checks for the aged, 44 states in aid to dependent children, 40 in aid to the blind and 41 in aid to the disabled.

The Texas Constitution puts a $47 million ceiling on funds that can be paid by the state to match federal money for the aged, blind and dependent children. There is a $1.5 million state fund limit on aid to the disabled.

Pending constitutional amendments would raise those ceilings to $52 million and $3 million, Winters added.

State Carries Load

The state assumes all administrative responsibility for the four major welfare programs. Texas maintains 350 welfare offices to process claims. Its 738 case workers have an average work load of 353 cases, double the national average.

Some 221,000 Texans over 65 qualify for old age assistance, the largest welfare program. Average monthly checks total $54, below the national average of $67 which includes medical care.

Texas begins a medical care program for the aged in 1962, with federal funds to pay about $10 of the $15 maximum monthly allowance.

Another 6,294 blind persons receive average monthly checks of $61, compared to a national average of $73, while the 7,585 Texans who meet a highly restrictive state definition of being disabled draw average checks of $54. National average payment to the disabled is $68.

There are 60,434 children under 14 years old classed as dependent, and their parents or guardians are paid an average of $18.50 monthly per child compared to a national average of $30.30.

Federal money pays most of the welfare costs in Texas, as in other states. Under a matching formula, the national government pays about $25 of the first $31 sent to the aged, blind and permanently disabled; and $3 out of every $5 over that amount.

Strict Controls

It is perhaps harder to qualify for aid to the disabled in Texas than any other state, Winters continued. State law requires a disabled person to be "bedfast, chairfast or need close and constant supervision."

"This is a very restrictive program in Texas," Winters said. "We can pay no more than $1.5 million in state funds a year and will have to cut payments as more persons qualify for aid."

It is also difficult to qualify for aid to the aged, although Texas is lenient in not requiring children to support parents or taking a lien on property of oldsters.

To receive old age assistance, a person must be over 65, have no more than $300 in liquid assets and $1,000 in paid up insurance as part of a limit of $1,500 in personal property. Automobiles but not houses are included in the total property limit.

Residence in Texas for five of the nine previous years, including the last year, is another requirement for receiving welfare checks for the aged and blind.

A person's income is subtracted from a subsistence-level cost of living by welfare workers before calculating how much benefits to pay. Typical budgets allow $34 a month for food for a person living alone.

But Winters adds that local governments make available small welfare funds to persons who either can't qualify or don't get enough aid from the state program.

Suburbia Dwellers Taking Fallout Problem Seriously

By JACK V. FOX

SUBURBIA, U.S.A. (UPI) — It came on suddenly, just a week or so ago, in our suburban community. We found our neighbors had ceased thinking of nuclear attack as a vague possibility.

Instead, they were talking seriously about building backyard bomb shelters; about whether fire from a blast over the city would set wooden homes ablaze in the suburbs; whether children should try to get home from school or stay in the buildings.

Up to that time, there had been a general attitude that it simply won't happen.

There had been some half-hearted precautions. Women stocked in a few dozen cans of food and liquid in basements and made a bit of a joke of it. One housewife confessed that she had put aside quite a supply of food but left out one essential item—the can opener.

A few men had a spare can of gasoline in the garage in case a sudden long trip might seem advisable. Transistor and battery radios were checked.

But now the whole neighborhood is beginning to take this danger far more seriously.

One family down the street has decided definitely to build a backyard shelter. They have three small daughters and the father decided it simply was his duty to do everything possible to insure that they and their mother have the best possible chance of survival.

The schools are making preparations to keep the children there for days, if necessary.

They are drawing up a list of essentials and the first question is where the money comes from. The school board figures a blanket for each of the 10,000 children would cost $3 apiece—a total of $30,000. Food would cost $1 apiece a day—or $10,000 a day.

One suggestion that makes good sense is that schools become civil defense centers, not only for the children but for the community. The expectation is that the students would have sufficient time to reach their homes. But school buildings still could be used as refuge centers.

There is one refreshing note. No one is talking about keeping other people out. On the contrary, all the views expressed in this one neighborhood have been of mutual protection and help.

When a sailoor talks about knots, he is talking about a measure of speed and not distance.

Doctor Urges No Isolation Of Mentally Ill

BALTIMORE (AP) — Mental patients should not be isolated but returned to the community, the medical director of the Seton psychiatric institution in Baltimore said Wednesday.

Dr. Leo Bartemeier said isolated mental institutions should be abolished because the trend in medicine is to move the patient back into the community where sickness can be treated and prevented.

He made his remarks in a keynote address before more than 500 persons attending an institution sponsored by the Maryland State Conference of Social Welfare.

"No general hospital or hospital should be without a facility for the mentally sick," Dr. Bartemeier said.

Stressing the feeling of loneliness and abandonment felt by the mentally ill patient, he said mental hospitals often are in areas where it is impossible to have visitors because of long travel.

"When we develop symptoms of illness we are placed in a hospital," the doctor said, "and later returned to our homes without being actually separated from our families."

Dr. Bartemeier said mental patients should have the same privilege.

Earlier, Gov. Tawes had said "Maryland is alert to the need of developing a comprehensive and effective program for the treatment of mental illness."

"It has been both gratifying and heartwarming to me to observe the great advancements we have been making in Maryland in the care and treatment of our mentally ill," he said.

Champion Steer Sold For $3,099

TIMONIUM, Md. (AP) — A 17-year-old Mennonite farmer from Elverson, Pa. is $3,099 richer Wednesday after his participation in the Eastern National Livestock Show.

The farmer, Wesley S. Mast, sold his grand champion Hereford steer, which weighed in at 980 pounds, for $2.55 a pound — on the hoof. A Baltimore processing firm purchased the entry, which won the top steer spot Tuesday.

Mast also won $600 in awards from the American Hereford Association, which honored him for having exhibited the champion and grand champion Hereford.

Rhoda Mast, his 19-year-old sister, sold her prize winning 4-H club steer for 50 cents a pound. Raymond Heinz, of Baltimore, bought the 1,070-pound animal. Miss Mast, who is studying practical nursing, said she intends to use the money to further her education.

The 1,050-pound reserve grand champion steer, exhibited by Shirley and Doris Brown, brought $1.06 a pound — or a total of $1,213. The sisters, 21 and 18 respectively, run a 12-acre farm in Greer, S.C.

Crater-shaped buffalo wallows still scar the plains and prairies of the American West. Formed when 60 million bison roamed the continent, the wallows provided the animals with dust baths in dry weather and mud baths in rain. Wallows grew to miles in length.

Maryland News In Brief

BALTIMORE (AP) — Maryland's 377th traffic fatality was recorded Wednesday. James E. Wells, 52, of Newport in Charles County, died in University Hospital of injuries suffered Nov. 6. The 1961 number of traffic victims so far is 89 less than last year.

BALTIMORE (AP) — A 40-year-old man was sought Wednesday for questioning about the fatal stabbing of Sunny Clyde Reed, 19. A sister of the dead youth said the man stabbed him when they approached him about money taken from their mother.

BALTIMORE (AP) — Federal Judge Edward S. Northrop ordered Ideal Transfer Co. of Baltimore to pay back wages of $998 to two employes. Action was taken against the company by the U.S. Department of Labor under the minimum wage law.

ROCKVILLE, Md. (AP) — The Montgomery County Library Board says it was proper to have included the novel "Tropic of Cancer" in the county's library system.

The board's views were expressed in a letter to the County Council from the board chairman, Frank J. Duane.

County Manager Mason A. Butcher some weeks ago ordered the novel removed from the library system. His order was upheld last week by Judge Ralph G. Shure of the Circuit Court, who termed the book "dirt for dirt's sake."

The book had been available in the library system to adult readers who made special application for it.

Students Observe Hanson Anniversary

WASHINGTON (AP)—The 178th anniversary of the death of John Hanson, first president of the Continental Congress, was observed Wednesday at the Capitol.

Students of the John Hanson Junior High School of Oxon Hill, Md., Hanson's burial place, placed a wreath at the foot of Hanson's statue in the Senate wing of the Capitol.

Hanson, a native of Charles County, Md., is termed by some historians as the first President of the United States under its first constitution — the Articles of Confederation.

As part of the ceremony, student Patricia Young read Hanson's proclamation as president of the Continental Congress designating the fourth Thursday of November 1782 as Thanksgiving Day.

Alvey Plea Due Friday

BALTIMORE (AP) — Joseph H. Alvey, 41, will enter his plea Friday to federal indictment for the kidnap-slaying of Michael J. Condetti, 7-year-old Washington boy.

The federal grand jury indicted Alvey Tuesday under the Lindbergh kidnap law which provides a maximum penalty of death. Alvey is charged with transporting the boy from Washington to Maryland "for the purpose of having sexual gratification upon his body."

The boy disappeared Nov. 14 of last year while on his way to a Washington store to buy a school book bag. A rabbit hunter found his body three days later in woods near Ardmore, Md., in Prince Georges County.

Alvey was arrested Oct. 30 in Miami on a vagrancy charge. He said he had been living there about eight months and selling newspapers. At the time of the boy's death, Alvey was living in Mount Rainier.

Alvey will be represented at his arraignment by Attorney J. Call Hill of Triangle, Va. Meanwhile, he is being held in the Baltimore city jail without bail.

Sets Aid Conditions

QUITO, Ecuador (UPI)— Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, D., Minn., warned Latin American nations Wednesday they must set their own house in order before expecting alliance for progress aid.

The United States is willing to aid under - developed countries, Humphrey said, but they must start first on land, tax and administrative reform programs. Otherwise, Humphrey said, the United States would be financing the "Bolshevikization" of such nations."

If the antarctic's ice melted, the level of the earth's seas would rise sufficiently to flood coastal cities. A third of the Washington Monument would stand underwater.

For 1962...an all-new kind of Ford!

You've never seen anything like it, because there's never been anything like it . . . until today. On the outside the new Ford Fairlane 500 measures a quick 197 inches from stem to stern. A good foot shorter than the cars from which it borrowed its name, it calls the snuggest parking places home. It slices through traffic like a knife through cream—garages as easily as your lawn mower. At the same time, on the inside the new Fairlane 500 is every inch as big as some of the biggest Fords ever built. Stretch your legs, don't bother to watch your hat—you get big-car leg and head room. And the Fairlane trunk—a cavernous 29 cubic feet—takes on luggage like a baggage checkroom. How did Ford engineers do it? They devised a completely new unitized body that shaves bulk while it saves room.

The new Fairlane 500 is priced way under previous Fairlanes; it is well under many compacts. But Fairlane economy doesn't stop with a pretty price tag. It runs to amazing gas savings—with either the world's first economy V-8 or the nickel-nursing Fairlane Six. It tramps down hard on service costs—with Ford's remarkable twice-a-year maintenance. Routine service has been reduced to a minimum—30,000 miles on many items, only twice a year or 6,000 miles on the rest. You go 30,000 miles between major lubrications . . . 6,000 miles between oil changes and minor lubrications. Even the engine coolant-antifreeze goes two years—or 30,000 miles—without requiring a change. The new Fairlane 500 adjusts its own brakes. See and drive America's newest cars—the Fairlane and Fairlane 500.

Counterfeit $10 Bills Flooding New York, Turn Up In Several Other States

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Counterfeit $10 bills which are difficult to distinguish from real money are flooding New York and turning up in other states as far west as California, the Secret Service reported Tuesday.

It also said limited numbers of bogus $1 bills which are good copies have appeared recently in San Francisco, Toledo and Cleveland. They pose a special problem because they are uncommon and therefore less likely to be inspected carefully.

The Secret Service warned that th approaching Christmas shopping season is a favorite time for counterfeiters to pass their phony bills because busy sales clerk don't have time to look for uspected money.

Secret Service Chief James J. Rowley said the outbreak of counterfeiting was the most serious in recent years. He plans a special drive to alert the public.

The bogus $10 bills have been turning up in increasing numbers in New York City despite intensive efforts by Secret Service agents to track down the source of supply.

Last week, agents and banks removed 263 phony $10's from circulation, the highest one-week total to date. Since the first false bills were spotted Sept. 21, more than 1,500 have been discovered, mainly in New York.

Greater Malaysia Federation Won't Be Easy To Organize

By DON C. BECKER

SINGAPORE (UPI)—The manner in which Britain chooses to handle the proposed merger of Malaya, Singapore and the three British Borneo Territories could greatly influence the future of Southeast Asia, informed sources here believe.

Both Malayan Prime Minister Tengku Abdul Rahman and Singapore Prime Minister Lee Huan Yew are in favor of bringing off the merger by 1963. If it is not effected by that time, they reason, Singapore's ruling Peoples Action Party could fall from power and be replaced by a Communist-oriented opposition.

But the British apparently do not view the situation with the same urgency. And without Britain pushing the merger along, there is little that can be done.

Both Sarawak and British North Borneo are crown colonies. Brunei is a protectorate and Singapore, a former crown colony, now is a governing state whose external affairs still are controlled by the British. Only Malaya is completely independent.

While Singapore and Malaya both are in favor of merger, right-wing Malayan Premier Rahman won't take in Singapore alone, informed sources say. Unless Singapore comes into the Federation with the three Borneo territories in a package deal, it doesn't come in at all. The reason for this thinking is that Rahman wants the predominantly Chinese population of Singapore "watered down" by various tribal strains of North Borneo.

Rahman is very suspicious of the many left-wing elements in Singapore, which include a Communist-led opposition party and many Communist-run labor unions.

But Rahman is for the merger because he feels this obviously is a better solution than contending with a Communist state on Malaya's southern shores. Once in the Federation, Rahman would have no trouble cracking down on Singapore's Communists.

Observers say the raeson why the British have not leaped onto the Greater Malaysia bandwagon with more zeal is because they don't like the idea of turning over their three Borneo territories. It's not that they want to hold onto the territories, which certainly are not profitable, but mainly because it is felt it would be a violation of long-standing British colonial policy.

To railroad the Borneo territories into the Federation would merely be transferring control from one power to another. The British believe elections are the only thing. But the trouble is, as Lee and Rahman see it, that it will take a long time to organize the elections and the British are not doing much about it. The British attitude has been "go slow."

Lee has threatened to "generate heat" against the British if they continue, as he says, to hamper current merger talks between Singapore and the Federation.

Lee said a great deal of unpleasantness might be necessary if the British continued to "squat" on their bases in Singapore.

What Lee was doing, many believe, was merely establishing a position on the British bases here to speed up negotiations. By threatening the position of the British bases, Lee apparently hopes to force the British into taking a more positive attitude toward the merger, informed sources say.

No one seriously believes Lee wants to get rid of the British bases at this time because they are an integral part of the Singapore economy. But the threat might bring some action, Lee hopes.

The British Governors of Sarawak and British North Borneo, meanwhile, have not been impressed with Lee's warnings that Singapore would go Communist or be hit by rioting and chaos if the merger is not accomplished by 1963.

Fashionettes

By United Press International

Many-purpose dresses have cropped up in several New York fashion collections for spring. One of the most versatile of these numbers comes from Luis Estevez. Estevez does a white silk formal which can be worn three ways. It starts out as a three-tier dress designed along classic lines of a Grecian gown and reaches to the floor. Remove the underskirt, and you have a short formal in two tiers. Or, wear the long underskirt separately with your own favorite separate top—say a black matte jersey blouse.

The cardigan jacket first made famous by Gabrielle Chanel of Paris is a favorite in New York collections. Oleg Cassini, the designer who does many of Mrs. John F. Kennedy's clothes, showed Chanel-like jackets fastened with fob chains across the front. Adele Simpson showed them fastened only with a bar pin at the neckline.

Elaborate California Puppet Show Packs 'Em In

By RICK DU BROW

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Every night, suave Hollywoodians hop into their cars, drive miles and miles out into the San Fernando Valley, crowd into a tiny room—and for what?

A puppet show.

But it's a puppet show for adults only. Entitled "Les Poupees de Paris" (The Dolls of Paris), it is a lavish, glittering and elegant production modeled after France's "Folies Bergere" and Lido shows.

It even has bare-bosomed puppets.

And so successful have the dolls been that "Les Poupees" soon will have what are probably the first puppet road companies in theatre history. One company will play the Seattle World's Fair, another New York, and still others are being sought for Europe and the Orient.

Who thought the whole thing up? Two handsome, dark-haired brothers, Sid and Marty Krofft, whose family began puppeteering in 18th Century Greece; and Nat Hart, owner of the Gilded Rafters restaurant where the brothers have established their new Krofft Theatre.

Sid, 37, who was born in Athens, and Marty, 27, a native of Montreal, have spent many years playing the top nightspots of the world. But this is the first time they've had their own theatre.

"This is home," said Marty, "but frankly, the reason we're going to have road companies is that we need them to break even. We can only seat 100 people here, and it takes eight of us to put on a show. We have to perform before bigger audiences. The other night, we had to turn away 500 people."

The show, in good taste and done with high humor, is like nothing you've ever seen. To start with, there's even a "Playgoer" program. There are 70 puppets, each standing about three feet tall. They operate on an elevating stage complete with pit orchestra. "Backstage" is a tiny room next to the restaurant's kitchen. But the production cost about $100,000 to put on. Some of the costumes were designed by France's famed Pierre Balmain. A fur piece on one puppet contains 50 feet of fox material.

The acts include a comic opera, girls, a juggler, girls, a tightrope walker, girls, an Oriental production number, jazz, girls, a "Frankenstein" scene, an ice-skating rink, waterfall, rain, swimming pool, flying birds, a moving Buddha, and girls.

Also utilized are the voices of Tony Martin, Edgar Bergen and Charlie McCarthy, Liberace and Annie Farge.

"You've got to admit—we've got something going for us," said Marty. "When we advertise 'gorgeous girls,' the women in the audience never get angry."

Do Law Clerks Write Opinions For Justices?

By CHARLOTTE MOULTON

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Do law clerks ever write Supreme Court opinions?

An unqualified "no" to this perennial question is given by a Washington laywer, Barrett Prettyman Jr., who has had the unusual experience of being clerk to three justices.

Once in a while a clerk is allowed to try his hand at a first draft, Prettyman says. But more often his job is to check authorities, fill in citations, etc., on his boss's opinion.

And "in no case is the clerk solely or even chiefly responsible for the finished product."

This statement from one who should know may relieve some of the less informed court critics who suggest that the nine justices go fishing while the law clerks do the work.

Prettyman was clerk for the late Justice Robert H. Jackson and afterwards for Justices Felix Frankfurter and John M. Harlan.

Footnoting opinions is one of three general duties falling to clerks, according to Prettyman. Another is condensing the gigantic court docket to manageable proportions and distilling facts and points of law—but not sifting or eliminating cases.

The third and most important is "to act as a sounding board." Prettyman says:

"A good clerk will argue, cajole, deride, imagine new hypotheses, attack questionable assumptions—all in an effort not to make the justice change his mind but to make him think through his decision. These sessions between each justice and his clerks are sometimes heated, often lengthy and almost always productive."

These and other illuminating insights into what lies behind a Supreme Court opinion are contained in Prettyman's excellent book, "Death and the Supreme Court" (Harcourt, Brace and World, Inc., New York).

Anti-Red Cult Digs In, Waits For Invasion

LOUISVILLE, Ill. (UPI)—Self-styled anti-Communist John R. Harrell and his Christian Conservative movement followers expect a Russian atomic attack and invasion.

The mausoleum tycoon and his followers, numbering about 100, who live on Harrell's scenic 160-acre estate here have dug "between 15 and 20" fallout shelters into the sides of hills along the Little Wabash River.

"The Lord is telling us what to put into the shelters," said Harrell. "There are three gallons of water for each person, food for three days, beds, a lantern, one gallon of kerosene and three changes of clothing.

"The Lord is having us watch this fallout caused by the Russian tests and there is a possibility we may use the shelters before the actual attack."

The 39-year-old former Air Force pilot, who says he has spent more than a quarter-million dollars in his fight against Communism, claims to have been divinely healed of cancer more than two years ago while in a motel room near a famous medical center where he had gone for treatment.

Since then, Harrell says, the Lord has dictated his every move.

His self-proclaimed fight against Communism has alienated Harrell from this town where he grew up and once was a Sunday School superintendent and civic leader.

Neighbors Outraged

His charges that there are Communist cells in the county have brought vigorous denials from citizens who scorn the publicity Harrell and his group have brought the town of 900.

"There's not a Communist in the county," said State's Atty. H. Carroll Bayler. "The FBI and state authorities have checked."

When Harrell refused to send his children to public schools earlier this year and some of his followers did likewise, they were tried and found guilty of failing to keep their children in a lawful school. The Illinois Supreme Court refused to hear an appeal by Harrell and sent the case back to an appellate court where action is still pending.

Harrell attracted national attention in August when he gave refuge on his guarded estate to Dion Davis, 19, of Greenville, Pa., who left the Marines without leave of absence. Davis said the Marines "teach men to hate" and "flaunt sin right in your face."

Harrell proclaimed that authorities "will have to kill me" before he would allow Davis to be taken from the estate against the AWOL Marine's will.

Then came a conference of FBI agents with the young Marine at the guarded gate of Harrell's estate in which they pleaded with Davis to voluntary surrender. Davis refused.

The next day, before dawn, an Army half-track broke down the gate and more than 100 FBI agents and state troopers invaded the estate, seized Harrell, some of his followers and Davis. Not a shot was fired.

The agents seized more than 100 guns and 10,000 rounds of ammunition.

Face Court Action

As a result of the raid, Harrell and some of his followers face federal court action on charges of harboring a Marine deserter.

Meanwhile, Harrell and his followers, free on bond, have been busy on the estate, building the fallout shelters and doing other clearing work. Harrell and his clan live in smaller dwellings near an imposing, three-story, 24-room replica of Mount Vernon, George Washington's home.

Besides holding a patent on a method of building mausoleums, Harrell claims oil interests, owns a motel and has other real estate holdings. His mother, a widow, owns a sporting goods company.

"The Lord has told us that the United States will be subjected to a 7,000-megaton nuclear attack within a 12-hour period," Harrell said. "It could occur at anytime."

He said it has been revealed to him that Russian paratroopers will be dropped and will conquer the United States from the Atlantic to the Appalachians and from the Pacific to the Rockies.

"The hard core of resistance to the invaders will spring from the Mississippi Valley for which the Lord has special plans," Harrell said. "We shall get divine help."

"Johnny Bob," as townspeople in Louisville call Harrell, seems to thrive on crisis, but, he says, "The Lord has told me there will be many of them."

PTA To Hear CD Talk Tomorrow

The Parent-Teacher Association of Columbia Street School will meet Thursday 7 p.m. at the school.

Dr. Leland B. Ransom will speak on the various aspects of Civil Defense. Dr. Ransom, who is active in local Civil Defense work, will discuss the construction and provision of fallout shelters, the effects of radioactivity and problems of communications in case of a unclear attack.

Classroom visitation will be held from 7 to 7:30 p.m.

Realtors To Meet

The Cumberland Realtors Board will meet today at 7 p. m. at the Ali Ghan Shrine Country Club, according to C. Glenn Watson Jr., president.

County School CD Program Discussed

A revised Civil Defense program for Allegany County public schools was discussed Tuesday at a meeting of the Allegany County Board of Education.

William G. Barger, Civil Defense director, and Charles G. Smith, deputy, presented preliminary plans to the board. It was pointed out that the greatest danger from fallout will come from bombs dropped to the west of the county and that it is anticipated this area will have up to four hours warning time.

The Civil Defense leaders suggested that in view of the time element children should be sent to their homes as soon as possible. This would be done to keep family units intact and because of problems which would be incurred if students were kept in schools for long periods of time. It was also pointed out the vacant schools, along with other public buildings, could be used to receive evacuees from the area east of here.

Ralph R. Webster, superintendent of schools, will appoint a Civil Defense co-ordinator who will work with CD officials to plan a school program. When a plan is adopted parents will be notified and it is possible a test will be conducted.

George F. Hazelwood Jr. offered to convey a parcel of land near Columbia Street School to the board without charge. Action was deferred pending a study of possible land use.

The Lions Club was granted permission to use the Fort Hill High School auditorium for a program by the Tulsa University Choir January 27 and Potomac Fire Company of Westernport was given permission to use the Westernport Elementary School December 7 for a benefit program.

Members of the Board of Education are also members of the Board of Trustees of Allegany Community College. In the future the boards will conduct separate meetings, although sometimes they may be on the same day.

Ridgeley PTAs Meet Today

The PTAs of Ridgeley Elementary and Ridgeley High School will meet today at the high school.

Open house will be observed at both schools from 7 p. m. to 7:30 p. m. Students from the West Virginia Schools for the Deaf and Blind at Romney will give a demonstration of Braille teaching and vocal selections. The Ridgeley Elementary School Band will play.

East Side PTA Meets Tonight

East Side PTA will hold its regular monthly meeting today at 8 p. m. at the school. Teachers will be in their classrooms for consultations with parents at 7:30 p. m.

A program on Civil Defense has been arranged by Mrs. Richard Barnes, program chairman.

Homeroom mothers will hold a bake sale before and after the business meeting.

If your voice recites poetry like the telephone directory, PRACTICE — until you can make the phone book sound like poetry!

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

For A Lilting Voice . . . There's Melody In Poetry!

Whether you "like" poetry or not, your voice will. The melody alone, in poetic expression, automatically guides vocal expression. It's almost impossible for a voice to remain flat and monotonous once it has become practiced in reciting poetry.

To improve the quality of your speaking voice, try reading poetry aloud for 5 or 10 minutes every day. It doesn't matter what poetry you read or whether or not you understand its message; some of the most speakable poems ever written are unspeakably obscure. Look for melody rather than meaning. (It's very probable that meaning will seep through eventually, once a poet's words evoke his original mood in writing.

Like all other musical instruments vocal chords respond most pleasantly to rhythm. Poetry's "beat" belongs in its meter — and all poetry has meter of one kind or another, from classic iambic pentameter to flowing free verse.

Then, there are the words themselves. . . lyrical alone. . . even more lyrical because of the way they are joined together. Do you remember how school books describe this lyrical linking? Onomatopoeia! (And that, itself, has a lovely sound. Try it.)

Onomatopoeit. . . forming words to imitate natural sounds. . . sounds that convey the sense of the words. These are the words that separate the poet from the prose. These are the words to practice.

Sample all the many kinds of poetry there are. Remember, they were written to be read aloud. Leaf through the anthologies stacked in your library, American, English and foreign translations. Take up your neglected Shakespeare. For exercise even more exacting—and rewarding—repeat aloud the prayers from your prayerbook, the lines from familiar hymns, the most powerful passages in your Bible.

Once you liberate that constrained larynx, once you can accustom it to reproducing the sound of music, the easier you'll be on the ears (your own included!)

The charm of a pretty speaking voice is exactly equal to the amount of effort you put into developing vocal control. My pamphlet, "Your Most Attractive Voice," tells just what steps to take in training your vocal delivery and improving your diction. Request your copy today by writing to me in care of this newspaper. Be sure to enclose 10c and a stamped, self-addressed envelope. Expect delivery in about two weeks.

Hospital Gets Latest Type Equipment

A new piece of equipment that has been presented to Sacred Heart Hospital, the first of its kind in this area, is described as a "remarkable apparatus" by Dr. R. Rhett Rathbone, radiologist and head of the hospital's X-ray Department.

The device is a laminograph, used to study the chest and larynx to determine and differentiate cancer, and donated to Sacred Heart by the Allegany County Chapter of the American Cancer Society.

Dr. Rathbone said the laminograph also has proven useful in detecting cancer in other parts of the body, noting that it has been particularly effective in work about the head, offering detailed information about the skull.

He explained that the laminograph is used when there is any doubt about a "shadow" on an X-ray. The device takes five sectional exposures which offers what he terms "excellent detail" where cancer is suspected.

The outstanding feature of the laminograph, Dr. Rathbone said, is its ability to "blot out" body areas above and below where cancer is suspected.

Sister Mary Richard, administrator of Sacred Heart, said the device already has been successfully used, adding that it is in line with a proposed expansion of the hospital's X-ray Department.

Notable in its use, Dr. Rathbone said, is that it has resulted in closer cooperation between the medical staffs and administration of Sacred Heart and Memorial hospitals. Medical men, he continued, are elated that the laminograph is available of use locally, since patients formerly had to be sent to Pittsburgh or the Washington - Baltimore areas for such work.

El Fidel Clubs Plan Events

The regular meeting of the El Fidel Club and Ladies Auxiliary has been advanced one week, due to the Thanksgiving Day holiday.

It will be held tomorrow, 7:30 p. m., at Al Ghan Shrine Country Club.

Petition for membership will be acted upon and final committees for the Christmas party to be held Saturday, December 2, will be appointed. The new officers recently installed will be in charge of the meeting and all members are urged to be present, as matters of importance to the clubs will be discussed.

Professor Has Plan To Help Peace Corps

By JAIME PLENN

MEXICO CITY (UPI) — An American anthropologist and author has come up with a plan which he says could be used as a guide for the U.S. Government's Peace Corps program in Latin America.

Oscar Lewis, a University of Illinois professor who has made a 20-year study of Mexican rural life, said the plan is based on the experience of a group of U.S. students in a small Mexican village during the past summer. Lewis directed the students in a two-month pioneering stay at the "off-the-beaten-path" village of San Andres de la Cal.

Give And Take

"The combination of an anthropology field team tasks with those of the Peace Corps offers opportunity for an excellent give-and-take relationship with Latin American rural residents," he said.

"Instead of swamping them with gadgets that Americans think the people should have, the team tries to fill the needs expressed by villagers and actively helps them while at the same time gathering research material about their culture."

Lewis related how the "give and take" worked out during the two months that six U.S. university students lived in the hut dwellings of San Andres de la Cal, an ancient Nahuatl village of about 500 persons in 90 families.

"The villagers wept when our students left," he said.

"Our idea basically has been to do something for the people while studying their culture," he said, "and I think this plan, as well as many of the conclusions of my 20-year-study can be applied in our Latin American programs for people-to-people relationships."

He said the students had an opportunity to do their field work while living in the village devoid of the usual middle class comforts—no running water, no electricity, no gas.

Simple Life

Willingness of "people of culture" to live the simple life of the peasants and share their daily chores impressed the villagers greatly, Lewis said, and each student became "Padrino" or "Madrina" (godfather or godmother) of several village children.

The villagers were greatly interested in learning English. Some had been to the United States as "braceros" (farm field hands) but had not learned much English then because of their isolated work-camp residence, he said.

Lewis said he selected the village for the pioneer "humanized anthropology" project because of earlier studies of documents hundreds of years old pertaining to the area and personal recommendations of friends in Tepoztlan.

At Tepoztlan, Lewis did much of his Mexican research work, continuing the work of another U.S. scholar Robert Redfield, and his studies have been the basis for several books prior to "The Children of Sanchez," his latest work.

Lewis has done field research work in Canada, Cuba, India, Spain and Texas, in addition to Mexico, which has been his major focus of interest.

Since 1948, he has been professor of anthropology at the University of Illinois.

County Liquor Board Approves Transfer

Following a lengthy hearing yesterday before the Allegany County Board of Alcoholic Beverage License Commissioners on a remonstrance against the transfer of a permit held by Mrs. Delcie Basilio, trading as Patsy's Place, 19 Front Street, the board decided to grant her application.

Testimony against the transfer was given by J. T. Defibaugh, 208 Glenn Street, and Mrs. Carl Jenkins, who resides in an apartment building which faces the new location for the business on Henderson Avenue in the former Atlantic gasoline service station.

Defibaugh stated that there would be a traffic hazard while Mrs. Jenkins said the customers in Patsy's Place customarily threw empty bottles on a parking lot next to the establishment and also created a nuisance.

In rebuttal, Mrs. Basilio and her husband, Romeo, who have operated the beer tavern for almost 28 years, stated they do not allow any unruly conduct. They also said the bottles which are thrown on the parking lot are mainly whisky bottles and they do not sell whisky.

Asst. Police Chief John Sherry testified that he had checked the docket at police headquarters and did not find Basilio listed on any charges. He also said that he did not remember any complaints being received concerning the business during a seven-year period he was a desk sergeant at headquarters.

Angus Turnbull and Edward R. Willison, inspectors for the liquor board, both stated they found the place operated in a good manner by Basilio. Willison also said that this is done in spite of the fact that some of the customers could be classified as "the rough element" which comes into town from rural areas.

The Basilios told the board that the entrance to the new place of business will be on Henderson Avenue and the residents on Glenn Street will not be able to see into the building after certain remodeling has been completed. The couple purchased the new site recently after being notified that the premises they have been renting is being torn down to provide a parking area for a business place.

Mrs. Basilio said that the parking area on the new premises, which has been used by residents in the neighborhood for some months, will be chained off at night and this will eliminate any possibliity of disturbances to the Glenn Street section.

Talk On Civil Defense

The Parent-Teacher Association of Centre Street School will meet today at 7:30 p. m. at the school. The program will feature a talk on "Civil Defense."

Room visitation will start at 7 p. m., and refreshments will be served by the first grade mothers.

School Council Will Sponsor Dance Friday

"Autumn Glory," a dance sponsored by the Student Council of Allegany High School for Allegany students in grades 9-12 will be held in the school gymnasium Friday from 8:30 to 11:30 p. m. Admission will be by ticket only.

Marna Pyle is chairman of the dance commitee. Assisting her are Sue Mowen and Linda Gipe, refreshments; Davene Sheehe, Thomas Miller, Doris Smith, Elaine Solomon, Pat Trozzo and Charles Belt, decorations; Sonja Keyser, Sandy Abramson and Kay Lynne Dowell, publicity; Donald Beynon, tickets and band; Karen Gilbert, Karen Holbrook and Karen Phillips, invitations and guests; and Miller and Roger James, cleanup.

Receiving the guests will be Charles Butt, president; Miss Orpha-Bonita Pritchard, advisor; Thomas Miler, vice president; Sonja Keyser, treasurer, and Karen Holbrook, secretary.

Guests will be Dr. and Mrs. W. Ardell Haines, Miss Evelyn Bright, Mr. and Mrs. James H. White, Mr. and Mrs. George Conway, Mr. and Mrs. Foy Curry, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hutcheson, Mr. and Mrs. Donald Garlitz, Mr. and Mrs. Willard Miller, Mrs. Frank H. Butt, Mr. and Mrs. Charles R. Keyser, Mrs. William C. Holbrook, Mr. and Mrs. W. Fred Mowen and Mr. and Mrs. Harry Pyle.

Invitations have been sent to Peggy Groves, president, and other ofifcers of the Fort Hill Student Council, and its advisors, Edgar Reynolds and William Leeson.

In modern warfare, dogs serve primarily in scouting, sentry, messenger and first-aid work, but in former times they were forced into battle.

Heart Unit Will Honor Two Persons

F. Allan Weatherholt, city, and Mrs. William H. Macy, Braddock Road, have been singled out for awards by the Maryland Heart Association for their service to the Allegany-Garrett County Heart Association.

The awards will be presented Thursday, November 30, at the Lord Baltimore Hotel, Baltimore, during the state association's annual meeting, with Raeburn H. Parker, president of the state organization, presiding.

Weatherholt, a local trial magistrate, has served two terms as president of the local organization and was one of the organizers of the Allegany County Association which was the forerunner of the present group.

Weatherholt was instrumental in getting Garrett County to organize and has served on various projects of the association for a number of years.

The local trial magistrate was chairman of this year's financial campaign which secured the largest amount of money ever collected. He served on the association's public relations committee 10 years and served seven years on the group's public education committee.

Weatherholt also helped organize the association's lending program which provides wheel chairs, beds and other hospital equipment, and has appeared on several state-wide heart panel discussions.

Mrs. Macy, who has served as Heart Sunday Chairman for the past two years during the heart association's fund raising campaign, also served as member of the board of directors in 1960, and is in her second year as secretary to the board.

In a letter from the state association, Weatherholt and Mrs. Macy were notified of their selection: "In recognition of your outstanding services to the Heart Association of Maryland, the nominating and membership committee is unaimous in its desire that you be presented the Heart Association's Bronze Service Recognition Award. . ."

In addition to Weatherholt and Mrs. Macy, other members of the association who plan to attend the meeting are Ernest B. Treat, local president, James W. Bishop, past president and members of the board of directors, Mrs. Bishop, and Mrs. Ora Mae Lewis, executive secretary. Others desiring to attend have been asked to contact Mrs. Lewis at the local heart office.

A state staff conference meeting will be held Wednesday, November 29, which Mrs. Lewis also plans to attend. The yearly council on chapter affairs meeting will be held November 30, with Treat, Bishop and Mrs. Macy planning to attend it.

Topics to be covered during the two-day meeting include "Heart Disease and the Law," the speaker to be L. Whiting Farinholt Jr., professor of law at the University of Maryland.

Special Liquor Permit Granted

The Police and Firemen's Welfare Association was granted a one-day permit yesterday by the Allegany County Board of Alcoholic Beverage Licenses Commissioners to sell beer, wine and liquor at a benefit dance to be given Saturday, November 25, at the National Guard Armory.

A beer license was also granted to Lorraine and John N. Thrasher for the Bowl Mor Center in Barton.

The beer permit of George Speir in National was transferred to a new building which he will occupy soon.

Mayflower Compact Day Is Proclaimed

ANNAPOLIS (AP)—Gov. Tawes has proclaimed Nov. 21 Mayflower Compact Day in Maryland.

The governor said in his proclamation:

"Wheras November 22 marks anniversary of the sailing of the Ark and the Dove, . . . so November 21 marks the birthday of the compact written by the Pilgrims of the Mayflower . . .

"Whereas this was the first charter of self-government in our nation's history and deserving of remembrance from year to year.

"Now, therefore, I, J. Millard Tawes, do declare Tuesday, November 21, Mayflower Compact Day."

Cause of most headaches is believed to be migraine or muscular tension with anxiety and emotional strain.

Bedford Valley Lutheran Church Is Dedicated

A new church, Bortz Lutheran Church, in Bedford Valley just north of here on Route 220, was dedicated Sunday.

Rev. Martin L. Tozer, superintendent of the Home Mission and Rural Church Work of the Central Pennsylvania Synod, preached at the morning service.

Open house was held Tuesday afternoon followed by a service with Rev. David Bomboy, Everett, presiding.

Yesterday was observed as Church Conference Night and today, Parish Night.

The new church is the culmination of a four-year program to replace the adjacent older structure. The new building has a sanctuary seating approximately 100 persons and a chancel area for the choir.

A wing of the structure houses five Sunday school classrooms and a boiler room. There is a large vestibule between the sanctuary and the Sunday school wing.

Chancel furniture from the older church has been incorporated into the decor of the new sanctuary. The over-all size of the building is 90 by 30 feet. It is located on a two-acre plot donated by Mr. and Mrs. Mearl C. Houseworth, members.

Queen Relaxes

ACCRA, Ghana (UPI) — Queen Elizabeth II and Prince Philip spent Wednesday, a rainy day on their Ghanaian tour, relaxing in Christiansborg Castle, their residence here.

Talk On Music Will Feature PTA Meeting

The role of music education in the public school will be discussed by LaVern Hahn, supervisor of music for the Allegany County Board of Education, at the meeting of LaVale School Parent-Teacher Association Thursday at 8 p. m.

The program will be followed by a business meeting conducted by R. W. Phillips Jr., president.

A report on the principal fund raising project will be given by William H. Fuller. He will outline plans for the LaVale PTA Handbook.

A bake sale will be held in the auditorium by the parents of handicapped children.

The mothers of pupils in the fourth and fifth grade room taught by Mrs. Margaret C. Kirby will serve refreshments.

Theodore Foote is program chairman.

Ruder Advises Asians

NEW YORK (UPI)—U.S. and Asian businessmen "should not be afraid" of the European common market, Assistant Secretary of Commerce William Ruder said Wednesday. Ruder, in remarks prepared for the Far East-America Council of Commerce and Industry, cited the common market among the matters demanding "flexible and imaginative" approaches by businessmen.

PTA Group Hears Report

The executive committee of the Pennsylvania Avenue School PTA met recently at the home of its president, James Maphis, Race Street.

The budget was discussed and the distribution of Christmas treats to children.

The next meeting of the PTA will be held this evening in the school auditorium. Invocation will be by the Rev. Connell T. Chaney, pastor of Living Stone Church of the Brethren. Students of the fifth and sixth grades, who won a plaque in city competition for excellence in baton twirling, will give a demonstration under direction of their instructor, Miss Connie Cooper, a student at Fort Hill High School.

Refreshments will be served after the meeting.

There will be no PTA meeting in December, Maphis said.

Decline Comment

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The White House declined comment Wednesday on whether Henry Labouisse, former foreign aid director, has been offered the post of U. S. ambassador to Greece.

Acting Press Secretary Andrew T. Hatcher told newsmen he had checked into a published report to this effect but would "not have a statement at this time" about it.

Howeve, he recalled that "when Mr. Labouisse resigned from the ICA (the old International Cooperation Administration) the President asked that he remain available for service."

Grades Will Perform At PTA Meeting

A program will be given by the pupils of the fourth, fifth and sixth grades of Northeast Elementary School at 7:30 p. m. today following the 7 p. m. business meeting of the school's PTA unit.

The program will be "Harvest of Melody" with such songs as "Autumn Leaves", "It's A Grand Night for Singing" and "God Bless America". A playlet, "An American Thanksgiving", and a number of dances will be presented.

The members of the cast with speaking parts and solos are:

Indonesia was a possession of The Netherlands for more than 300 years before it became independent in 1949.

Blames Corporations

ST. LOUIS (UPI) — Vice Chancellor John E. Stambaugh of Vanderbilt University blamed big corporations Wednesday for encouraging the "overwhelming desire for security rather than opportunity" on the part of youth.

Stambaugh said when corporation "recruiters" visit college and university campuses "they try to sell their firms to students on the basis of what is going to happen 45 years hence."

Shoes don't grow
BUT FEET DO!

Youngsters' feet grow by leaps and bounds. Don't minimize the dangers of wearing outgrown shoes. Ill fitting shoes are a threat to your child's present and future foot health. To remove all doubt, have the size checked by an expert, immediately. We'll gladly perform this service without charge. If new shoes are indicated, may we suggest a pair from our wide selection of boys and girls. We can adapt them to individual requirements according to your doctors' recommendations.

TAKE YOUR CHILD'S FOOT PRINTS

STEP 1. Place chart on floor and line up child's heel with the heavy bottom line.

STEP 2. Place a ruler against the big toe and note the size on the chart. Then check the other foot.

STEP 3. Check size of your child's present shoes. If smaller than size on the chart, it's time for a larger size.

Racial Equality Call Issued By Baptists

BALTIMORE (AP) — Members of the Southern Baptist churches were urged Wednesday to work for racial equality and against free bus transportation for parochial school students.

The recommendations by the Christian Life Committee were adopted by 300 delegates to the Baptist Convention of Maryland. The delegates represent churches in Maryland, West Virginia, Delaware, Pennsylvania, New Jersey, New York and all of New England except New Hampshire.

The report held that if the United States is to gain the support of new nations against communism "we must put an end to continued racial discriminations in American life."

In the field of education, the convention went on record in agreement with stands that use of federal funds for parochial and private schools is unconstitutional.

Stock The Shelter With Mushrooms?

Would mushrooms be the answer to the problem of feeding people in their shelters after a nuclear attack? Just grow mushrooms in those shelters, advises a mushroom grower, where they would be shielded from fallout.

It would be wonderful if this were the case. Unfortunately, it does not appear to be.

Mushrooms are delicious cooked in a number of ways. The National Research Council, in a current document distributed by the U.S. Department of Agriculture, reveals that mushrooms contain some vitamin B, some niacin, some calcium and iron—but not much of the other things which a person needs to support life.

Take calories. A woman needs about 2,000 calories a day, a man 2,500 to 3,000. One cup of mushrooms contains 30 calories. Thus a man who had to live on nothing but mushrooms would need to eat 100 cups of them a day! To get enough proteins from mushrooms he'd have to eat 18 cupfuls, which is quite a lot when you think about it.

Truth is that while mushrooms are wonderfully good to eat, they're no great shakes for nutrition content—and certainly could not rank as anything like a staple food in a shelter or anywhere else. A mushroom has about one calorie in it. A slice of bread has 60 to 100 calories.

And the art of reducing aside, calories are still the fuel each of us must have to live. Mushrooms are 88 per cent water.

That's the story. And please pass the mushrooms. They are one of the real pleasures of life. Who wants anything more from them?

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky

The Life Of A President

Unlike a monarch, who holds office by birth, the President of the United States has to spend his first term politicking for the second. It is a wholesome effort because it keeps him close to the people. He cannot separate himself from those who chose him and will choose or not choose him again. He cannot hope to hear only praise. He cannot expect that his visitors will bow from the waist and amen him through a conversation.

In a word, no matter how hard his staff may try to screen him from those who always know what is right and wrong, the President must from time to time patiently listen to the ideas of others. As trying and time-wasting as this may seem, it is wholesome because the man in the White House dares not isolate himself from trends of public opinion.

As long as this attitude toward the office of the President continues, we are likely to remain a wholesome republic. Naturally, everybody wants to tell President Kennedy what to do and how to do it. Perhaps, it is an instinctive reaction to his lack of grey hair. Perhaps it is his smile that encourages frankness. But he is never likely to become an isolated personage, alone, friendless, as has been the fate of so many Presidents.

Some Presidents have become paralyzed by the Presidency. The White House can become the palace of a monarch and the office of the President can be a trap for a personality who walks on eggs, as the Chinese used to describe some Mandarins. "The Irish Mafia," in President Kennedy's office, does not look like Mandarins, nor does the President, sitting in his rocker, give the appearance of one who believes that he has a mandate from Heaven to rule over the weak and tremulous. The White House is more cheerful than it used to be although it has in no manner lost its gracious formality.

President Roosevelt gave the impression of knowing that he was superior to other men. President Hoover seemed to be shocked that he, a simple man, should have been chosen for so great a position. President Kennedy remains Jack Kennedy who has a job to do and expects to see that it is done.

He grows less partisan because the task of the era requires a national not a partisan President. This is risky in our country for a politician but it does make for a closer unity in the face of the enemy. The principal positions in the Cabinet are held by Republicans and non-partisans because he obviously seeks an Administration of talent, depending upon himself and his brother, Robert, to do the politicking.

How this will work out over the years, it is difficult to say because ambitious men usually like to project themselves in the hope that they may be the successor to the incumbent. Nevertheless, at this moment it can be said that this is not a political Cabinet.

The President is unusual in that he is a philosophic historian, literate, deeply grounded in the traditions of his office, profoundly nationalistic without objecting to nationalism in others. It is possible to grasp his program but I should imagine that it is not easy to move him from a determined course. He accepts criticism politely but not without anger if he senses injustice.

Everybody wants to tell the President of the United States how to run his office and all citizens have a right to do it. As a matter of fact, only the President can know all the factors in a given situation; unfortunately, he cannot tell what he knows and in our kind of society, the public is irritated when it is uninformed.

Roosevelt had the gift of leadership and with little talent built himself into a generally beloved personality. What this country requires most at this moment in its history is potent moral leadership. We need to restore a sense of patriotism. In a word, our President must lead the people, not read polls to discover where at a moment the public wants him to go. We need a man of the stature of Lincoln who, in the midst of war, could say "with malice toward none."

Jack Kennedy is young enough and sufficiently humble to move from politics to grandeur of spirit. It will be interesting to watch his development.

'At Least We Agree Peace Is A Good Thing'

Reds Use A Sledge Hammer To Kill A Sparrow

By Joseph Alsop

BELGRADE

The drama of the 22nd Communist Party Congress in Moscow was even bigger, even more agonizing, and even more significant than the world has yet been told.

Thus it appears, at least, from this special vantage point of Belgrade, where this reporter has come to see answers to the major questions that so badly need to be answered after the macabre post-humous trial and grisly, hugger-mugger reburial of Josef Vishonovich Stalin.

The sheer bigness of this event is the first point to be emphasized. Many people in the West have supposed that the 22nd Party Congress was no more than a natural sequel to the 20th Congress, at which Nikita S. Khrushchev made the famous secret speech denouncing Stalin's "mistakes" and his "cult of personality." But for the people of the Soviet Union, this was far from being the case.

It now appears, from undoubted evidence, that the impact in Russia of Khrushchev's secret speech was considerably less than used to be supposed. The whole story was not communicated to the lower levels of the party hierarchy and especially to the masses. So far as the great majority of Russians knew, the dead leader had only been convicted of indulgence in the personality cult, plus "some violations of socialist legality owing to the influence of Beria" — to quote the smooth language of the official party history.

That was quite enough to say about a man who had been almost literally deified during his lifetime. But consider what has now happened! Or better still, seek out translations of the tens of thousands of words about the fearful crimes of Stalin which were spoken at the 22nd Congress and then published all over Russia!

The actual texts are all the more astonishing, because they bear such strong traces of the original plan of the 22nd Congress. As first conceived, this party meeting was to have been a bland, triumphal public celebration of Soviet achievement. No doubt the celebration was to have been paralleled, behind the scenes, by a sharp showdown with the visiting Chinese. But in smug, public self-satisfaction was the expected note.

The original program was not abandoned, but it received a startling addition. Thus the Soviet dignitaries from Khrushchev downwards complacently celebrated Soviet progress, in everything from steel output to pig production. And then, in almost every speech, there was the same terrifying, breath-takingly sudden plunge, straight from happy contemplation of pigs down to the darkest depths of hell-on-earth.

Most of the more fearful and bizarre revelations have already been published. But this fragmentary publication in the Western press has not even begun to suggest the shock conveyed by the original text. Torture—secret assassination—mass murder of the innocent—constant pandering to Stalin's bloodlust by the highest personalities in the Soviet state, in deadly fear of becoming Stalin's victims if they did not pander — hecatombs of victims slaughtered because of trivial accidents to Molotov's motorcar, which were wisely interpreted as the result of a plot—or Kaganovich's highest associates in his own ministry being sent to the executioner to prove Kaganovich's faithful zeal for blood — these are only a few representative details.

Each speaker at the Congress seemed to vie with all the others in dragging more and more ghastly horrors out of the bloody cupboard of the past. Thus Kirilenko, the Sverdlovsk party secretary, all but boasted that in his oblast, after Stalin's massacre of the leading oblast officials, every one of the replacements of the dead men was killed in a second massacre six months later. But the tale of Kirilenko was soon topped by the still more terrible tale told by Spiridonov, the Leningrad party secretary.

In truth, all the most dreadful descriptions of the workings of the Soviet system under Stalin have been officially confirmed, by Stalin's heirs. Arthur Koestler himself failed to paint as devilish a picture as the 22nd Party Congress painted for the official record.

It is precisely this, of course, which makes the 22nd Party Congress an event of such size and importance. After all these horrors have been put on the official record, there can be no more mealy-mouthed double talk about the Soviet past.

The Soviet Communist party, like any other church, both needs and heavily depends on its own sacred tradition. But now this tradition has been brutally revised by the brutally revealed truth. The sanctified succession, which used to run Marx-Engels-Lenin-Stalin (despite his mistakes)-Khrushchev, has now been altered. Like one of the anti-popes of the Middle Ages, Stalin has been ruthlessly cast out; and the victims of Stalin have replaced their murderer in the sacred lineage.

Just this kind of change in the party tradition was obviously one of Khrushchev's objects. Yet this kind of change, in a centralized authoritarian theocratic society, not only insured many other big changes later on. It also involves very considerable risks.

Khrushchev's primary targets, the impotent aging Molotov and the other members of the anti-party group, could easily have been squashed without this much commotion and scandal and deep unsettlement of the people of the Soviet Union. It was using a sledge hammer to kill a sparrow. But if the members of the anti-party group were not the true targets, then where was the sledge hammer really aimed? And why was the grim decision to use the sledge hammer apparently taken at the last minute before the Party Congress opened?

Inside Washington

By Henry Cathcart

SOUVENIRS—When Peter Lawford, Hollywood actor and brother-in-law of President Kennedy, was in Washington for the filming of a picture recently, he chanced on a pretty, 21-year-old receptionist in the office of Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-NY.

On Lawford's invitation, the girl found herself having dinner at the White House with the President. This is fairly unusual, particularly so when you consider that employes of Republican Senators seldom find themselves in the White House these days.

While President Kennedy left the dining room for a few moments, the pretty miss gathered up all the White House matches as souvenirs. Then Kennedy returned with an unlit cigar and started looking for a match.

Embarrassed but undaunted, she produced one of the many matches from her pocketbook and Kennedy lit his cigar. He then gallantly returned the folder to his red-faced guest.

LANDMARK—Progress has removed from Washington an area familiar to thousands of motor tourists—the trailer park that has occupied a site along the Potomac River since 1923.

It is one of the oldest trailer parks in the country and was a Mecca for tourists who brought their lodgings with them when they visited the capital. Some of the residents were quite philosophical about it, but others complained that the city should have given adequate notice to the national automobile clubs.

These latter assert that they drove to the trailer park in good faith, as a part of long-planned vacations which have now been disrupted by the eviction notice.

Not only was it one of the first such camps, but it is one of the last to be located within the downtown area of a big city. With its departure, future trailer owners will have to resort to camps located miles from the center of the capital and be subjected to numerous inconveniences to reach the heart of the city.

Planes Used For Congressional Junkets Could Transport Recruits

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON — This column has become highly unpopular with certain Congressmen and government officials for focusing attention on their rides around the world in government planes.

However, when these relatively new planes are so busy flying brass hats around the world that a 15-year-old plane, idle for 12 months, is used to carry recruits to South Carolina, we have no apologies to make to the junketeers.

It seems to us that the apologies should come from the Congressmen and VIP's who monopolize these planes, and that they should send telegrams of regret immediately to the families of the 74 newly inducted recruits who were killed at Richmond, Va., last week.

In this connection, however, this column tenders an apology for an error in reporting the junket of Sen. Strom Thurmond of South Carolina to the interesting tourist cities of Paris, Verona and Turin, Italy; Tel Aviv, and Addis Ababa, Ethiopia, supposedly on a reserve training tour. A long list of Congressmen and congressional assistants went along on this "inspection trip" in order to satisfy their reserve training requirement.

This story was difficult to report because the Army at first wanted to protect its friend, Senator Thurmond, who has been campaigning for General Walker. An Army spokesman stated that no such trip was being made. Hence an error. The name of Sen. Ralph Yarborough was omitted.

It was only natural to make this error, because most other important Texas Democrats were down in San Antonio campaigning for the election of Henry Gonzales in a very significant battle to support President Kennedy. Vice President Johnson was there. But Senator Yarborough was not. He was off on an "inspection trip" to Paris, Verona, Tel Aviv, and Addis Ababa in a fast-flying, relatively new VIP plane, while 15-year-old planes were used here to transport new recruits.

I have now received a letter from Senator Yarborough calling attention to the fact that I omitted his name from the list of junketeers at the taxpayers expense. Though I am delighted to apologize for the omission, I suggest that he also apologize to the families of the 74 dead recruits.

The Roll Call

Here is a list of the other brass hats who accompanied Senator Thurmond on this "inspection trip" who should send telegrams of condolence to the families of the 74 men killed at Richmond:

Congressmen William Bray, Ind., Alexander Pirnie, N. Y., Hastings Keith, Mass., Ben Reifel, S. D., and Clark MacGregor, Minn., all Republicans; W. Pat Jennings, Va., J. Edward Roush, Ind., and Ralph Harding, Idaho, Democrats.

Also the following congressional assistants:

Franklin Dryden, Senate Rules Committee; Herbert Maletz, House Judiciary Committee; Donald Appell, House un-American Activities Committee; William Bonsell, GOP Sergeant-at-Arms; John Calkins, assistant to Robison of N. African Traffic Toll

The news has been kept out of the papers, but an American foreign service secretary, Miss Marion Walmsley, has been sentenced to four months in prison in Southern Rhodesia for killing two African pedestrians in a motor accident last May.

At the trial, which took place only last Septem[illegible] the Pho[illegible]

Miss Walmsley had been drunk at the time of the accident. She [illegible] cocktail party and struck three Africans walking along the highway, two of whom died.

Miss Walmsley's host testified at the trial that she had sipped only two drinks.

The State Department is doing its best to convince the Southern Rhodesian government that Miss Walmsley was not intoxicated and that the accident was not her fault. It is appealing the conviction.

However, the law in Europe and Africa is much harsher on accidental deaths than in the United States, especially where any trace of liquor is concerned. In many countries the minimum sentence is one year.

Although the night was dark, Miss Walmsley was distracted in driving by two pet dogs in the back seat of her car. This did not help her in the South Rhodesian court.

In addition, the position of the United States in the United Nations in criticizing South Rhodesia's segregation policies has not helped the situation. Rhodesians are inclined to take the view that in this case they are protecting Negro rights against wanton American carelessness. However, the State Department is endeavoring to arrange a settlement whereby payment is made to the victims' families and Miss Walmsley leaves the country without stirring up another incident in Africa similar to the postcard furor in Nigeria.

Darkness At Night

By John Crosby

Why is Molotov going back to Moscow? The motives in Russia seem, like Dostoivski in "The Possessed," inside out or like the negative of a film, the blacks are white and the whites are black. When they reverse themselves in the Soviet Union, the reverses are absolute — from black to white, from the North Pole to the South Pole, from the apotheosis of virtue to the apotheosis of evil.

Molotov returns in disgrace. Sometimes it's the other way around. There's a marvellous story, well known in Soviet demonology but not elsewhere, about a man I shall call Comrade Joseph who once returned to Moscow in absolutely opposite circumstances — from utter disgrace to whatever the opposite is. Comrade Joseph was a Pole and a veteran apparatus man in international Communism working in the Middle and Far East. On New Year's Day in 1934, he was returning to Moscow and when he crossed the border into the Soviet Union, he was arrested, accused of being pro-Nazi, and sent to prison.

In the next twenty-three years in prison, he was condemned to be shot any number of times, even to being led out to execution several times. This is an old Russian trick, long predating Communism. Dostoievski was condemned to be shot, too, led out to a snowy square and watched those in the echelon ahead of him prepared for death — blindfolds and all. Then he and the others were reprieved and led back to prison. Actually the reprieve had been decided by the Czar well in advance and this grim comedy at the stake was a form of Russian cruelty that backfired badly. Dostoievski himself wrote that the experience gave him an appreciation of the very breath of life that changed his whole outlook and pervaded all his works.

It had the same effect on Comrade Joseph. The brush with death generated an interest in survival where there had been very little. He survived. In Soviet prison twenty-three years of survival is a long time. Comrade Joseph, a thin, tough character who looked a little like Trotsky, was asked how he'd lived through the hell of Soviet prison life and he said: "Only the scrawny men like me survive. The big men can't take it."

He said one other thing about Soviet penology that deserves repetition: "It's not 'Darkness at Noon'; it's 'Darkness at Night.'"

In 1957, after twenty-three years in prison, he was called out of his cell one day and told: "You're going to be released. You're free." "Aha," thought Comrade Joseph, thinking like true Soviet Man, in opposites: "They're going to send me to Siberia."

But they didn't. He got a first class ticket on the train and returned to Moscow where he was taken to a new hotel. "Aha," said Comrade Joseph. "This is how they do it now. Like a gangster's last ride." In his years abroad in the apparatus, he'd seen a good many Warner Bros. films. "They're really going to shoot me this time."

But they didn't. He was given a three-room suite — bedroom, livingroom, drawingroom. This for a man who'd slept on a straw palette twenty-three years. In each room was a bowl of fruit, something he'd not tasted since 1934. All night long Comrade Joseph wandered from room to room. A man could hardly sleep in these strange and terribly foreboding circumstances. He'd take a bite of a peach in the drawingroom, then put it reverently back in the bowl and go to the bedroom, where he'd bite into a pear. Back and forth, all night long, eating tiny bites of fruit. Not too much. His stomach wouldn't take much.

The next day, he was taken to a huge building. "Aha," said Comrade Joseph. "They've built a new prison." But it wasn't. It was an office building and presently Mikoyan burst in on him, embraced him warmly, crying: "Ah, Comrade Joseph, what a great wrong has been done to you. What can we do to undo it?"

"I would like," said Comrade Joseph, "to go back to Poland and see if any of my family survived the war."

He wanted only to get out. For this is the twist, the opposite side of the negative. When you're in disgrace like Molotov and the sensible thing would seem to be to flee, you go back to Moscow. When you return to Moscow in triumph, you flee. The motives are upside down.

Comrade Joseph, to finish the story, went back to Poland where he got a sinecure in the office of social and political relations. Years passed and one day there was an invitation to attend an international conference of historians at Oxford. Sitting in a park in Poland just before he left, a friend asked him: "When are you coming back."

"I'm not coming back," he said. And he didn't.

Many Causes For Persistent Neck Pains

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

There are many causes of neck pain, varying from throat infection to arthritis. The symptom is common and usually can be tolerated for a week or 10 days. But when it persists or recurs frequently, the individual seeks medical advice. He has tried aspirin and heat and is more interested in finding the cause and having it eliminated.

X-rays may demonstrate changes in the vertebras, such as a slipped disk or arthritis. The condition often results from years of stress and strain associated with constant activity, including sudden jolts and twists. Wear and tear of this type is more common in the obese and in those whose occupation creates unusual strain on this part of the body.

The neck may have been injured years ago in playing football, falling on the head, or while sitting in a car that was struck forcibly from the rear. Slouching does the same and often leads to the typical dowager's hump in which the head rides forward to distort the weight bearing line of the neck.

A classmate of mine finds that many patients who come to him with persistent neck pain have chronic infection of the vault of the throat. He irrigates the tissues with a medicated probe to stimulate healing and a surprising number of sufferers improve. When dizziness or headache pain are associated with neck pain, these symptoms also improve after several treatments.

Inflammation and tension of the muscles and other tissues of the neck also lead to pain. The ordinary stiff neck falls into this category. Heat and massage bring relief.

In others, pain stems from nervous tension. Prolonged contraction of the muscles is responsible and the individual is so uncomfortable during periods of anxiety that cause and effect are obvious. The condition is similar to tension headache but distress is located lower down. Heat, massage and drugs that relax help most.

NEVER SATISFIED

E. E. writes: I have a wonderful husband and three lovely children but remain unhappy about my excess height. I'm 6 feet tall. What advice have you for me?

REPLY

Count your blessings, not your feet. It is a waste of time and energy to stew and fret about something that cannot or need not be corrected. After all, you are not a freak; you got your man, you have healthy children, and you have your health. Stop blaming your height for any troubles that may exist.

GELATINE AND REDUCING

J. B. writes: A friend is taking gelatine to reduce; she says it burns up fat. This sounds kookie to me. Please comment.

REPLY

Gelatine does not burn up fat but the body does on a low caloric diet. Gelatine is not a complete food but can be incorporated into a reducing diet because it is low in calories.

To the limit of space questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

Try And Stop Me

By Bennett Cerf

Arrested for driving while intoxicated, an Atlantic City motorist hotly protested his innocence in court. "It's true," he admitted to the judge, "that I had downed six or seven beers before climbing into my car, but they didn't bother me at all. It was the cigar I smoked later that made me slightly dizzy."

"Twenty dollars and three days in the cooler," snapped His Honor, "for driving while under the influence of a cigar."

Clifton Fadiman describes that elegant journalist, Lucius Beebe, as a man with a truly terrible temper, but admits magnanimously that L. B. "wears no man's choler but his own."

During half-time, a gal was surprised to discover a monkey selling potato chips at a stadium gate. "How come they select a monkey to do that?" she demanded. "It figures," explained the monkey, "I'm a chip monk."

You're Telling Me!

By William Ritt

One of the cars in that 57-mile London-to-Brighton, England, run was a Haynes-Apperson 1899 model. The old hack may have been a bit short of wind but it certainly didn't lack experience.

Lead pencils, says a historian, are believed to have come into use during the reign of England's first Queen Elizabeth. Well, there certainly were a lot of scribblers during her time, such as Shakespeare, Bacon, etc.

Week's Food Economies

Turkey provides something special for the traditional Thanksgiving holiday fare. Indulge your family with one of the most tempting, eye appealing, nutritious economical meats. Make other food selections from the seasonal offerings in liberal supply, says Virginia McLuckie, food economist at the Baltimore Office, University of Maryland Department of Markets.

Turkey the traditional bird, is an excellent choice, price tags are lower this year than last. This year growers are raising 106 million birds, as compared to 82 million last year. Nearly half the increase is in the heavy white breed indicating that turkeys from 12 to 16 pounds and 16 pounds and over will be plentiful. Today approximately 80 per cent of the output of turkey is marketed frozen. Slaughter is at peak quality under inspected wholesome conditions, and fast frozen at sub zero temperatures and storage at zero degerees; frozen turkey is an excellent quality bird.

When selecting a frozen turkey, look for a white to yellow skin color, plumpness and the absence of pin feathers. Look for an bruises or freezer burn which may be undesirable.

The refrigerator is the best place for thawing a frozen turkey. Allow one to three days. Do not remove the original wrap when defrosting.

Other suggestions for the holiday meat includes chicken, beef or pork roast or baked ham.

Cranberries are another traditional food in liberal supply. Fresh cranberries have many tasty uses. You may also select one of the processed forms in whole berry or smooth sauce or cranberry juice.

Vegetable offerings are many and varied. White and sweet potatoes are economies. Cauliflower and broccoli are on the best buy list. Mushrooms are in generous supply. Supplies of sauerkraut are more than ample.

The best fruit buys include apples and Emperor or Red Grapes. Citrus supplies are increasing. Pumpkin for pie is in order for the coming holiday. Look for specials in red meats. Bacon prices are lower. Medium size eggs, the best buy.

Self-Rising Flour

Perhaps you've noticed a flour marked "self-rising" in your store lately. This product is simply all-purpose flour to which leavening and salt have been added.To use self-rising flour in your recipes which call for plain all-purpose flour, just omit the baking powder and salt. Self-rising flour is one of the oldest "convenience" products. It hails from the South where it was especially developed over a century ago—to help southern cooks bake their biscuits and muffins in a jiffy.

THE LITTLE WOMAN

"Let's not be hasty, Emily. It may have possibilities."

Raisin Drop Cookies

Before you know it the cookie jar's run out of cookies, too. Fill it up with delicious Raisin Drop C ooks,iequckion TH THTHTH Cookies, quick-mix so you can whip them up in a jiffy. To prepare, sift together 2 cups sifted enriched flour, 2 teaspoons baking powder and ¾ teaspoon salt. Add 1 cup brown sugar, ¾ cup shortening, 1 egg, ¼ cup milk and 1 teaspoon vanilla extract. Mix well to blend all the ingredients, then beat 300 strokes by hand or 2 minutes at medium speed on electric mixer. Add 1 cup raisins (or currants or finely chopped dates, if you prefer) and mix thoroughly. Drop by spoonsful on ungreased baking sheet and bake in moderate oven (375° F.) 10 to 15 minutes. Makes about 4 dozen 2-inch cookies.

WIFE PRESERVERS

New, easy way of making cake is to sift flour, sugar, baking powder and salt into bowl, drop in shortening, add milk and vanilla and beat 150 strokes; then add egg and beat 150 more strokes.

Every second, the sun sends out a million times more energy than is stored in all the earth's coal, petroleum and natural gas fields.

Mailing 'Goodies'

Now is the time to start thinking about "goodies" to send off your hard-working student. Bar cookies and brownies are excellent for mailing. Bake them in an aluminum foil-lined pan that you can lift right out when the cookies have cooled. Leave them uncut, pack them up and send 'em off.

Include several little coffee cakes that you've baked in empty coffee cans. Just prepare a favorite yeast coffee cake, and fill each can ⅓ full of dough after the first rising period. Allow the little coffee cakes to rise until doubled then bake as usual. Remove from cans to cool then return to the cans, pop on the lids and your little coffee cakes will stay fresh and whole en route.

Cranberry Muffins

¼ cup shortening
¼ cup sugar
2 eggs, well beaten
2 cups sifted all-purpose flour
5 teaspoons baking powder
1 teaspoon salt
⅔ cup milk
1 cup whole cranberry sauce or cubes of jellied cranberry sauce

Cream together shortening and sugar. Fold in well beaten eggs. Sift flour, baking powder, and salt together. Add sifted dry ingredients to shortening-sugar mixture alternately with milk. Blend throughly. Fill greased muffin tins ⅓ full making a hole in center of the batter. Put in one teaspoonful of cranberry, then fill tins until ⅔ full. Bake in hot oven (400°F.) for about 30 minutes. Serve hot. Makes 12 muffins.

Sauce For Ham

Want something different to serve with baked ham? Try this unusual banana sauce. Mash two ripe bananas until smooth. Add 2/3 cup mayonnaise, 1 teaspoon salt, 1 tablespoon prepared mustard, 1 tablespoon horseradish and two tablespoons finely chopped parsley. Mix well. This is good with either hot or cold ham.

HOLIDAY TOUCH

NFW YORK (UPI) — Start celebrating Thanksgiving at breakfast by serving oatmeal with jellied cranberry sauce silhouettes. Cut canned sauce into thin slices and use small cookie cutters to shape turkeys from each slice. Top with heaping spoonfuls of brown sugar and cream or milk.

Delicious Desserts

For the multitude of people who tend to feel that desserts virtually "make the meal," the coming of cool weather brings special pleasures. The increased activities and heartier appetites of the season can put the sweet touch at the end of the meal to good use. To get the most from your desserts make them nutritious as well as tempting — they'll add needed food value to the family diet.

Baked desserts, for example, are more nourishing with the addition of an extra egg or two to the ingredients. They'll taste better and have better texture and consistency, too. The dried egg will serve the same purpose as fresh shell eggs. Only the shells and water have been removed. For food combinations requiring liquid eggs, you can quickly restore the dried egg to use merely by reblending with water.

Many recipes, however, call for the dried egg "as it is." One of the most pleasing of these is Baked Custard, a rich, smooth and creamy dish, hearty and satisfying, but delicious, too.

- ⅔ cup sifted dried whole egg
- ½ cup sugar
- ¼ teaspoon salt
- 3⅓ cups hot milk (or reconstituted nonfat dry milk)
- 1 teaspoon vanilla
- Nutmeg, if desired

Sift together the egg, sugar and salt. Stir in the hot milk gradually. Add the vanilla. Pour into custard cups and sprinkle lightly with nutmeg. Place custard cups in a pan of hot water. Bake at 350° F. (moderate oven) for 30 to 40 minutes, or until set. If desired, top each custard with a spoonful of jelly just before serving. Makes 6 servings.

The dried egg also goes well in this fine textured Layer Cake, that makes a superb dessert, suitable even for a festive holiday meal.

- ½ cup shortening
- 1 teaspoon vanilla
- 1 cup sugar
- ⅓ cup sifted dried whole egg
- 1 cup milk (or reconstituted nonfat dry milk)
- 2 cups sifted flour
- 2½ teaspoons baking powder
- ¼ teaspoon salt

Cream the shortening, vanilla, and sugar until well blended. Sprinkle the egg over milk, stir to moisten, and beat until smooth. Sift together the flour, baking powder, and salt. Add alternately with egg to the creamed mixture. Pour into two greased 8-inch layer cake pans. Bake at 375° F. (moderate oven) for about 30 minutes. Spread with your favorite frosting.

Or try this tasty Gingerbread, an old-time favorite with the youngsters, that's especially good for snacktime treats.

- ⅓ cup sifted flour
- ⅓ cup nonfat dry milk
- 2½ tablespoons sifted dried whole egg
- ¼ teaspoon baking soda
- 1 teaspoon baking powder
- ¼ teaspoon salt
- ¼ cup sugar
- 1 teaspoon ginger
- ½ teaspoon cinnamon
- 1/16 teaspoon cloves
- ¼ cup fat or oil
- ½ cup boiling water
- ½ cup molasses

Sift together the dry ingredients. Add the fat to the boiling water. Add molasses and blend well. Add slowly to the dry ingredients, beating well after each addition. Pour into a greased baking pan (8 x 8 inches). Bake at 350° F. (moderate oven) for about 28 minutes.

Lamb Sandwich

Left over roast lamb is delicious as a hot sandwich with gravy, but why not try this cold lamb sandwich, too? Spread six slices enriched white bread with softened cream cheese. Spread six more slices with softened butter or margarine, then with mint jelly. Top the jelly slices with roast lamb, then close the sandwiches with the cream cheese slices. Cut the sandwiches in half and serve with hot vegetable soup and relishes.

Onions Aurelia

Serve this as a relish with charcoal-broiled steak: Drain liquid from 1 can small whole onions, add 2 tablespoons each Spanish olive oil, vinegar and raisins, 1 tablespoon each brown sugar and catsup, half a bay leaf and a generous dash of Accent. Simmer just until onions are heated through; chill. Add minced parsley just before serving.

Vegetable Medley Au Gratin

(Serves 8)

- 2 (12-oz.) packages frozen mixed peas and carrots
- 2 cups finely diced celery
- 1 bunch green onions, thinly sliced
- 4 tablespoons margarine or butter
- 5 tablespoons flour
- 1 cup rich milk
- ½ cup California Sauterne, Chablis or other white dinner wine
- 1 cup grated American cheese
- 2 tablespoons minced parsley
- Salt and pepper to taste
- ½ cup buttered fine bread crumbs
- Paprika

Cook frozen peas and carrots according to package directions; add celery and onions 3 or 4 minutes before peas and carrots are done. Drain vegetables thoroughly, reserving liquid. Melt butter and stir in flour; add milk, Sauterne and ½ cup of the reserved vegetable liquid; cook slowly, stirring constantly, until mixture is thickened and smooth. Add cheese and stir over low heat until melted. Add parsley, salt and pepper. Combine this sauce with the drained vegetables; pour into a greased baking dish or individual casseroles; sprinkle with bread crumbs. Bake in a moderately hot oven (375 degrees F.) about 20 minutes, or until bubbly.

Choose From 3 Lemon Pies

Looking for a lemon dessert that is "most likely to succeed?" Here are three to choose from according to your family's tastes. And they use frozen concentrated lemonade to give the much-sought-after lemon flavor while saving you the tasks of squeezing and grating.

Try each of these in turn: (1) Creamy Lemon Pie, a crumb-crusted chiffon with a small amount of whipped cream for richness; (2) Lemon Cheese Pie, a mellow but not sweet cheese-cake type lemon dessert complemented by lightly sugared sour cream on top; and (3) old-fashioned Lemon Meringue Pie which avoids lemon-squeezing but has a good nippy lemon flavor.

Creamy Lemon Pie

2 6-oz. cans frozen concentrated lemonade
¼ cup cold water
1 envelope unflavored gelatin
4 egg yolks
¼ teaspoon salt
4 egg whites
½ cup sugar
½ cup whipping cream

Remove frozen lemonade from zero storage and allow to defrost. (Place unopened container under running warm water for approximately 10 minutes.) Measure ¼ cup cold water and sprinkle gelatin over it to stand and soften. Beat egg yolks slightly and turn into top part of double boiler with defrosted lemonade and salt. Cook over hot water, stirring constantly, until thickened (about 5 minutes). Remove from heat, then add the soaked gelatin and stir until dissolved.

Turn into bowl and cool in refrigerator until partially jelled. Beat egg whites until stiff and add the ½ cup sugar gradually, beating 1 minute longer. Fold this meringue into jelled mixture. Whip cream and fold it in also. Pile lightly into baked and cooled 9-inch crumb crust (below). Chill before serving.

Single Crumb Crust (9-inch pie)

1½ cups vanilla wafer crumbs
⅓ cup butter or margarine, melted
¼ cup sugar
¼ teaspoon salt

Mix all ingredients and press evenly over surface of 9-inch pie pan. Bake 5 minutes in moderately hot oven (375 deg. F.). Cool and add Creamy Lemon filling (above). Makes 9-inch crust.

Lemon Cheese Pie (8-inch pie)

1 6-oz. can frozen concentrated lemonade
1 cup vanilla wafer crumbs (about 30 wafers)
2 tablespoons butter or margarine, melted
1 tablespoon sugar
Few grains salt
3 packages (3-oz. each) cream cheese
2 eggs, beaten
1 tablespoon sugar
1 cup sour cream

Defrost lemonade by placing unopened can under running water. Meanwhile make crumb crust by mixing crumbs, melted butter or margarine, 1 tablespoon sugar, and the few grains of salt. Press this mixture evenly and firmly on bottom and sides of 8-inch pie pan. Mix defrosted lemonade thoroughly with the cream cheese. Add beaten eggs and beat until fluffy. Pour into unbaked crumb crust and bake in moderate oven (350 deg. F.) 20 minutes. (Filling will have a few bubbles on top, but will not be as firm as a custard.) Remove from oven and let stand at room temperature 5 minutes. Prepare topping by mixing sugar and sour cream. Spread this over pie and return to oven to bake an additional 10 minutes. Cool, then chill in refrigerator at least 5 hours before serving. (Notice that the sugar of the lemonade is the only sweetener in this pie except for a small amount added to crust and to sour cream topping.)

Frozen Lemonade Meringue Pie

1 can frozen concentrated lemonade
1 9-inch baked pie shell
7 tablespoons cornstarch
½ cup sugar
¼ teaspoon salt
1½ cup hot water
3 egg yolks, beaten
2 tablespoons butter or margarine
3 egg whites
¼ teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon vanilla if desired
6 tablespoons sugar

Remove frozen concentrated lemonade from freezer and let stand at room temperature to defrost while making baked pie shell. Mix cornstarch, sugar, and salt in saucepan. Stir in hot water and gradually bring to a boil over direct heat. Then cook 8 to 10 minutes over medium heat, stirring constantly until thick and clear. Remove from heat and stir several spoonfuls of this hot mixture into beaten egg yolks. Pour egg yolks back into pan, bring to a boil, then cook over low heat for 4 to 5 minutes, stirring constantly. Remove from heat and gradually add frozen concentrated lemonade and butter or margarine. Stir well. Cool. The mixture thickens as it cools. Pour into baked pie shell and top with meringue made as follows:

Beat egg whites to a foam, then add salt and flavoring and beat until stiff. Add sugar a small amount at a time while beating until shiny soft peaks are formed. Pour evenly over cooled filling and spread so that it seals to crust. Bake in moderate oven (350 deg. F.) 12 to 15 minutes until lightly browned.

Little Sandwiches

For any picnic meal, when the main course features hearty food such as fried chicken or barbecued spareribs, be sure to pack lots of little bread and butter sandwiches. For extra interest and flavor, sprinkle chopped chives or parsley between the bread slices. Or try different seasoned salts. These little sandwiches will provide extra nourishment to the meal when they're prepared with enriched bread. The enriched bread on your grocer's shelf today has generous amounts of niacin, thiamine, riboflavin and iron added—all necessary nutrients for strong healthy bodies.

You'll never have really clean washes till you realize this: Oily body dirt takes a special kind of cleaning power. The Clorox kind. Weaker bleaches just won't do. Detergents can't get rid of it without tiresome hand-treating. Suds-proof body dirt is too stubborn to be floated away or covered up. It must be dissolved. Adding Clorox to your suds dissolves it...right in your washer.

P-Tea-A Punch

Next time it's your turn to hostess the PTA meeting, set a congenial mood to create the inevitable result of a tea party — amity and a relaxed mood. Whether members take their tea hot and hearty, or in a refreshing punch, tea's soothing effects are bound to be helpful in getting matters off to a smooth start.

As for refreshments, be the executive type and ask your friends to bring their own "Specialty of the House." They'll be proud and flattered that you asked, and maybe even want to sell copies of the recipes to raise money for the group.

P-TEA-A PUNCH
(Makes 20-25 4-ounce punch cup servings)

- 2 quarts freshly drawn cold water
- ¼ cup tea leaves, 15 teabags, or 5 tablespoons instant tea
- 4 oranges
- 4 lemons
- 16 whole cloves
- 1 cup sugar
- 2 cups water

Bring water to full rolling boil; pour over tea leaves or teabags; cover and let steep three to five minutes. Strain and cool. For instant tea, merely dissolve tea in cold water. Squeeze oranges and lemons; reserve rinds and strain juice. Stud citrus rinds with cloves. Place in saucepan, add sugar and remaining 2 cups water. Simmer gently about 30 minutes; discard rinds. Add syrup and fruit juices to tea. Chill thoroughly. Serve over ice in punch bowl.

To make hot tea for a crowd (40-45 servings) make a tea concentrate. Pour 1½ quarts boiling water over ¼ pound loose tea. Brew 5 minutes. Stir and strain into a teapot. When ready to serve pour a little concentrate into a cup, then fill with hot water.

MRS N's SPECIAL CAKE
(Makes 8 or 9-inch layer cake)

Prepare yellow cake mix according to directions on package for layers. When cool, fill and frost with this icing: Cream 1 stick (¼ pound) butter until very light and fluffy. Add 1 unbeaten egg. Sift 1 pound confectioners' sugar, and beat into butter alternately with about ⅓ cup brandy (or use 1 teaspoon rum flavoring and light cream or milk for the liquid.) Whip until icing is light and of good spreading consistency. To decorate, roll out 10 gingersnaps to fine crumbs and press into icing around sides of cake.

Candy Loaf Cool Delight

It almost takes a supermarket right in the kitchen to satisfy a child's constant appetite. A modern electric refrigerator-freezer fills the bill by holding quanities of fresh and frozen foods.

Since kids, cookies, and candy make a dandy team, once the vegetables are eaten, here's a fine dish for filling that bottomless pit your child seems to have for a stomach:

Gelatin Candy Loaf
(Makes Six Servings)

- 3 cups boiling water
- 1 pkg. (6 oz.) lime-flavored gelatin
- 1 cup heavy cream, whipped
- 2 bars (2⅛ oz.) soft-centered coconut chocolate bars, sliced
- 20 vanilla wafers (1¾")

Pour boiling water over gelatin, stir until dissolved. Chill until slightly thickened. Fold in cream and sliced candy. Pour ⅓ of mixture into 9x5x3-inch loaf pan. Top with ten vanilla wafers. Repeat layers. Top with remaining ⅓ of gelatin mixture. Chill in refrigerator section until firm. Unmold to serve.

Biscuits, Muffins

November introduces the fall and winter season, when homemakers across the nation renew their interest in creative cooking. These two popular and simple hot breads are so versatile, they seem to symbolize the thoughtfullness which comes with home-baked foods. So, if you're seeking an easy way to cook pleasure into your family meals, try a variation on the biscuit or muffin theme. Hot breads, main dishes, casseroles, snacks and even desserts can be given a personal touch this way.

CORNBREAD

NEW YORK (UPI) — What can you do with leftover jellied whole cranberry sauce? Make cornbread. Using a mix or a favorite recipe, swirl about 1-3 cup of sauce through the batter after it's poured into the baking pan. Bake according to package or recipe directions.

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 ♠	5 ♣	5 ♠	Pass
Pass	6 ♣	Pass	Pass
6 ♠	Pass	Pass	Pass

Opening lead: King of ♣

Today's hand provided a bit of excitement when it came up in a recent tournament. Although the West players found themselves possessors of a nine card club suit, the best result any of them could attain was to take a 500 point sacrifice against the North-South slam.

In the West seat every player overcalled South's one spade opening with a preemptive bid of five clubs. North raised freely to five spades and South was forced to pass inasmuch as partner's bid was made under considerable presure.

The freak distribution inspired most Wests to persist to six clubs and at this point North made an enlightening call—a forcing pass. This requests partner to either double the opponents or else go on to six. He felt that there was an excellent prospect for slam if South held three aces, and that with only two aces South would be forced to double.

At the table where the diagrammed bidding took place, South carried on to six spades and West elected to defend.

West opened the king of clubs and shifted to the seven of diamonds. Declarer won the trick with the dummy's king. Trumps were extracted in two rounds and it seemed like smooth sailing since there seemed little doubht that a long heart could establish itself for the discard of a diamond. But the lead of the king of hearts showed that a long card in that suit could not be developed.

South saw that a squeeze would be required to fulfill the contract inasmuch as East obviously had the burden of protecting both red suits. Declarer therefore cashed the ace of diamonds and ran out all his trumps, coming down to the ace and one heart and the nine of diamonds, while the dummy held queen, and two small hearts.

East, forced to reduce to three cards, had his choice of letting go the high diamond or unguarding his protection in hearts.

The maximum North-South result was achieved at a table where declarer took all the tricks. West elected to underlead his ace-king-queen of clubs in the hope that East held the jack and could then give him a heart ruff. South won the trick and proceeded to execute the same squeeze on his opponent.

The CENTENNIAL SCRAPBOOK

The War for the Union 1861-65 in Pictures

No. 73 The Confederate Congress opened and ended its 4th session the same September 1861 day it convened at Richmond in the old Virginia capitol.

There, in 1807, Chief Justice John Marshall presided over the trial of Aaron Burr and saved the party of Thomas Jefferson the embarrassment of the conviction of his erstwhile vice president as a traitor. There, in 1861, a former president, John Tyler, sat as a member of the lower house of the provisional Congress.

When the move was made from Montgomery to Richmond, Howell Cobb of Georgia orated, "The people of Virginia will appreciate this advent of the Southern government. . . . We wanted to let Virginia know that whatever threats or dangers were presented to her, filled our hearts with sympathy with her, which we are willing to exhibit . . ."

But with Virginia a battleground the Rebel Congress seldom exhibited feelings publicly about anything. Reporters were left nothing to say other than "Congress met at the usual hour and was opened with a prayer. It then went into secret session."

President Davis kept it a one-man government. Nevertheless, in a fine show of democracy, the provisional Congress provided for formal elections of a president, vice president and members of Congress that autumn.

Ann Landers . . .

Answers Your Problems

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I'm 17 and my boy friend, Chuck, is 19. He is a physical culture enthusiast and is always showing me a new judo hold or some body-building exercise.

Last night he tried a double flip on me. I didn't land right and my shoulder was dislocated. It was so painful I thought I broke something so I went in and woke up my folks. They called the doctor.

My father is like a madman over this. He says I can't go with Chuck any more because he's a nut and doesn't know how to treat a lady. Please say something to calm my father down. I like Chuck a lot and it's not as bad as it sounds.

—IN A SLING

DEAR SLING: What kind of a "lady" lets a fellow practice judo holds on her?

I'm not going to be much help as far as Chuck is concerned, but maybe I can help you by suggesting that in the future you insist the boys keep their hands off. Build your body on your own, Tarzana.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I need help and don't tell me my story is so old if I put it to music I could dance to it. It may be old to you but it's new to me.

I learned by accident that my husband had an affair with a woman who pretended to be a friend of mine. When I confronted him with the evidence he broke down and cried. He said he'd only seen her twice and he never wanted to see her again. The woman moved out of town last week to take another job so I half-way believed him.

But how can I trust him after this? If he fooled me so completely how can I be sure he won't do it again? If I weren't such a coward I'd take the children and leave.

How does a woman rebuild her faith in a man after such an ordeal? — CRUSHED SPIRIT

DEAR CRUSHED: Women who pickle the past and put it on the mantel as a reminder exclude any hope of a happy life.

Close the door on yesterday not for HIM — but for yourself. Believe in him and let him know that you do. If you fail to meet the challenge you will surely drive him back in her arms — or elsewhere.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Last year I married a widow who is ten years younger than I am.

I built her a comfortable little home and bought her a new car. Three months after our marriage she went 1,000 miles away to visit her daughter. She stayed nine weeks. I sent her $200 a month.

I married this woman for companionship and I'm not getting any. In addition to being lonely when she is away, I have to keep the place straight and cook most of my own meals because our cleaning lady comes in only three days a week.

Last night she told me her daughter is working too hard and she must go out and help her again. Do you have any advice?—MARRIED BUT ALONE

DEAR M BUT A: You are a sap to serve as a long-distance cash register. One trip a year to visit her daughter should be plenty. If she doesn' agree, tell her to stay with her daughter permanently — and get a job.

To learn the knack of feeling comfortable with the opposite sex, send for ANN LANDERS' booklet, "How To Be Date Bait," enclosing with your request 20 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

300 Hurricane Dead

MEXICO CITY (UPI)— The death toll in Southern Guerrero state from last week's Hurricane Tara rose to more than 300 Wednesday as rescue workers inched their way into devastated areas. Hundreds were still said to be missing. Many of them, however, were thought to be among the 20,000 that evacuated flooded and mud - buried villages and towns.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Dorothy Manners

(Substituting for vacationing Louella Parsons)

HOLLYWOOD, — Once again Laurence Harvey will play the character of Joe Lampton, of 'Room at the Top" fame, Joe being the heel who brought Harvey to the attention of the world—and Joan Cohn.

Joe lives again in "Councilman Lampton," novelist John Braine's follow-up to his "Room at the Top" and it is fitting and proper that the sequel has been bought by the Woolf Brothers, John and Jimmy, to again star Harvey.

The new story takes place 10 years after the wedding of Lampton and the industrialist's daughter and from what I hear of it, neither Lampton's ambition nor his love life have cooled down a bit.

Bob Hope can pick up several million dollars plus percentages if he'll follow up the "World of Bob Hope," a TV smash, with a movie, "The Life of Bob Hope."

Robin, who arrives in New York Thursday for the premiere of "Bachelor in Paradise," is flirting with the idea. Says it has it's drawbacks:

"It would put me in Crosby's financial bracket," he cracks, "a tax bite worse than death. Besides, what would they use for an ending? I don't know how I'm going to wind up." On the "Road" to many millions, obviously.

Teenage divorcee Sahron Hugueny has been in touch with Warner Brothers and tells her bosses that she will report back to work in three weeks. Over long distance 'phone, from a locale she still wants to keep secret, Sahron said that she and Bob Evans ended their five months marriage, "amicably" with no bitterness on either side. "It's just that there were certain conflicts we couldn't settle," she said.

Meantime, she just wants to rest and keep out of the limelight until any fuss over her sudden Juarez, Mexico, divorce from Bob settles down.

A lady who will, and DOES tell her age—Eleanor Powell, proudly says she will be 49 on the 21st and will observe her natal day tapping all over the stage at Harrah's Club at Lake Tahoe where her act is currently packing 'em in.

"Just call me the dancing Sophie Tucker," laughs Ellie. She also says that starting in January she is putting together a show that will make her current act look like a tryout. "The new show will run two hours, feature 25 performers and we'll break it in on a tour of South America and Europe before opening in the U.S.A," reports the indefatigable Eleanor.

Guards at the homes of Tony Curtis and Yul Brynner were doubled this week in Salta, Argentina, in anticipation of the three days strike of all workers throughout the Argentine.

The "Taras Bulba" company, now shooting in Salta in the Harold Hecht picture, isn't anticipating any particular trouble. So far, the only "demonstrating" has been done by a large group of eager-beaver fans standing in front of the homes of the stars who are anxious to see them and get autographs.

"Music Man" Robert Preston, who heads for New York to start rehearsals on his next Broadway musical, "We Take the Town," is plugging like mad to get Rita Moreno as his leading lady.

Bob flipped over Rita's talent when he saw how vivid she is in "West Side Story" and has put in call after call to the Broadway producers about getting her. Where Rita is concerned— she's flattered. But a successful show would keep her off the screen a long time, and she's movie minded.

W. Va. Medical Care Program Short Of Funds

30,000 Oldsters Certified Eligible

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—The State Welfare Department, which is running out of money for its medical care program for the aged faster than anticipated, would need about $19 million for the 1962-63 fiscal year to maintain it at its present rate.

That report came from L. L. Vincent, assistant director, who explained that out of $5 million appropriated from July 1 through December, the department has spent more than $1.4 million and still has about $2 million in doctor's bills yet to pay.

In addition, Vincent said doctors are about two months behind in billing the department because of a delay in the printing necessary forms. Indications were that these delayed bills would run better than $1 million.

About 30,000 West Virginia oldsters have been certified for medical aid under the program.

Vincent made the disclosures Tuesday after a legislative committee ended a two-day meeting here. The committe, organized by the 1961 Legislature to study all phases of the department and its programs, will make an interim report in January and a final report to the 1963 Legislature.

Sen. Carl Gainer, D-Webster, committee co-chairman, said the state could not afford to keep up the medicare program at the present rate.

"Apparently the medical needs are far greater than anticipated," Gainer said.

The senator and co-chairman Del. Jack Nuzum, D-Randolph, said the committee planned to meet again Dec. 1 when it will act on its interim report to the 1962 Legislature.

Pie Harvey's combo played for the "Lover's Island" hop, with Hawaiian theme decorations of azure blue and white, palm trees and a little grass shack.

PSC United Fund Drive Tops Quota

KEYSER—The County United Fund Drive at Potomac State College topped its expected quota of $1,100 by a slight but significant amount acording to Dr. Allen E. Murphy, campus chairman.

Last year the goal of $900 was exceded by $143. Since there were more persons on campus to contribute this year, the goal was raised. Another shingle, to be aded to the plaque, will now be given to the college.

Dr. Murphy wishes to thank those who contributed: the administration, the faculty, the staff, the maintenance department, and the kitchen help for their coperation in making the drive a success.

He added that special thanks go to Jack Hartman, Kenneth Haines, J. Kenna Burke, Miss Virginia Johnson, Mrs. Elizabeth Hanlin, SP5 John Golaboff, and Phillip Baker who assisted in collecting from the various departments.

PSC May Get New Dormitory For Women

Initial Survey Is Authorized

KEYSER — Preliminary plans are being considered for the construction of a new women's dormitory on the Potomac State College campus.

According to President E. E. Church, the Board of Governors of West Virginia University, the governing board of Potomac State, has given the approval for investigating the feasibility of the project. The Federal Housing Administration has made a reservation of $400,000 for the construction of a new woman's dorimtory and application forms are now being prepared for future submission to the FHA.

Robert J. Bennett, Morgantown architect who designed the interior and exterior of the college's recently completed library, is working with the administration to compile data for the proposed building. Mr. Bennett had an engineering crew visit the campus and secure the necessary topographical information for the preparation of the preliminary plans.

Dr. Imogene Dever, Dean of Women, Mrs. Gertrude Stanhagen, secretary to the president, President Church, and Bennett recently visited Shepherd and Glenville Colleges to inspect their new women's dormitories.

Although planning for the development of the dormitory is still in the preliminary stage, the administration tends to take an optimistic point of view toward the construction of this building that will house approximately 100 women. If plans are approved and given the final go-ahead on the project, the earliest possible completion date would be the fall of 1963.

Scholarship Given Beall '61 Graduate

FROSTBURG — Donald Zarefoss, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Zarefoss, 61 Broadway, a 1961 graduate of Beall High School, and student at the University of Maryland, has been notified by State Delegate Thomas F. Conlon, Jr., that he has been awarded a scholarship as a result of the National Merit Scholarship tests he took in high school.

While at Beall, Zarefoss was a member of the band, president of the Hi-Y, member of National Honor Society, and The Thespians. At graduation, he was named salutatorian of his class and also received the Arion Band award. He was active in Troop 48, Boy Scouts, and youth organizations of Welsh Memorial Baptist Church.

On the basis of his high school record, Donald was one of 62 university students chosen to live in section A of Cambridge Hall to participate in an experiment in academic excellence, believed to be the first of its type anywhere.

It is an effort to set up a group of students who could take the intellectual lead on the campus and to show that students living in such an environment can do better academically. Should the experiment prove successful, other honor sections will be organized at College Park.

Vets Sponsor Observance At Lonaconing

300 Attend V-D Memorial Ceremony

LONACONING — Praise to the approximately 300 faithful citizens who annually pause for the quiet ceremony of November 11, Veterans Day, at the First Presbyterian churchyard, Lonaconing, was merited by Mayor Virgil Alexander, master of ceremonies. A parade from the VFW home to the Soldier's Monument preceded the program.

Taking part in the V.D. program were James Berry, commander of James P. Love Post No. 92, American Legion; Onas D. Hanekamp, chairman of the observance; Mrs. Raymond Miller, Auxiliary VFW president; Bernard D. Cordial, commander of Alvin C. Neat Post No. 5280; Memorial wreaths were presented by Commander Berry and Commander Cordial, and Mrs. Miller. Rev. W. E. Mitchell, newly appointed pastor to the Pentecostal Holiness church, gave benediction. Kenneth E. Sheetz, principal of Bruce High School, spoke of Abraham Lincoln's boyhood days, of a 15-year old girl's winning paper on "America Is Great Because," and of the liberties Americans hold. Mayor Virgil Alexander welcomed the guests and Father Leslee E. Schwindt gave the invocation. All Central Elementary school pupils marched to the monument Friday and placed their memorial wreath at the memorial.

Anniversary Observed

MIDLAND — Mr. and Mrs. Thomas H. Taylor, Main and Union Streets, observed their fiftieth wedding anniversary with a family dinner at home.

Mr. and Mrs. Taylor were married September 12, 1911 at German Lutheran Church, Frostburg, by Rev. Eugene Henzel. Mrs. Taylor, daughter of the late George and Margaret (Engle) Eisentrout was born at Hoffman and later lived in Pennsylvania prior to her marriage. Her husband, a son of the late Thomas and Betty (Hamill) Taylor and a great grandson of the late Meshack and Catherine (Majers) Frost, was born at Ocean and resided in Frostburg and Midland.

Taylor operates the T. H. Taylor Fire Insurance Agency which he has owned 47 years. He worked for Orts Brothers Bakery in Midland and the Eureka Life Insurance Company.

They have four children, Mrs. Julia Morton and Miss Hazel Taylor, Midland; Mrs. Bettie Brasure, Wilmington, Del., and Charles F. Taylor, Lonaconing, four grandchildren and a great grandchild.

A son, Thomas A. Taylor, lost his life in World War II at St. Lo, France, June 29, 1944.

PTA Plans Talent Show This Friday

OAKLAND — Deadline for filing entry blanks for the second annual PTA Talent Show at Southern High School has been extended until tomorrow, according to Rober. Wooters, president.

As previously announced, three divisions have been approved for the show. The first part of the show will have performers up to 12 years of age. The first place winner will receive $5 and the second and third place winners will receive $3 and $2 repsectively.

In the second division, which includes all teenagers, three prizes of $10, $5 and $3 will be awarded.

First place winner in the adult division will receive $15, and the runner-up will receive $10, Wooters said.

Charles Briner, who is heading up the advertising and programming, has announced that all first place winners will appear on television in Clarksburg. Judges are coming from radio stations in the area.

Proceeds from the show, which will be held at Southern High School at 8 p. m. Friday, are to be placed in the Southern High School Teacher Education Scholarship Fund.

Kenneth Johns, principal stated that if patrons of the school would like to have their names placed in the program as contributors to the fund, they could do so by sending a $1 contribution to the school before Wednesday.

FSTC Library Building Plans Are Submitted

Building To Cost Around $600,000

FROSTBURG — Premlinary plans for the new library at Frostburg State Teachers College have been submitted to the Department of Public Improvements, according to R. Bowen Hardesty, president. Budget estimates for the library call for an appropriation of $600,000 for the building and $120,000 for equipment.

Money for the purchase of the site and planning was provided in the 1961 legislative session. If present plans are approved, the money will be asked for in the January session of the Legislature and will be available for building purposes next July 1.

The plans, as drawn by Russ Minter, Cumberland architect, provide for a three-story building of red brick and limestone which, while distinctive in appearance, will be in harmony with the general architecture of the college. It will be constructed across Maple Street from Lowndes Hall and will be the first building in the new quadrangle to be developed on that block.

The new structure will be five times the size of the present library and will be designed for a student body of 1,600-2,000 and will house 125,000 volumes, it is reported.

The building will be of modular construction, providing flexibility inside. It will be completely air conditioned, with staff offices, technical processing rooms, reading areas, a staff lounge, a student reading lounge, study areas and special rooms.

The library will include such areas as conference rooms, audio-visual room, including a classroom, a curriculm library, a children's book collection, a micro-materials room, an archives and local history room, and an assembly room that will accomodate 100 persons. The latter will be available for exhibits and lectures.

W. Va. Parents Sentenced In Child's Death

WILLIAMSON, W. Va. (UPI)—Mr. and Mrs. Ernest W. Jessie of Wharncliffe, Mingo County, have received 6-month jail sentences and $100 fines on charges of child neglect following the death of an 18-month-old daughter.

Magistrate Arden Mounts handed down the penalties after an investigation by county welfare officials.

The infant daughter, the couple's second youngest child, died several days ago. An autopsy showed that pneumonia apparently was the cause of death.

Four others of the couple's remaining six children, ranging in age from 6 months to 12 years, are being cared for by the Salvation Army while the parents are in jail.

Authorities were attempting to determine how the couple used $165 a month they received in welfare benefits. A welfare official said indications were that the money was not squandered, but that the children apparently were not properly cared for.

Two of the other children were reported in a hospital at Man, one for treatment of leukemia and the other for examination.

Circuit Court Grants Divorces

Two divorces have been granted in Allegany County Circuit Court.

Sharon M. Tunis was issued a divorce from Floyd H. Tunis III and she was awarded custody of their minor child. Roger DeWayne Riggleman Sr. obtained a divorce from Pearl I. J. Riggleman and the defendant was awarded custody of their minor child.

The CENTENNIAL SCRAPBOOK

The War for the Union 1861-65 in Pictures

No. 74 Confederate leaders assumed in 1861 that the South's cotton was so important to British economy that inevitably the Confederacy would have British assistance. In 1860 British textile mills, which employed a half million wage earners, obtained about 75% of their raw material from the slave states. The manufactured product constituted a vital portion of British exports.

The Southern view was supported by such statements as Lord Lyons' statement to Lincoln's secretary of State that "if the United States determined to stop by force so important a commerce as that of Great Britain with the cotton-growing states [he] could not answer what might happen."

This clear implication of British naval intervention was given as the Union Navy began the initial phases of enforcing the blockade of the thousands of miles of Southern coast.

With the first feeling of a pinch on cotton supplies by British mills, the London Times, "the Thunderer," thundered, "So nearly are our interests intertwined with America that civil war in the States means destitution in Lancashire. The destiny of the world hangs on a thread."

Southern editors echoed Southern legislators' belief that efforts to seal off Southern ports would be "swept away by the English fleets."

It was suggested by some Southerners that the Confederacy impose an embargo on cotton to precipitate a famine in England.

What the Confederates did not reckon on was a refusal of Lancashire millhands to press their politicians to support the government that was defending slavery.

Charleston Bus Strike Is Settled

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—A strike of local bus drivers here was settled Wednesday. Officials immediately announced that the big red - and - white Charleston Transit Co. vehicles would be rolling in 12 hours.

In what was described as a do-or-die negotiating session, representatives of Motor Coach Employes union Local 1493 and the company hammered out a three-year agreement at morning and afternoon sessions.

The strikers, already summoned for a a late - afternoon meeting, then voted 65-to-32 to accept the agreement. This ended a strike which started Oct. 21, thus lasting 27 days. About 120 drivers and mechanics were involved.

The agreement calls for an immediate 10 - cent - an - hour pay raise, plus another 5 cents an hour next year and another 5 cents two years from now if, by then, the cost of living has risen as much as 10 per cent.

Also included for the first time are paid holidays. There will be two during the first year of the contract, another two starting the second year and still another two effective with the third year — making a total of six by then.

Bus service was scheduled to resume with normal runs at 4 a.m. Thursday.

Meanwhile, at Huntington, city officials and the public hoped the Charleston settlement would stimulate Ohio Valley Bus Co. and another Motor Coach local to resolve their deadlock in an even longer strike.

About 130 drivers and mechanics have been on strike in that area since Oct. 4. The company made its first offer of a wage hike Tuesday night — 2 cents an hour — but it was promptly rejected. The union, however, softened a bit, too, lowering its demand from 28 cents an hour to 13 cents spread over two years. The company rejected this and broke off negotiations.

More Funds Sought For W. Va. Mental Hospitals

By CARLO J. SALZANO

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—State Mental Health Director Charles A. Zeller said Wednesday he could reduce the number of patients in West Virginia's mental hospitals by close to half in the next three years.

But he said this would be possible only if the 1962 Legislature approves his request for an operating budget of $10.9 million for the 1962-63 fiscal year.

Zeller said he realizes that his request would mean an increase of more than $4.3 million from his current budget but explained that the money is necessary to alleviate current overcrowded conditions at mental institutions.

West Virginia now has about 6,000 patients in five mental hospitals and the state school for retarded children near St. Marys.

Would Raise Salaries

"I guarantee that I can reduce that population 40 per cent in three years with more money for adequate hospital staffs," Zeller said. "More doctors, nurses and aides can give patients more individual attention, better treatment and get them back home faster."

Zeller said his total request includes $7.7 million for salaries, an increase of $3.7 million over this fiscal year. Part of the additional money would be used for 5 per cent salary boosts for all employes. The rest would enable the department to increase the hospitals' professional and non-professional staffs from 1,446 to 2,396.

He said his proposed budget also provides for payment of all attendants in cash. Currently some are receiving part of their salaries in the form of maintenance in lieu of cash.

Zeller said he is not asking for money for any new hospital construction because "my philosophy is to provide for adequate staffing before starting new buildings."

Envisions New Clinics

"A building does not provide treatment; you still need an adequate staff."

However, Zeller does hope to start some new psychiatric clinics — he calls them his "first line of defense" — in the eastern and southeastern portions of the state.

The department currently is operating clinics at Charleston, Morgantown, Parkersburg, Wheeling and Martinsburg and a pilot clinic at Lewisburg.

In addition, Zeller would like to have $1.46 million for some capital improvements, including a $550,000 crib ward cottage at the Training School.

Zeller's proposed 1962-63 operating budget includes $1.15 million for Lakin Hospital, up $556,334; $814,350 for the training school, up $202,242; $603,727 for Barboursville Hospital, up $158,264; $4.1 million for Weston Hospital, up $2 million; $2.67 million for Huntington Hospital, up $1 million, and $1.88 million for Spencer Hospital, up $794,607.

Nurses Given Training In Mental Health

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—As a result of a new state mental health program, West Virginia nurses — for the first time in history — soon will be able to complete their academic training without leaving the Mountain State.

Beginning Nov. 27, the first group of 12 student nurses from Wheeling Hospital will be enrolled in a 12-week course in psychiatric nursing at Huntington State Hospital. It is a required course which heretofore students from 16 nursing schools in West Virginia had to take at some accredited institution outside the state.

The new course was made possible by a $232,000 appropriation by the 1961 Legislature.

State Mental Health Director Charles A. Zeller said Wednesday the second class at Huntington — a group of 20 nurses—also would be from Wheeling Hospital. Also planning to send student nurses to Huntington are St. Marys Hospital, Clarksburg; St. Joseph's Hospital, Parkersburg, and Marshall University.

Army Changes Rule On Color Blindness

The Department of the Army has announced that color blindness of any kind will no longer be a bar to enlistment in the Army. In addition, vision which can be corrected to 20/40 is also now acceptable.

Sgt. Thomas Walbert, local recruiter, stated that the new regulation on color blindness changes an order issued early this year which classified all who could not distinguish between bright red and bright green as physically disqualified for enlistment. Those who have been perviously rejected for this cause may now be accepted.

Shopping Center May Locate Here

Another shopping center may be located here, according to a letter received yesterday by Mayor J. Edwin Keech.

The letter, from a Youngstown, Ohio, consulting engineer, requests information from the city pertaining to supplying water service to a proposed shopping center on U. S. Route 220 near Nave's Crossroad.

A spokesman for the Youngstown firm said actual construction is expected to start early next year, explaining that some of the details still are being worked out.

It was stated that the proposed shopping center will occupy about 180,000 square feet, and that William Cafaro and Associates, also of Youngstown, will build the structure.

Maris Wins American League MVP Award Second Straight Year

Homer Champ Edges Mantle, Gentile Third

Maris Is Sixth Yankee To Win In Last Eight Years

By DICK DEW
United Press International

BOSTON (UPI) —Roger Maris, the only man to hit 61 home runs in a major league baseball season, Wednesday won the American League "Most Valuable Player" award for the second straight year.

And for the second straight time Maris, who surpassed even the immortal Babe Ruth when he hammered homer No. 61 on the last day of the season, took the league's top award by nosing out New York Yankee teammate Mickey Mantle.

This time Maris topped Mantle by four points in the voting, 202-198. Last year the margin was three points, 225-222, in the second closest balloting in MVP history.

"Without a question of doubt, this markes my happiness completely, said Maris when notified of the award at his home in Raytown, Mo. "I was hoping I would win, but I wasn't confident."

Maris' second MVP award caps an historic year in which his assault on Ruth's all-time record of 60 homers in a single season produced drama and dispute for the last two months of the season. Baseball Commissioner Ford Frick declared that, in order to tie Ruth's record, Maris would have to hit 60 homers in the first 154 games of the campaign, which this year was expanded to 162 games.

Failed To Beat Edict

Maris failed to beat the Frick edict, hitting only 59 in the first 153, but he went on to a new record of his own when, in the 162nd game on the last day of the regular season, he hit his 61st homer into the right field stands at Yankee Stadium against pitcher Tracy Stallard of the Boston Red Sox.

Dopesters had figured the MVP voting would lie between Maris and Mantle, and that's just how it turned out.

The two Yankee stars were the only players named on all 20 ballots cast by the MVP committee of the Baseball Writers Association of America. Maris had seven first-place votes, Mantle had six.

Two writers from each of the league's 10 cities voted, a change from the past when the committee consisted of three writers from eight cities. As in the past, each writer cast votes from 1st through 10th. Votes were compiled on a basis of 14 points for first place, 9 for second, 8 for third, and so on.

And in the end Maris' dramatic homer slugging carried the day over Mantle's all-around brilliance.

Led League In RBI's

Maris batted only .269 to Mantle's .317. Mantle had 54 homers to Roger's 61. Maris led the league in run's - batted - in with 142 to Mantle's 128.

Jim Gentile, Baltimore Orioles' first baseman ,who walloped 46 homers while the publicity spotlight was on the Yankee sluggers, came home a strong third in the MVP voting with 5 first - place votes and a 157 point total.

Gentile narrowly nosed out Detroit first baseman Norm Cash, who led the league in batting with .361 and had 41 homers and 132 rbi's and received 151 points.

But the Yankees completed a remakable showing as pitcher Whitey Ford placed fifth with 102 points and relief star Luis Arroyo sixth with 95. The world champions thus had four of the top six places and, with Elston Howard 10th, five of the first 10.

Maris was the sixth Yankee in the last eight years to win the award and the ninth Yankee since 1946.

Maris said Wednesday he thought "this was a very tough year to pick the MVP."

"I was one of several players in our league who had outstanding records," he said.

Red Sox Announce Broadcasting Team

BOSTON (UPI)—The Boston Red Sox announced Wednesday that their three-man radio-television broadcasting team of Curt Gowdy, Ned Martin and Art Gleeson had been signed to 1962 contracts.

Gowdy will be in his 12th season as "voice of the Red Sox" while Martin, who came here from Charleston, W. Va., last year, will be in his second season and Gleeson in his third.

Teams from the physical education department of Potomac State College will participate in a scrimmage during the program.

Harold A. Stevens Is Taken By Death

NEW YORK (UPI)—Harold A. Stevens, 83, the oldest brother of the Harry M. Stevens, Inc., sports concessionaires, died Wednesday at St. Vincent's Hospital after a long illness.

Stevens is survived by his wife, Daisy, his sister, Annie S. Rose, and three brothers, Frank M., William H. and Joseph B., who run the business which caters to ball parks and race tracks throughout major cities in most of the country.

After services here on Friday, the burial will take place at Niles, Ohio, on Saturday.

Rutgers Is Not Interested In Two Bowl Tilts

NEW BRUNSWICK, N.J. (UPI) —Rutgers, one of the nation's major undefeated football powers with a 7-0 season record, Wednesday notified officials of the Sun Bowl and the Aviation Bowl that it is not interested in playing in their post-season bowl games.

A university official stressed, however, that this decision does not rule out any post-season bowl competition by Rutgers this season.

"Rutgers has no policy against participating in football bowls," the official said.

He said Rutgers had been notified by officials of the Liberty Bowl, scheduled for Philadelphia on Dec. 16, that the Scarlet Knights were under "observation" for a possible invitation. The Ruggers official declined to say what action the school would take if an invitation to the Liberty Bowl were received.

Grimsley Picks Texas And Alabama To Lose

Notre Dame, Terps, Army And Ole Miss Are Favored To Win

By WILL GRIMSLEY
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—Texas and Alabama, the nation's No. 1 and No. 2 football teams, this week are sitting on the same keg of dynamite which blew Michigan State and Mississippi off the pinnacle Nov. 4. The upset odds are longer, but their fate could be the same.

Attempting to improve on last week's .746 average (41-14), we brazenly submit:

Georgia Tech 10, Alabama 7: Alabama beat Tennessee 34-3, Tennessee whipped Tech 10-6, so this result is a natural.

Army 21, Oklahoma 7: The Black Knights find inspiration in Yankee Stadium.

Notre Dame 23, Syracuse 20: The Irish found new talent and new momentum in the Pitt game.

Purdue 14, Minnesota 8: The Gophers have made us look foolish three straight weeks, but they must be getting weary.

UCLA 20, Washington 7: If the Uclans are looking over the Huskies' heads to USC, there'll be hades to bear.

Duke 25, North Carolina 14: Walt Rappold's versatility and great halfback speed give the Devils the edge.

Mississippi 20, Tennessee 7: The Rebels are still trying to live down their loss to LSU.

Rice 17, Texas A&M 13: The Owls' record looks like a berserk cardiograph. The needle is "up" this week.

The others all Saturday:

Navy 25, Virginia 7; Rutgers 22, Colgate 12; Ohio State 24, Oregon 7; Michigan State 19, Northwestern 6; Michigan 10, Iowa 7; Missouri 33, Kansas State 0; Colorado 15, Nebraska 14;

Maryland 13, Wake Forest 6; Louisiana State 30, Mississippi State 7; Baylor 25, Air Force 7; Arkansas 19, SMU 0; Arizona 26, Texas Western 6; Utah State 27, Utah 14; Kansas 10, California 7.

No Racial Problems If LSU Gets Invite To Play On Coast

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Representatives of Louisiana State University have assured Commissioner Tom Hamilton of the Big Five that there would be no racial problem if LSU is invited to the Rose Bowl.

Hamilton said LSU is one of 15 teams still under consideration as a Rose Bowl opponent for the Bowl opponent for the Big Five champ—either UCLA or Southern California. Both of those Los Angeles schools have Negro players.

None of the 10 schools on LSU's schedule has a Negro player.

Joe Cronin Lauds Maris' Selection

BOSTON (UPI) — American League President Joe Cronin said Wednesday Roger Maris deserved to be named the league's most valuable player because he "performed so capably under such pressure" last season.

"Roger Maris is highly deserving of the MVP Award, because I don't know of many players who performed so capably under such pressure as he did during the last part of the 1961 season.

"I'm sure the greatest years of his career still lie ahead for this great slugging star. I'm also pleased that so many players figured in the voting as evidence that several outstanding stars came into the prominence they deserve in the American League during the past season."

Black Hawks Win

CHICAGO (UPI)—Red Hay netted his first and second goals of the season Wednesday night and goalie Glenn Hall came up with his second shutout to give the Chicago Black Hawks a 2-0 triumph over the Detroit Red Wings.

The victory lifted the Hawks into a fourth-place tie with Detroit in the National Hockey League race, each five points behind the third-place New York Rangers.

Chicago Tops Tapers, 96-91

Overcomes Deficit In Final Quarter

LANSING, Mich. (UPI) — The Chicago Majors, led by Kelly Coleman's 12 points in the fourth quarter, overcame a seven-point deficit to defeat the Washington Tapers 96-91 Wednesday night in an American Basketball League game here.

The victory was Chicago's 5th in nine starts. Washington now is 2-6 in league play.

Cowboys Planning To Drop Football

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — Hardin-Simmons University, once a kingpin in Southwest football, plans to withdraw from major football competition, sports editor George McLeod of the Tucson Daily Citizen said Wednesday.

He said the Abilene, Tex., school is expected to announce its decision at the winter meeting of the Border Conference in El Paso, Tex., next month.

Toronto Spills Canadiens, 3-2

TORONTO (UPI)—Third-period goals by Bert Olmstead and Ed Shack gave the Toronto Maple Leafs a come-from-behind 3-2 victory over the league leading Montreal Canadiens Wednesday night. The victory boosted the Leafs into second place in the National Hockey League, one point in back of Montreal.

The Canadiens had gone into the final 14 minutes of play owning a tight 2-1 edge on goals by Bernie Geoffrion and Gilles Tremblay but a 17-second explosion backed up Dave Keon's opening period counter and left the Leafs on top.

Allegany Has 76 Candidates For Basketball

Coach Chester Payne Has Rebuilding Job

Alan Kaplon is the sole surviving letterman of the 1960-61 squad which won 14 of 22 games. Last year's Campers copped the W.M.I. title with an 8-2 record, bagged the county Class A championship, lost out in the District tourney to Southern of Oakland,, 90-71, and shared the city title with LaSalle at 3-1.

Dec. 15—Martinsburg, away.
Dec. 19—Piedmont, away.
Dec. 22—Alumni, home.
Dec. 27—South Hagerstown, away.

PVC Harrier Title Is At Stake Today

The Potomac Valley Conference cross-country championship will be at stake today when hill and dale runners of Beall High School, Romney High School and Elk Garden High School vie over a 2.1 mile course at Elk Garden.

Romney High Football Team Is Rated 5th

Final Standings Are Announced

PARKERSBURG, W. Va. (UPI) — The West Virginia Secondary Schools Activities Commission Wednesday released final ratings for the top high school football teams in the state.

However, executive secretary W. Gordon Eismon said the ratings of both New Martinsville and Spencer in Class AA were contingent on victories for these teams this week.

Weirton finished with a 13.90 rating in Class AAA and St. Albans, its Saturday playoff opponent in Parkersburg, was 13.10, Eismon said.

Unbeaten Mt. Hope had a final 13.85 Class AA rating. Wiliamson, which battles the Mustangs Saturday at Bluefield, was 12.87.

New Martinsville, if it wins over Class A Sistersville Thursday night, will be 12.45. If it loses, its rating would drop to 11.75. Spencer would finish with an 11.15 rating with a victory Friday over Mason City. A loss would send it down to 10.15.

Defending Class A champion Winfield wound up with a 10.90 rating and Williamstown 10.65. They will play Saturday at Ravenswood.

Class AAA — Weirton (9-1) 13.90; St. Albans (9-1) 13.10; Huntington (9-1) 12.85; Bluefield (9-1) 12.70; Fairmont East (8-1-1) 12.10; Morgantown (7-1-1) 11.61.

Class AA — Mt. Hope (10-0) 13.85; Williamson (8-2) 12.87; New Martinsville (9-0) 12.45; Spencer (9-0) 11.15; Romney (9-0) 10.2; Beckley Stratton (9-0) 9.1.

Class A — Winfield (10-0) 10.90; Williamstown (9-0-1) 10.65; Fairview (9-0) 10.31; Rainelle (9-0) 9.90; Lumberport 9.37.

Knicks Drop Into Cellar

Syracuse Defeats New York, 114-102

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Syracuse shot at a blistering 68 per cent clip in the first half to gain a 114-102 victory over New York Wednesday night in the opener of a National Basketball Association doubleheader at Convention Hall.

Syracuse's victory lifted the Nats from the Eastern Division cellar and shoved New York into the basement.

A big second period made the difference. Syracuse cashed 13 of 16 field goal tries in the second 12 minutes of action and made 29 out of 43 shots before the halftime intermission.

The Nats held a 67-54 lead entering the third period and owned a 90-80 margin after three periods. New York rallied to cut its deficit to 108-102 with 2:30 remaining but three points by Johnny Kerr clinched the victory.

Pistons Win Over Hawks

Detroit Scores 127-122 Victory

DETROIT (UPI)—The Detroit Pistons lashed out with an early fourth-period scoring spree and handed the St. Louis Hawks their third straight loss Wednesday night 127-122 in a National Basketball Association contest.

The victory moved the Pistons into third place in the Western Division of the NBA ahead of St. Louis. The defeat was the fourth in the last five outings for the Hawks.

Bailey Howell with 30 and Don Ohl with 28 paced the Pistons. Cliff Hagan pumped in 30 for St. Louis, Clyde Lovellette had 25 and Bob Pettit hit 22 for the losers.

JFK To Get Grid Medal

Ten To Be Inducted Into Hall Of Fame

NEW YORK (UPI)— President John F. Kennedy, whose college football career at Harvard was shortened by an injury, will be awarded the gold medal of the National Football Foundation and Hall of Fame at a $50-per-plate dinner at the Waldorf-Astoria on Dec. 5.

More than 1,500 of the nation's leaders in sports and other fields will attend the affair in which 10 former football stars will be inducted into the Hall of Fame. The awarding of the MacArthur Bowl to the country's top football team and the granting of eight scholar-athlete awards to college seniors also will take place.

Those to be inducted into the Hall of Fame, situated at Rutgers University in New Brunswick, N.J. are: Glenn Davis, Army halfback; Weldon Humble, Rice guard; Charley (Choo-Choo) Justice, North Carolina halfback; George McAfee, Duke halfback; Pat Pazzetti, Lehigh quarterback; Claude Reeds, Oklahoma fullback; Bob (Horse) Reynolds, Stanford tackle; Bob Suffridge, Tennessee guard; Charlie Caldwell, Princeton; and Don Faurot, Missouri coach.

EYES OF TEXAS—AND GRID WORLD—ON THEM—The University of Texas Longhorns, rated No. 1 in national polls, are led by two outstanding halfbacks, Jimmy Saxton, who has picked up 344 yards himself in the last two games, and Jerry Cook, who ranks next to Saxton in rushing and scoring. Coached by Darrell Royal, former Oklahoma quarterback, Texas has won eight in a row but still has to meet Texas Christian and Texas A. & M., two tough conference foes. (Central Press)

Miss Ramirez Quits Svdney Tennis Match

Mexican Storms Off Court During Rain

SYDNEY, Australia (UPI)—Mexican tennis star Yola Ramirez threw down her racquet and stormed off the court in anger Wednesday when she was forced to play for more than a half-hour in driving rain and bitter wind in the New South Wales tennis championships.

"What do they think I am—a fish?" demanded Miss Ramirez.

The Mexican star was meeting Robyn Ebbern, Queensland junior who upset U.S. champion Darlene Hard of Montebello, Calif., in an early round of the Queensland championships last week. Miss Ramirez won the opening set, 6-3, and was leading the second, 4-1, when she asked play be halted because of the weather.

Officials twice refused her request and the angry Miss Ramirez went on to lose the set, 7-5. Play will be resumed from that point Thursday.

Miss Hard's match Wednesday also was incomplete. Wearing a heavy warmup jacket throughout the match, the U.S. champion was leading 16-year-old Gail Sgerriff of Sydney, 6-1, 3-3, when play was halted.

Amherst Leading In Lambert Voting

NEW YORK (UPI) — Amherst, unbeaten and untied in seven games this season, was the unanimous No. 1 choice Thursday in the weekly balloting for the Lambert Cup.

It was the third straight week that the Lorf Jeffs held down the top spot in the voting to determine the mythical Eastern small college football champion.

Lehigh occupied the runner - up spot and was followed in order by Albright, Delaware, Hofstra, Maine, Bucknell, Susquehanna, West Chester, and Williams.

All except Maine and Hofstra among the top 10 complete their 1961 regular-season schedules Saturday. Amherst will wind up its campaign against Williams with the Little Three title at stake.

Watterson Riding For An Education

MIAMI, Okla. (AP) — Charles Watterson is working his way through college on horseback. It's dangerous, lucratice and hard on the diet.

Watterson is a horse jockey when not attending his books at Northwestern A & M College here where he is a freshman majoring in biological science.

He has been a jockey at race tracks across the country, earning money the past three summers for college.

Watterson says he has ridden in nearly 1,000 races and has more than 100 victories. He has been tossed twice by mounts but fortunately never was seriously injured.

Despite the hazards and the diet, Watterson says he gets a thrill with each mount and dreads the day he will have to stop riding.

The Sports Patrol

By STEVE SNIDER

NEW YORK (UPI) — Alabama and Minnesota, two of the top 10, head the selections Tuesday in the six "toughest to pick" colege football games coming up this weekend.

If you have to swim, there's only one way to get into cold water and that's with a dive:

The Toughies

Alabama 21, Georgia Tech 14—'Bama's Trammell the key man.
Minnesota 14, Purdue 7—The edge at quarterback.
Army 21, Oklahoma 13 — Cadets geared for 60-minute pressure.
Syracuse 21, Notre Dame 17 — Orange primed for this.
Duke 20, North Carolina 14—Traditional donnybrook.

The East

Pittsburgh 17, Southern California 14—Home field edge.
Penn State 21, Holy Cross 7—Lion line makes the difference.
Rutgers 20, Colgate 8—Staying unbeaten.
Princeton 14, Yale 8—Ivy League headliner.

Also: Boston College over Boston U., Navy over Virginia, Harvard over Brown, Columbia over Pennsylvaia, Dartmouth over Cornell, Delaware over Bucknell, Lehigh over Lafayette, Toledo over Temple.

The Midwest

Michigan 27, Iowa 20 — But the Wolves better not fumble.
Colorado 20, Nebraska 14—On the rebound.
Michigan State 21, Northwestern 7—Spartans regain their punch.

Also: Wisconsin over Illinois, Missouri over Kansas State, Miami, Ohio, over Cincinnati, Wichita over Dayton, Ohio U. over Western Michigan.

The South

Mississippi 21, Tennessee 7—Must be geared to stop single wing.
Auburn 14, Georgia 7 — Neither scores big.
West Virginia 7, Indiana 6 — A hunch the Hoosiers won't be up.
Louisiana State 21, Mississippi State 6—Could be worse.

The Southwest

Texas 28, Texas Christian 14—Longhorns keep rolling.
Arkansas 20, Southern Methodist 7—Porkers score better.
Texas A&M 10, Rice 7—Risky.
Baylor 20, Air Force 14 — Fliers having rough season.

Also: Houston over Oklahoma State, Iowa State over Tulsa, Arizona over Texas Western, Arizona State over Detroit, West Texas State over New Mexico State.

The Far West

UCLA 21, Washington 14—Huskies should make it close.
Kansas 28, California 14—Hadl has Kansas in the groove now.
Stanford 14, Washington State 7—Consolation prize.

Also: Oregon State over Brigham Young, Montana over Idaho, San Jose State over Fresno State. Rockies: New Mexico over Colorado State.

DON'T!—The hunting season is on in many states and this picture should serve as a reminder of what NOT to do with your gun. Resting in this manner might result in resting forever. Be careful!

Pappas Is Injured

BALTIMORE (AP) — Milt Pappas, 22-year-old pitcher for the Baltimore Orioles, suffered a minor injury to his right throwing hand in an auto accident Tuesday.

Pappas also hurt his knees and throat when he was thrown against the steering wheel of his car.

Cards Lose Panfil For Colts' Game

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Ken Panfil, the St. Louis Cardinals' hard-luck tackle, was placed on the disabled list Wednesday for the balance of the 1961 National Football League season.

The Cards added Center Bob Griffin as Panfil's replacement for Sunday's game against the Baltimore Colts.

Panfil sprained his left knee in the Cards' first exhibition game Aug. 2 and saw only limited duty in three regular season games. He reinjured the knee Sunday in a 45-14 loss to Detroit.

HOW TO CUT HEAT COSTS:
6 tips that can help you get more warmth from your heating oil dollars

YOUR Shell Heating Oil supplier recommends these 6 ways to reduce heating costs and have a more comfortable home:

1. Keep your oil burner clean. Today's Shell Heating Oil contains special additive FOA-5X.® It helps keep critical burner parts free from clogging—assures better firing.

2. Guard against tank rust. Shell Sonitor® anti-rust treatment helps protect your storage tank for one full year, at no extra cost.

3. Check your thermostat location. If your thermostat is in a stairwell, on an outside wall or near an outside entrance—it may cause your burner to operate more often than necessary.

4. Shut off radiators or registers in rooms that aren't in regular use.

5. When fireplaces are not in use, make sure dampers are securely shut.

6. Keep attic ventilators closed during the heating season.

Gyro Scores At Aqueduct

Defeats Rose Net In Vosburgh 'Cap

NEW YORK, N. Y., Nov. 15 (AP) — Jagma stables' Gyro proved strongest in the stretch to win the 22nd running of the $23,000 Vosburgh handicap at Aqueduct race track today.

The 4-year-old son of Heliopolis-Gaffery, ridden by Braulio Baeza, scored by three quarters of a length over Foxcatcher Farms' Rose Net, who saved the place by a neck over Golden Triangle Stables' Humane Leader.

Four and a half lengths back came Edith L. Price's Yes You Will, the favorite with the crowd of 23,376.

Brookfield Farm's Intentionally, who had been rated an even money favorite to win the stake, was withdrawn just before post time because of track conditions.

Gyro, second choice in the wagering, returned the across the board mutuels of $6.10, $3.70 and $3.10. Rose Net paid $5.10 and $3.90 and Humane Leader was $4.00 to show.

Gyro won a net purse of $14,950.

Riotous Honeymoon With A Horse

Confusion Reigned When Donut King's Trainer Got Hitched

By FRANK ECK
Ap Newsfeatures Sports Editor

CAMDEN, N. J. (AP) — Nobody really can blame Donut King, the 2-year-old colt, for running into a blind switch at the first and last turns of the $301,365 Garden State, the world's richest race.

His connections believed that Eric Guerin on Green Ticket fouled the Donut on the clubhouse turn and that Steve Brooks on In Force fouled the Donut on the turn for home. Garden State stewards suspended Guerin 10 days after a second long look at the films, three days after the race.

Donut King was beaten by Crimson Satan, a fine chestnut red, by less than three lengths. But to Verne Winchell Jr., 45, the Alhambra, Calif., owner of Donut King, the margin of defeat offered little comfort. Neither did $60,000 second money.

The probable odds maker predicted Donut would be 6 to 5 but the public made Crimson Satan the choice at 13 to 10.

Less than two weeks before the race, Winchell might have known things weren't going as planned. His fine trainer, Ron McAnally, 33, from Covington, Ky., and Los Angeles, had some difficulty in getting married to attractive Dorothea Beatty, also from L. A.

Preliminary confusion reared its ugly head at the marriage license bureau. McAnally went to the $3 window off guard upon learning that Manny Ycaza, his talented rider, had been suspended. As Mac filled out the "I do" blank he was thinking of Don Pierce as a substitute rider for Donut King. So on the license in the space reserved for his name he wrote "Donut King."

"Good gosh," screamed Dorothea Beatty, "I'm marrying a horse!"

THE OWNER

and a horse, but at that moment the horse came first. He hadn't yet married the girl. So in writing his intended best man he gave the wrong wedding date.

They found a minister in Haddonfield, which is where Garden State race track is situated. He pronounced them man and wife after which McAnally pulled out a new $20 bill, gave it to his sub best man who gave it to the minister.

Nobody knew the minister was a numismatical man, one who collects bills and coins. The bill was so new that he hoped to save it. If you have a fairly new 20 it should say "The White House" on the rear. But the bill that married the McAnallys had a mint error. It just said "White House."

So the minister yelled "counterfeit" and called the FBI. Realizing there might be something foul at the race track, the FBI called John Madala, an ex-FBI man and the track's security director.

"I'll be right over and straighten things out," Madala informed the FBI. "I'll bet it's a good 20." It was, so the McAnallys didn't have to spend their first honeymoon night in the pokey.

The minister finally became convinced of the bill's authenticity, but when he looked at the marriage license he found the McAnallys weren't legally married. "Goodness," he said, "I didnt marry these people. It's a Camden license."

He called the McAnallys and told them he "married" them in the wrong county. The next morning the minister drove them toward the Camden bridge and said:

"I NOW pronounce you man and wife!"

The afternoon before they were married — the first time — Ron McAnally asked the young lady at the desk at the inn to please have his bags placed in Miss Beatty's room.

"We can't do that," the clerk said, and she called the assistant manager.

"I'm checking out of my room," McAnally told him. "I'd like to have my bags placed in Miss Beatty's room."

"I don't know about that," said the assistant manager. "We don't permit such things."

McAnally laughed then said: "Gosh, by the time I get back tonight Miss Beatty will be my wife."

Now there's no saying Donut King will or will not get to the Kentucky Derby next spring. But if he doesn't he will spoil a good horse story.

THE GROOM, THE HORSE AND THE LADY

THE TROUBLE I CAUSED: At least that's Donut King's expression as trainer Ron (Black Mack) McAnally and his bride, Dorothea Beatty McAnally, pose at his stall. Donut King is a son of Determine.

"He sure will," says Mrs. McAnally. "I followed a horse and a man clear across the country. I got my man. I only hope he loves me half as much as he loves Donut King. I also hope Donut King is the horse we all think he is. He certainly has caused a lot of trouble."

Resort Operator Flees Deer Hunting Area In Missouri

POPLAR BLUFF, Mo. (AP)—Dick Carroll, operator of a resort on Lake Wappapello, fled from the area Wednesday saying it was unsafe for the duration of the deer hunting season.

The lake area is swarming with hunters, including many who have less than a nodding acquaintance with their weapons.

"A man came to my place and asked me to show him how to load a deer rifle," Carroll explained. "I didn't even take time to load the rifle. I locked the place up and jumped in my car and drove into town. I intend to stay here until the deer season ends."

Market Registers Small Gain On Heavy Turnover

NEW YORK (UPI) — Stocks managed a small overall gain on heavy volume Wednesday. Big gains early in the day gave the popular market indicator just enough impetus to finish in record high territory despite a radical sell-off in the final hour.

Trading totaled 4,660,000 shares against 4,750,000 in the prior session. Turnover ran ahead of Tuesday when prices were rising but tapered off substantially during the late slump.

The market was 14 issues narrower than the prior session with 1,326 stocks traded. Of these 509 advanced, 105 to new highs, and 591 declined, only four to new lows.

Among the blue chips Chrysler fell 1¾ and Eastman Kodak and American Telephone 1⅛ apiece, while Sears Roebuck climbed 2, Woolworth 1¼, Owens-Illinois 1, Texaco 1⅜ and Union Carbide 1⅞.

Dow - Jones rails were down 0.68 with Kansas City Southern off 1 and 15 utilities rose to a new 32 year peak on a gain of 0.29. Boston Edison — not in the utility average — was outstanding in the group with a jump of 4¼.

Cards of Thanks

"THANKS"

We want to thank our good neighbors, relatives and friends, near and far,—and for the many ministers; for the many ways in which they all expressed to us their love and sympathy, through the long months of illness and the recent passing of our Dear Loved one.

Also we thank everyone in the Memorial Hospital, Cumberland, Md. and the Garrett County Memorial Hospital, Oakland, Md. who had any part whatsoever in the wonderful, tender care they gave him and to Mr. Leighton for Ambulance service to and from the hospitals. God Bless each and everyone.

MRS. G. M. POOL, SON PAUL, AND SISTERS.

MORTGAGEE'S SALE

of valuable property situate on Forrest Avenue in Bowman's Addition, Election District No. 5, in Allegany County, Maryland.

Under and by virtue of a power contained in a mortgage from Donald W. Moore and Bertha L. Moore, his wife, dated the 22nd day of October, 1959, and recorded in Liber No. 353, folio 51, one of the Mortgage Records of Allegany County, Maryland, default having occurred in the terms, conditions, and covenants of said mortgage, the undersigned, as assignee, will on the 2nd day of December, 1961, at (10:00 A. M.) Ten o'clock A. M., E. D. T., beside the Second National Bank on South Liberty Street, Cumberland, Maryland, sell at public auction to the highest bidder:

ALL that certain piece, parcel, or lot of land situate, lying, and being in Election District No. 5, Allegany County, Maryland, and which said parcel is Lot No. 118 and a part of Lots Nos. 119 and 121 and 122, as laid out on a plat of property known as "Glenora," and which parcel is more particularly described as follows:

BEGINNING for said parcel at a pin on the West side of Forest Avenue, said pin being at the end of a line drawn South 52½ degrees West 158 feet from the southeast corner of Charles Davis' house; and running thence North 46½ degrees East 280.90 feet to a fence; and with said fence South 33½ degrees East 95 feet; thence South 49½ degrees West 268.4 feet to Forest Avenue; and with said Avenue, North 46¼ degrees West 64 feet to the beginning; containing 21,920 square feet.

THE AFORESAID PROPERTY is the same property which was conveyed by deed dated the 22nd day of October, 1959, by Charles F. Davis and Vera B. Davis, his wife, to Donald W. Moore and Bertha L. Moore, his wife, and which said deed is duly recorded among the Land Records of Allegany County, Maryland, a specific reference to which said deed is hereby made for a full and particular description of the said land.

The said property is improved by a 3-room frame house, covered with Inselbric, and containing a bath, partial basement hot and cold running city water.

All State, County, and Municipal taxes and water rents will be adjusted as of the day of sale.

TERMS OF SALE: One-third cash on day of sale, balance on ratification of sale by the Court and delivery of deed.

Taxes Discriminatory

NEW YORK (UPI)—A spokesman for the National Association of Manufacturers said Wednesday that the administration's proposed investment tax credit plan would discriminate against companies which already have efficient productive facilities.

Roland M. Bixler, chairman of the NAM's taxation committee, said the plan "favors currently expanding firms at the expense of companies that have done a good job of modernization, expansion and job creation in previous years."

Hunters Warned About Shooting Near Dwellings

Game Warden Says Rabbit Crop Good

The 1961 hunting season on rabbits opened yesterday in Allegany County and game wardens received numerous complaints from residents who said hunters were shooting too close to their homes.

Joseph A. Minke, district game warden, said the majority of complaints came from persons living in the LaVale area.

Mr. Minke said it is unlawful to discharge firearms within 100 yards of an occupied dwelling and hunters should exercise care while in the woods.

Conviction under the law regarding discharging firearms calls for a fine between $20 and $50, Mr. Minke said.

Mr. Minke said the rabbit crop was better than anticipated, and many hunters got their limit (four) early in the day.

Optimists Honor Youth

"Youth Appreciation Week" was observed yesterday during the regular weekly dinner meeting of the Cumberland Optimist Club whose members gave a "pat on the back" to local youths who do not get into difficulty with the law. Presidents of three of five student councils of local high schools were guests at the dinner. Shown above, left to right, are W. Lester Hudson, president of the Optimist Club; Rev. Melvin Hughson, chaplain of the club and chairman of the youth appreciation committee; Miss Peggy Jo Mackert, Ursuline Academy; Charles Butt, Allegany High, and Peggy Groves, Fort Hill.

Frostburg Man Found Dead Of Bullet Wound

A Frostburg man died yesterday of a bullet wound in the head which police said he inflicted himself.

Edward L. Thomas, 57, of 221 Center Street, was pronounced dead on arrival at Miners Hospital at 6:20 p.m. by Dr. W. O. McLane, a deputy county medical examiner.

Frostburg Police Chief Leslie Bevan and Officer Allan Robison said Mr. Thomas and his son, Edward L. Thomas Jr., had gone to the site of a new house Edward Jr. has been building on Midlothian Road.

The elder Thomas went outside to his son's car and found his father dead of a bullet wound in his right temple.

Police said Mr. Thomas had used a .22 caliber revolver which his son kept in the car. They said Edward Jr. told them the pistol normally was unloaded, but they found six cartridges in the chamber, one of them discharged.

The officers said the younger Mr. Thomas told them his father had been in ill health in recent weeks.

Mr. Thomas was born February 21, 1904 in Frostburg, son of the late Llewelyn Evans and Ida (Sharpe) Thomas.

He worked at Celanese Fibers Company's Amcelle plant, and was a member of Local 1874, Textile Workers Union of America. He was a member of the Methodist Church and was a Mason.

Surviving, besides his son, are his wife, Mrs. Olive Mae (Knepp) Thomas, a daughter, Emmajean Thomas, at home; two brothers, William Thomas, Kingsville, Tex., and Daniel Thomas, Columbus, Ohio; one sister, Mrs. Mildred Davis, Westernport, and five grandchildren.

The body is at the Hafer Funeral Home in Frostburg, where the family will receive friends from 7 to 9 p.m. today and from 2 to 4 and 7 to 9 p.m. tomorrow.

Gephart PTA Meets Today

The second meeting of the Gephart School PTA will be held today at 7:30 p. m. in the school auditorium.

The program will be devoted to homeroom visitation, which will be divided into two 20-minute periods. A general conference also will be held concerning curriculum, methods and materials used in the respective grades.

The PTA will sponsor a style show and card party on November 29 at Ali Ghan Shrine Country Club. Fashions will be from Tots to Teens and tickets for the event are now on sale.

Parkside PTA Plans CD Program

Parkside PTA will meet tonight, beginning with room visitation at 7:30. A bake sale will be conducted by the mothers of the first and second grade students.

Civil Defense is the subject of the program. Louis Martins will speak on specially constructed fallout shelters and national preparedness.

The program will begin at 8 p. m., followed by a brief business session with John Robb presiding. Refreshments will be served by the home room mothers of the fourth and fifth grades.

Equity Suits Filed

A number of new equity suits have been filed in Allegany County Circuit Court. The bills of complaint were titled Jane Schaidt Robb vs. William Boothe Robb, Ira C. Holloway vs. Dorothy Jean Holloway, Ruby E. Martin vs. Edward M. Martin, and Lester Lee Moyer vs. Beulah Pearl Moyer.

City Directory Shows Big Change From 1873 Edition

By CHARLES H. KELLY
News Staff Writer

The Cumberland city directory of 1961, recently distributed after publication by R. L. Polk and Company of Pittsburgh, is somewhat larger in size with much more content than the director of 1873, the "local guide and business mirror" compiled by William H. Lowdermilk.

The 88-year-old edition is one of the oldest city directories found on the shelves of the Allegany County Public Library and was compiled when the Queen City was the "terminus of the Chesapeake and Ohio Canal which carries to tide water nearly a million tons of coal per annum."

At that time in the city's history, Wills Creek was the dividing line for local streets on the west side and east side of town. Alleys included Spruce, Walnut, Bridget, Huckleberry and Apple.

Scanning through the 82 pages of names of local residents that year indicates that they worked at jobs which have all but vanished from the workaday scene.

If you leaf through the 522 pages of names in the 1961 directory you'll find residents are employed as tire builders, chemical engineers, powder operators, glass cutters, refrigeration mechanics, television employes, textile engineers, quality controlmen, draftsmen and telephone company workers.

In 1873 John Weir operated "a first class billiard temple and dining saloon" at 117 Baltimore Street where one could purchase choice wines, liquors and cigars, oysters, and game in season.

At 152 North Centre Street, A. L. Withers and Son opreated a tanners and curriers business, and at 12 North Liberty Street, Donald Paisley was a dyer and scourer.

Those who walked by 63 North Mechanic Street that year were aware that William Horner was a dealer in rags of all descriptions, metals and bones.

Good stabling was furnished at the Shipley House, North Mechanic Street, according to an advertisement by John Cessna, proprietor, whose rate per day was $1.25.

H. Gerderman and Company, 227 North Mechanic Street, manufactured mineral waters, porter, ale, lager beer, tonic beer, ginger ale, syrups, etc.

One business establishment which is still on Baltimore Street is the S. T. Little Jewelry Store. In 1873 the watchmaker and jeweler was identified with the "Sign of the Big Watch."

Something new has been added to the 1961 city directory. Telephone numbers of residents are included in the section with streets and avenue addresses.

There are 816 pages in the newest edition, as compared to the 1873 directory, which had a little over 100 pages.

Eagles Meeting Set November 26 At Cresaptown

Cresaptown Aerie 2883, Fraternal Order of Eagles, will be host to the visit of State Aerie Officers and district meeting on Sunday, November 26 at its home long U. S. Route 220 in that community.

The state officers will meet at 12 noon and the district meeting will follow at 2 p. m.

On Saturday night there will be dancing and entertainment at the Eagles home for members and their ladies.

This is to be the last state-wide meeting of 1961 and each Aerie delegation is asked to be prepared to give a report on its plans and campaigns.

High School Prepares For Inspection

Paul D. Beable, principal of Valley High School, last night told a meeting of the Valley High Boosters Club the school has been making preparations to be examined next month by a committee from the Middle States Association for accrediting purposes.

Mr. Beable said the committee will consist of 14 persons. It will include an assistant superintendent, a college professor, and principals and teachers from Maryland and Pennsylvania.

Areas to be studied and evaluated include school philosophy, school and community, program of studies and all subject areas, student activity program, library services, guidance services, health services, school plant, school staff and administration.

Before the survey by the committee, the school will make a self-evaluation on the above areas, using the appropriate manuals and data blanks.

After the examination is completed, the school will be given a report of the findings, and several copies will be forwarded to the Middle States Association for study. The school will be notified later of the association's decision.

Births

Pfc. and Mrs. Ralph Wertz, former residents, announce the birth of a son November 11 at Cherry Point (N. C.) Marine Corps Base.

Mr. and Mrs. C. Richard Parker, 646 Colonial Drive, Orlando, Fla., announce the birth of a son there October 26. The paternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Parker Sr., 40 Pennsylvania Avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. James W. Twigg, 206 Fulton Street, a daughter yesterday.

Still 'Critical'

Attaches at Winchester (Va.) Memorial Hospital last night said that Mrs. Virginia Streets, 20, of Baltimore, formerly of McMullen Highway, remains "unconscious and in critical condition" with injuries she received in a one-car accident Sunday on U. S. Route 50 near Winchester.

Rummage Sale Friday

A rummage sale, sponsored by the Ruth-Naomi Bible Class of Zion United Church of Christ, will be held from 6 until 9 p. m. Friday at the church, 409 North Mechanic Street.

Service Unit Of Heart Assn. Meets Today

Will Review Study Of Community Needs

The Community Services Committee of the Allegany-Garrett County Heart Association will meet today at 1 p. m. at Sheehe's Restaurant to review its progress in the study of community needs and the adequacy of resources relative to the prevention of heart disease and the care of cardiovascular disease patients.

John Cobun, counselor for the State Department of Education division of vocational rehabilitation, is committee chairman, and also is a star of the board of directors of the Heart Association.

Other committee members are Mrs. William H. Macy, Mrs. William J. Gunter, Mrs. Betty Shobber, public health nurse; Mrs. Holmes Cessna, and Mrs. Edward P. Flanigan.

The two-county heart association, through its directors, has charged the group with the study of community needs in relation to heart disease, and the improvement and maintenance of desirable community services, in addition to necessary community projects.

The committee is guided by the consideration that Heart funds are not sufficient to defray costs of direct services to individual patients, but where the need exists, to invest through organized service programs.

The unit will make recommendations to the directors for the development of programs and demonstrate the need for such services. Public or private support on a permanent basis will be solicited when the need is confirmed by the board.

For effectiveness, the committee will coordinate its activities with those of the American Heart Association and the Heart Association of Maryland.

Fire Damages Frame Building

Two local fire companies answered a call last night at 1116 Virginia Avenue when fire broke out at Jack's Used Car Lot.

The fire was confined to a one-story frame building to the rear of the lot where an office and repair shop are housed.

One car was reported damaged by the fire and the interior of the building was damaged somewhat by water.

Shortly before 10 p.m. firemen from South End station went to the scene after Box 68 at Elder Street and Virginia Avenue was pulled.

Minutes later firemen from Central station were called to assist the South End company, which had the fire pretty well under control when Central arrived.

ACP Tour Next Week In Garrett

Forest Practices Will Be Viewed

Viewing forest conservation practices sanctioned by the Agriculture Conservation Program will be the highlight of a tour in Garrett County next week.

Clint Irwin, district forester, said yesterday that officials of the Maryland ACP committee, Garrett County ACP committee and the Department of Forests and Parks will take the tour Tuesday afternoon.

Later in the day they will meet at the ACP office in Oakland to discuss the various conservation practices including tree planting, timber stand improvement, old field plantings and coal stripped area planting.

The ACP is a federal plan which is administered by county committee and are beneficial to the nation in the long run, a spokesman said yesterday.

General conservation practices are usually modified to the county level by the committee which is made up of interested farmers and landowners.

Since the pulp wood market is located in nearby Luke, the wood producing industry is profitable in Garrett County.

Elbert Reilley, is manager of the ACP office in Oakland.

Those who plan to take the tour and attend the meeting are Dudley Aist, administrator of the ACP Service at College Park, members of the state ACP committee, H. C. Buckingham, state forester, A. P. Bond, assistant state forester and Mr. Irwin.

Three County Institutions Draw Praise

Magazine Article Commends Program

Allegany County is currently receiving nationwide publicity in an article appearing in the "County Officer," official publication of the National Association of County Officials.

Entitled "Dignity At Twilight," the article discusses the maintenance, operation and history of the county-supported Sylvan Retreat, County Infirmary and Allegany County Home, all located in the Valley Road section.

It says in part, "Growing old in the rugged mountains of Western Maryland has been a lot easier process for a lot of people since 1832, thanks to the aid program of Allegany County, Maryland (1960 population 84,169).

The first County Home was built in 1832. The present building dates from 1850 and houses an average of about 47 patients, male and female.

Low Cost Per Patient

"About $14,400 of the $67,384 total operating budget for the Home for the current year is recovered from payments made by the patients themselves, or by relatives. This, coupled with the money-saving self-help, results in a net operating budget for the Home of about $52,984 . . . or just under $3.09 per patient-day."

Sylvan Retreat was first licensed in 1878 and was established to care for patients suffering from senile dementia, the article explains. Other forms of mental illness, even among the aged, are referred to appropriate state facilities.

The article says, "maximum self-help is stressed. One group working under a paid full-time farmer, grows about a fourth of the food consumed in the Retreat. Three or four handymen are culled from among the patients to assist in maintenance of buildings and grounds. Women capable of work assist in the kitchen."

The total operating budget for the Retreat, the story continues, is $133,144 in local money. The state makes another $84,600 available and some $24,000 is recovered through payments made on behalf of patients. Operating cost is $3.32 per patient-day to the county.

Achievement "Remarkable"

"And when it is pointed out that this low-cost operation includes daily medical attention to patients, together with full-time head nurse, the achievement is the more remarkable," the magazine says.

Allegany County Infirmary was built in 1949 at a cost of $250,000. All patients are bed or wheelchair cases. The operating budget is $256,260. About $84,000 is reimbursed to the county through payments by the patient or his family, so that net operating cost is just under $5 per patient per day.

"Admissions to all three installations are controlled by the Board of County Commissioners, except that a two-doctor team must evaluate applicants and certify their eligibility for admission to the Retreat. Otherwise, needs and priorities govern admissions without regard to ability to pay. Operations are always at capacity. There is always a waiting list. Yet in the overall view the program is deemed adequate except in one field.

Omission Cited

"That field is the day-care of the type of patient who might be admitted to the County Home, and efforts are now under way to meet this need. The 1961 session of the General Assembly of Maryland pased legislation providing for state-sharing in the area of pubilc or non-profit day-nursing hours. If Allegany has its way it will be among the first to take advantage of this new act and thereby, meet its one mark of deficiency in its program for the care of the aged."

County Commissioner John T. Mason, commenting on the magazine story, said it is acurate but there is one important omission. He noted that the Allegany County Board of Public Welfare contributes up to $65 a month for indigent patients in the County Infirmary, which also reduces the cost of operation for the county. In some instances, the Welfare Board pays the entire $65, but in some cases where patients have a small income which can be used for this purpose, the Welfare Board makes up the difference, up to $65.

Man Found Guilty Of City Charge

A local man was fined $10.75 yesterday afternoon in police court when he was found guilty of stripping and dismatling his car in a residential area.

James Sathoff, 145 Hanover Street, was arrested recently by City Police Officer Clarence Valentine and was charged with the violation of City Ordinance Chapter 14, Section 62.

Will Build Home

Carl A. Redinger, local contractor, has secured a permit from the City of Cumberland to build a 1½ story dwelling with basement garage at 49 Somerville Avenue. It will be 34 by 28 feet and of brick veneer construction.

Farm-City Week To Be Observed At Kiwanis Meet

The Cumberland Kiwanis Club will be host to a number of Allegany County farmers today in observance of National Farm-City week.

Approximately 10 representative county farmers have accepted invitations to the luncheon meeting which will be held at 12:15 p. m. at Central YMCA.

Guest speaker for the meeting will be A. B. Hamilton, College Park, who is assistant to the dean of the College of Agriculture at the University of Maryland.

Mr. Hamilton is a former farm management specialist at the university and is a member of the state Farm-City Week committee. His special responsibility at the university involves short courses and foreign exchange students.

Byrd Says He Is 'Reasonable' Wing Politician

Candidate Attacks Sen. Butler's Position

WASHINGTON (AP)—A University of Maryland professor said Wednesday night he entered the race for Democratic nomination to the U. S. Senate because of the "unreasonable positions" Sen. John Marshall Butler, R-Md., has taken on numerous issues.

"I would like to be known as not of the conservative or reactionary wing nor yet of the liberal or radical wing—but, rather of the reasonable wing (in politics), wherever it may be found," Elbert M. Byrd Jr. said in an address at American University.

He spoke at the School of International Service lounge at a meeting sponsored by the university chapter of Americans For Democratic Action.

The history and government professor, who became the first Maryland Democrat to officially enter the Senate race last June, cited these as examples of "unreasonable positions" by Butler:

"It was not reasonable . . . to vote to give off-shore oil to special interests rather than set aside income from that oil for aid to education.

"It was not reasonable for him to vote to maintain oil depletion allowances while voting against raising the personal (income) tax exemption from $600 to $700.

"It was not reasonable for him to vote for exemption of federal regulation of natural gas . . . while opposing a tax reduction of $20 to each taxpayer during the 1955 recession.

Byrd said Butler also had been "unreasonable" in opposing voting rights for District of Columbia residents, admission of Hawaii and Alaska to statehood, the Depressed Areas Aid Bill (when unemployment had risen 13 per cent in Maryland) all proposals to raise the minimum wage and against general aid to education.

Deadline Set For Test List

Friday at 5 p.m. is the deadline for applications for seven promotional examinations in city departments and for the position of clerk in the Water Department.

Seven promotional examinations for police, fire and water departments will be given by the Civil Service Commission and the City of Cumberland Monday at 7 p.m. at Fort Hill High School.

Examinations are scheduled for lieutenant and captain in the Fire Department, for corporal, sergeant and detective in the Police Department and for superintendent and assistant superintendent for the Water Department.

Applications are also being accepted for the position of clerk in the Water Department. Requirements are for females between the ages of 18 and 30, residents of city for two years, high school graduates, familiar with bookkeeping and the operation of billing and addressing machines.

Applications for all positions can be obtained at the office of the city clerk at City Hall. They must be completed and returned to the clerk's office before 5 p.m. Friday.

Appeals Court Reverses Award By County Jury

Orders New Trial In Accident Case

The Maryland Court of Appeals yesterday said an Allegany County Circuit Court erred when it allowed a jury to determine that a local woman was 100 per cent disabled in an accident suffered while working for the Jewel Tea Company, Inc.

The Jewel Tea Company appealed the decision by the county jury which awarded Mrs. Josephine E. Blamble, 525 Maryland Avenue, $20,000 last fall.

According to The Associated Press, the Court of Appeals said, "The evidence produced on behalf of Mrs. Blamble's claim does not, in our opinion, meet the test of legal sufficiency under the authorities cited.

"Rather, the evidence as a whole leads to the conclusion that Mrs. Blamble was not in fact totally disabled as that term is defined in our compensation act."

The Court of Appeals reversed the Allegany County Circuit Court finding and remanded the case for a new trial.

Mrs. Blamble received a fractured ankle during the summer of 1959 and shortly afterwards suffered a heart attack while still a patient in the hospital.

The case originally was heard by the Workmens Compensation Commission, which awarded Mrs. Blamble $12,000.

However, both sides in the case appealed and the case then was tried last fall in Circuit Court.

William H. Geppert and Hugh McMullen represented the Jewel Tea Company, and Simon F. Reilly and Peter J. Carpenti were attorneys for Mrs. Blamble.

Pensioned Vets Must Report Income Change

Veterans receiving pensions may save themselves inconvenience, embarrassment and money, too, by notifying the Veterans Administration immediately when there is an increase in their annual income, according to Sam Weston of the local VA office.

Mr. Weston said the amount of a veteran's pension is based on his income and the number in his family — his wife and children. If any of these factors changes, his pension may change.

If the veteran receives additional income raising his total annual income, or if he inherits money or sells property of material value, the facts should be reported at once to VA.

For the same reason, Mr. Weston said, should the veteran return to work, or should his family status change, such as through divorce, death of his wife, marriage or death of a child, the birth of a child, or the marriage of the veteran, the VA should be informed immediately.

Failure of a veteran to report promptly the receipt of income above the legal limits would result in VA overpayments to him. The veteran would then be required to return all pension payments back to the first of the year. However, if the veteran notifies the VA promptly of an income increase above the statutory limits, the VA will adjust or discontinue pension payments for the remainder of that year and no overpayment will result.

Assistance or advice on any phase of benefits administered by the VA may be obtained at the local VA office, Room 308, Post Office building. Office hours are 8:30 a. m. until 5 p. m. Monday through Friday.

Church To Consecrate New Parsonage

The new parsonage of Cresaptown Methodist Church will be consecrated Sunday at 2 p. m., according to Rev. William M. Balderson, pastor.

Rev. Dr. Paul F. Warner, superintendent of the Hagerstown district, will be in charge of the consecration.

Following the service, "open house" will be held for all members and friends of the church.

Peace Corps Exams Set

Postmaster Thomas F. Conlon said yesterday the entrance test for the Peace Corps will be given at 8:30 a.m. Tuesday, November 28, and Wednesday, November 29, in the Civil Service Room at the Post Office. John W. Lee will be in charge.

COLLECTION DAY TODAY

Capping Ceremony Set December 13 For Red Cross Gray Lady Graduates

Ten women enrolled in a Red Cross Gray Lady class yesterday completed required visits to three local institutions and the examination for the course, according to Mrs. Sara G. Lindsay, executive secretary of Allegany Chapter.

The group visited Sacred Heart Hospital yesterday where they were welcomed by Sister Mary Richard, administrator, and then were conducted on a tour of the hospital by Sisters Natalie and John Mildred. Following the tour the women were guests of the hospital at a luncheon. Mrs. Mariette Early, director of nursing, Mrs. Helen Allen, Miss Catherine Stakem and Mrs. Frances Sponaugle were hostesses.

Both Sister Mary Richard and Mrs. Grim spoke to the class about the Gray Ladies who are now performing services at the institutions, and said they would welcome more Gray Ladies because of the personal services they can perform for the patients.

Mrs. Lindsay and Mrs. Edward Naughton, chairman of Gray Ladies, accompanied the class on visits to the three institutions.

Following the examination in the Red Cross office, a schedule was set up for class members to serve ten hours, on-the-job training, required to complete the course.

Capping ceremonies are scheduled for December 13 at the Woman's Civic Club house. A tea will be served and a new class of Red Cross staff aides will be pinned.

The Gray Lady class includes Mrs. Elizabeth A. Chaney, Mrs. R. J. Grasley, Mrs. Paul J. Hartung, Mrs. Lewis A. Jones, Mrs. Thomas Montgomery, Mrs. Jennie Peebles, Mrs. Fred B. Valentine, Mrs. Elinor White, Mrs. Carlton J. Beck and Mrs. Michael Humbertson. Mrs. Humbertson plans to serve at Miners Hospital when she completes the course.
